Fingernail Photography.

"Would you like your sweetheart's portrait placed on your fingernails?" is a unusual query at most of the well Berlin manicurists just now. The new fad grew out of a whim of a pretty cousin of the Kaiser who had an enameled portrait of her fiance worked on the nail of her little finger. The portrait was a gem of art in its way and cost $50. The manicurists took up the idea, and now, for a small fee of 20 marks—about $5—you can have anyone's photograph placed on your fingernail. The main skill of the manicurist consists in rendering the photograph watertight; which is done by coating it over with a shellac-like substance, which is burned upon the nail. This is the only painful element of the strange process.

Quite a number of society dames have taken to the idea and everywhere you go you see fingernail photography. Mothers have pictures of their favorite and prettiest children placed on their fingernails; young men and maidens display their sweethearts in the same fashion, and the fad has spread marvelously since it was first introduced. A portrait on a fingernail will last with careful handling, about four months without renewal.

Their Art Was Swamped by Photo-Mechanical Process, but May Be Revived.

The possibility of a revival of the art of wood engraving is an ever-recurring subject of discussion. It will be found to lie in painter-engraving, that is original effort, rather than in the reproductive art in which so consummate an achievement was attained in our days.

In the last quarter of the nineteenth century the United States witnessed a development of reproductive wood engraving carried to what was apparently the limit of its possibilities in the suggestion of tones and textures. The glorious period of success was as remarkable in its products as it was short in duration. The photo-mechanical process, particularly the now ubiquitous half-tone, swept all before them, and only two noteworthy members of the group of men who made American wood engraving famous—Cole and Wolf—are today still regularly practicing the art.

The decay of wood engraving has been deplored in print and speech not a few times, and not infrequently in apparent forgetfulness of the fact that not only will necessity insure the survival of that which fits its case, but in this case the revival is already with us. But the art has arisen in a new form, or rather there is a renaissance of an old form. It is an open question whether there will ever again be a general use of wood engraving for the purpose of reproducing paintings or drawings or photographs. But there is no doubt that an increasing number of artists have been turning to the wood block, as they have to etching or lithography, as a means of original, direct expression. Painter-wood-engraving is coming to its own.

In this country, the desire for original work first took the form of engraving direct from nature by some of the men who had helped to bring reproductive wood engraving to its high state of development. Elbridge Kingsley, W. B. Closson, the late Victor Bernstrom, Henry Wolf and Frank French, long known as discerning interpreters of the designs and paintings of others, felt the impulse of original creation and brought to its service their long training and artistic temperament.—Weitenkampf in Scribner's.

Learn to Swim.

Of the thirty-third victim of drowning in the waters near St. Louis this season his mother said: "He was a wonderful athlete. He could do anything except swim, and I'm sure I don't know why he never learned." It is evident that this mother was not averse to her son's learning to swim. Unfortunately many women are opposed to boys acquiring this useful art, fearing accidents while learning. This is unwise.

If one travels at all, it is impossible to avoid the water. With two-thirds of the earth's surface covered by water the chances are numerous that ignorance of swimming may be fatal. Swimming is one of the most healthful and enjoyable of exercises, with advantages of still greater importance. The drowning of good swimmers is exceptional, while the loss of life of those who cannot swim and get into deep water is the rule. Swimming should be taught in all the schools, and those who have not acquired the art as children should learn it at once.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Bishop Was Ready for Them.

A story is told of a certain Norman bishop, who preached so eloquently against the wearing of long hair before Henry I. and his courtiers, that they gave in on the spot and agreed to have their locks shorn. No sooner had they made their decision than the wise prelate, who had provided for just such a contingency, pulled out a pair of shears from his sleeve and soon removed the curls of the whole court.

Benny on the Carp.
The German carp is a creature shaped so as to resemble a fish. It can swim in any kind of water, and has one eye on each side of its head. Its food consists of small black bass and three cornered pieces of boiled potato. You catch a carp by throwing a stone in the water to attract its attention and then letting down a hook baited with a nice piece of garbage. There are people in St. Joe who will pay ten or fifteen cents for a big, fat carp, but as for me I would rather have a Welsh rabbit or a pound of angel cake.—"Benny," in the Chicago Tribune.

Sure Enough.

The teacher had been telling the class about the rhinoceros family. "Now, name some things," said she, "that are very dangerous to get near to, and that have horns." "Automobiles!" replied little Jennie Jones, promptly.—Unidentified.

NEWS for the YOUNG PEOPLE

HOME-MADE YANKEE BOBSLED

Excellent Coasting Sled May Be Put Together by Handy Youngster—Easy to Guide.

A good coasting sled, which I call a Yankee bob, can be made from two hardwood barrel staves, two pieces of 2 by 6-inch pine, a piece of hardwood for the rudder and a few pieces of boards, writes William Aigle, Jr., of Little Falls, N. Y., in Popular Mechanics. The 2 by 6-inch pieces should be a little longer than one-third the length of the staves, and each piece cut tapering from the widest part, 6 inches, down to 2 inches, and then fastened to the staves with large wood screws as shown in Fig. 1. Boards 1 inch thick are nailed on top of the pieces for a seat to hold the runners together. The boards should be of such a length as to make the runners about eighteen inches apart.

A 2-inch shaft of wood, Fig. 2, is turned down to 1 inch on the ends and put through holes that must be bored in the front ends of the 2 by 6-inch pieces. A small pin is put through each end of the shaft to keep it in place. The rudder is a 1 1/2-inch hardwood piece which should be tapered to one-half inch at the bottom and shod with a thin piece of iron. A half-inch hole is bored through the center of the shaft and a lag screw put through and turned in the rudder piece, making it so the rudder will turn right and left, and also, up and down. Two cleats are nailed to the upper sides of the runners and in the middle lengthways for the person's heels to rest against.

Any child can guide this bob, as all he has to do is to guide the rudder right and left to go in the direction named. If he wants to stop, he pulls up on the handle and the heel of the rudder will dig into the snow, causing too much friction for the sled to go any further.

NEW DOLL IS QUITE USEFUL

Little Girls Can Use it as Muff to Keep Their Hands Warm—Invented by New Yorker.

A doll that is also a muff, or a muff that is a doll, whichever way you like, has been invented by a New York man. The doll has the outward semblance of others of its kind, but inside the skirt is a soft body with hand-openings on each side. This dollie, of course, is a winter child and wears a long coat like her owner, the coat having wide side pockets, so that the little girl carrying it can slip her hands through into the soft muff inside. To enhance the effect the doll also carries a muff. But it is not only children who may be looked for to carry this doll muff. In these faddish days when young women carry teddy bears, stuffed dogs and even dolls on the street, there is no reason why they should not carry one of these childie toys as a hand-warmer and achieve the double success of attracting attention at the same time.

An Unexpected Find.

You are always likely to find things when you least expect. For instance, there is the story now going the rounds of the newspapers about the woman in Connecticut who was preparing a leg of lamb for dinner when out dropped a diamond worth $300. The woman had not the least expectation of finding a diamond in the roast. On the other hand, if you have roast lamb every day for dinner for a year and examine each roast with a microscope and an X-ray machine it is 17,000,000 to one that you will not even find a $200 diamond.

Why Old Myths Survive.

The destroyers of fine dramatic myths tell us nowadays that the Caliph Omar did not burn the ancient library of Alexandria, and therefore did not have a chance to say that all the books in it that agreed with the Koran were superfluous, and all that disagreed with the Koran were pernicious. Doubtless the perennial freshness and vitality of the tale are due to an everlasting normal human hatred of weed-grown, literary graveyards.

Ray-Killed Bacteria.
A method for sterilizing milk without heating or adding preservatives is claimed to have been effectively demonstrated recently in Holland. An apparatus has been constructed, it is explained, whereby the milk flows in a thin stream along an electric light, the ultra-violet beams working on the bacteria. The result is attributed to the quality of the ozone formed under the influence of the light.—The Argonaut.
