Lend a Hand Society.

The delegates from three organizations met in call session in the library at 7:30 Saturday evening, Oct. 12th. As a number of other organizations had sent word they intended to cooperate it was decided to elect officers for three months only. Mrs. Barber acted as temporary chairman. "Lend a Hand" was chosen as the name of this delegated body; its object is to put the benevolent work of the town on a systematic basis and, if feasible, in the future to establish and maintain a free bed in our local hospital.

The following women were elected officers, although it is hoped that some or all of the men's lodges will send delegates who will hold some of the offices. Mrs. L. I. Allen, President; Mrs. B. F. White, Vice President; Mrs. O. M. Sanford, General Secretary. The office of Treasurer was left vacant until the next meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 22nd at 7:30 p. m. in the library. Will each society, lodge and church send two delegates?

An excellent substitute for butter fat in the milk given the growing calves is linseed meal. This is best prepared for use by scalding a little of the meal with hot water and adding to the warm milk. A small quantity—not more than a tablespoonful—should be given to start with, but this may be increased in the course of three or four weeks to a good sized handful twice a day.

A Missouri feeder, a son of the lately deceased millionaire farmer, David Rankin of Tarkio, is an enthusiastic believer in corn silage as an ideal ration with alfalfa for fattening steers. At present he has some twenty carloads of steers in his yards. His experience, covering several years, convinces him that ensilage is both the cheapest and best ration that the corn belt cattle feeder can have.

Studies of the root system of a number of kinds of cultivated plants show that they penetrate to a far greater depth than is generally supposed. It has been found that potatoes send roots down from two to three feet; that corn penetrates to a depth of from five to six feet in humid sections and to a depth of eight feet in drier country. The roots of mature alfalfa attain a length of from twenty to fifty feet.

As a result of experiments that have been conducted at the government laboratory at Wausau, Wis., it has been found possible to make paper from Jack pine, hemlock and spruce. In the past spruce alone has been used, but the experiments conducted show that a pulp made of the three has been found satisfactory. Similar experiments conducted a short time before at Lebanon, Ore., show that excellent paper may be made from the otherwise worthless Jack or black pine.
