Bird Music? Bah! Lying on the soft grass before his tent a camper sipped a tin cup of coffee and listened to the birds.

"You'd think from all this pure melody," he said, "that birds were musical—that, like the New York critics, they loved the best and only the best. But, as a matter of fact, they have a degraded taste. The thrush and the lark are as wrong in their musical ideas as Puccini and Leoncavallo are said to be.

"I have tested the thrush. I have set him to learning the notes of the nightingale's divine music. He will have none of it. The sparrow's ugly twitter, on the other hand, he masters with delight.

"The finch and the mockingbird are the same. They won't learn fine music, the music of Beethoven or Chopin or Wagner, but they take to rag-time and jigs like a pig to hog-wash.

"Hark to that burst of melody from the pine cone! You'd think the singers inspired. But if thrush or lark or mockingbird went to New York, the critics would say their music was as rotten as that of Thais of Tosca.

DIRIGIBLE SLED IS NOVELTY

Boy's Ordinary Sled May Also Be Combined With Handcar to Make Motor—Should be Low.

(By J. A. BERGSTROM, in the Scientific American.)

The accompanying illustrations show how an ordinary sled may be converted into a dirigible sled, and how it may be combined with a boy's hand car to make a motor sled.

Unlike the ordinary sled, that is steered by digging in the heels, or dragging the feet in the snow, from one side to the other, thereby checking the speed of the sled, the sled here shown has flexible runners, which may be curved to one side or the other by a steering bar, causing the runners to follow smoothly in the curving tracks. The sled should be built low and narrow, and the runners should extend well forward and rearward, which will materially add to the speed of the sled when coasting down a hill.

Fig. 1 shows an ordinary girl's sled, which is made into a flexible or dirigible sled. The top part of the runners, shown in dotted lines, is cut off on a level with the seat and the ends are fastened together with a transverse bar a, made of iron or wood. From this bar, one on each side of the seat and parallel therewith, these bars b, are fastened to all the standards of the sled. On the front bar is fastened a steering lever c, which is fulcrumed by the rearward-extending arms d to the front part of the seat of the sled. It is now evident that when the operator wishes to steer to the right, he presses the lever with the left foot, and vice versa. As the steering lever is thus moved, it will be noticed that it moves the transverse bar to one side or the other, thereby curving the runners in the same direction, which will then follow smoothly in the curved tracks.

It will be noticed from the plan view, Fig. 2, that the end standard is bolted to the seat of the sled, and that the other two standards are not, so as to allow a free movement of the runners when operated upon by the steering lever.

Two pieces of wood should be fastened under the seat, a short distance each side of the forward standard, to allow for side movement.

The old iron shoes on the wood runners should be taken off and curved or hollowed as shown in Fig. 4, or may be replaced by new ones. By referring to Fig. 2, it will be seen how this curving of the shoe may be accomplished. A shallow groove is made in a block of hard wood, over which the thin steel shoe is placed. A short piece of round iron is laid on the shoe top; the latter is then hammered into the groove, assuming the hollowed or concave form.

Rivet the shoe on the runner, which should be hollowed out a little to fit. The object of the concave form of runners is the same as that of hollow ground skates. The outside edges have a tendency to dig into the ice or snow, and keep the sled in its course, or in "the same rut;" but when thrown out of line with the steering lever, they seem to take hold of the snow and change the course of the sled.

This is the first time the above-mentioned preparations have been offered for sale in America. A limited supply is to be had by addressing:

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife,

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer your letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed.

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

His Security. When Elson Folsom asked Squire Lane to lend him $200 to invest in that dry good business, the squire inquired what Mr. Folsom had to offer him in the way of security.

"Security?" said Eben, with an air of injured dignity. "Well, squire, I'll tell you what I have to offer: Three solid silver teaspoons, a handsome brass warming-pan, a pair of decalcomany vases, large size, and the material for as much as three feather beds, if not four, right on the backs of my flock of geese, and five Plymouth Rock hens.

Novelty Brings Profits. A New York grocer has combined an advertising novelty and a source of profit in a butter churn, which is in almost constant operation in his store. The churn is driven by a small electric motor and the scheme is to sell a patron a quantity of cream and then, for a small charge, churn it into butter. The operation takes but a few minutes.

The Chicago fire could have been prevented with one pail of water, but the water was not handy. Keep a bottle of Hamlin's Wizard Oil handy and prevent the fiery pains of inflammation.

Carried Off Dickens Debris. Everybody knew Dickens. He could not dine in public without attracting attention.
