Collecting County Taxes.

HILLSBORO, ORE.—Tax collection commenced Monday, being a few days later than last year. The tax roll consists of five large volumes, and the valuation is the highest in the history of the county, lacking only $180 of being $20,000,000. The total tax amounts to $500,000.

Pacific Second Semester Opens.

Chapel exercises Wednesday morning marked the opening of the second semester of Pacific University for 1913. In addition to the students a number of Grove residents were present. Rev. D. Brewer Eddy, of Boston, gave an excellent and instructive talk on student responsibility in mission work.

Firemen Will Dance.

Unique and fanciful costumes will be the fashion to-morrow night at the grand masquerade ball of the Forest Grove Volunteer Fire Department, to be held in the Knights of Pythias hall. Great preparations are being made by the lovers of the light fantastic to participate in this unusual and attractive event, and the prize which is to be awarded for the best waltzing couple will be eagerly contested for, if all indications are correct.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WHEN SERVING HAM.

WHEN a whole ham is to be cooked scrub it, trim off the hard dark parts, cover with cold water and let it simmer slowly, allowing a half hour for each pound. When it is taken off the fire let it stay in the water until the liquid is nearly cold, then peel off the skin and sprinkle with sugar and cracker crumbs.

Some suggestions for cooking ham, which is a favorite cold weather food, are given here.

Substantial Viands.

Ham With Cream Sauce.—Trim the edges off a slice of ham, put into a hot frying pan with one teaspoonful of drippings, put over a hot fire and keep turning the ham constantly. When nice and brown on both sides remove to a hot platter. Put a tablespoonful of flour into pan, mix well and add one cupful of cold milk. Stir and boil three minutes. Pour over the ham and then serve.

Broiled Ham.—Take ham sliced rather thick. Freshen it by soaking in cold water overnight or by parboiling it in water. Wipe dry, place between the bars of a gridiron and brown slightly on both sides. Season with pepper and serve very hot.

Novel Recipes.

Baked Ham in Crust.—Take a ham and allow it to remain in water overnight. Wipe it dry, trim away any rusty places and cover with a simple crust, taking care that it is thick enough to keep the gray in. Place in a moderately heated oven and bake for nearly four hours. Take off the crust, then cover with breadcrumbs and garnish the knuckle with a paper frill. Serve plain or with sauce.

Cannapees of Ham.—Take three ounces of cooked lean ham, place in a mortar and pound it for several minutes until it is a smooth pulp, then add half an ounce of butter, two table-spoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce, half a salt-spoonful of cayenne pepper and half a teaspoonful of French mustard. Pound the whole well together for five minutes more, then place the paste on a plate. Toast six slices of bread, two inches in diameter and a quarter of an inch thick. Spread the ham evenly on the six toasts and with the knife give the paste a nice dome shape.

INSIDE PIGEON INFORMATION.

When pigeons mate it's generally a lovey dove union for life, the cock selecting the nest and bearing the nest material, which the hen arranges and then proceeds to lay her first egg at 5:30 p. m. one day and the second at 2:30 p. m. the third day. They sit alternately, the hen from about 3 p. m. to 10 a. m. and the male then to the afternoon hour.

About seventeen days after the first egg is laid it hatches. The other one two days later, the first squab generally being the male.

Like kittens, the downy squabs are born blind, and the parents at once begin to feed them pigeon milk, nature wonderfully providing for the helpless by so constituting parent pigeons that they are able to change grain to chyme, a milky, predigested food, and they simply take the bird baby's beak in their own and by a spasmodic action of their crop inject the liquid into the squab's crop.

As squabs grow the old birds modify the feed to coarser, and when young birds are able to digest it the whole grain is simply soaked in parents' crop until, at five weeks, the squabs feed themselves.

If small squabs die it is often necessary to borrow young of same age from another nest to feed off the old birds' milk or they get sick, and it's sometimes the case that squabs choke to death when parents begin to feed whole grain, their throats being too small to receive it, and an examination will show one or both parents have the same bad defect, which unfits them for anything but potpie.

Pigeons are wonderfully prolific, twelve pairs a year being no unusual record birds often feeding one set of squabs and hatching another at the same time.

Pigeon fanciers to succeed must be watchful and resourceful, for many things occur that require quick action.

Pigeons at times refuse to warm their young, and they quick chill.

At once the breeder transfers them to a vacant nest, and if there is none he kills a pair of inferior or younger squabs, transfers the waifs and saves them.

At times old birds desert squabs, or, strangely, only feed one. If there is no other nest to transfer to, the fancier must play mammy to save the starving ones.

He chews stale bread to a milky state, or corn, peas and red wheat, according to squab's age, and, taking bird's beak between his lips, he injects the soft feed into squab's crop, and the little fellow soon becomes attached to his wet nurse and thrives.

"Horrible!" says one. But the pigeon lover, the successful squabber, is not squeamish; he does not belong to the kid glove fraternity and would sooner a hundred times take a bird's beak in his mouth than the cigarettes smoked by these yellow fingered, soft headed society dudes.

DON'TS.

Don't let hens run in cold fall rains. They will not pick up enough to pay their undertakers' bills.

Don't feed cut clover with coarse stems. These should be sifted out, as they are apt to cause hard crop.

Don't expect hens not to break eggs in nests that are too small, and don't get mad if they fight and scramble eggs where there are not sufficient nests.

Don't expect your hens not to loaf if you let them fill up. Feed just enough to keep them working well all day, and let them have the full meal for supper to keep their grinders going all night.

Don't get discouraged and blame that failure on the hens. You must not only study your hens, but yourself, and the results of your methods and failure may nearly always be traced to the fellow behind the hens.

TWO INJURED BY GASOLINE

Guest at Hotel Puts Out Fire at North Plains With Flour.

NORTH PLAINS, OR.—A pressure gasoline tank used in connection with the lighting plant of the North Plains Hotel, exploded Friday night, doing considerable damage, and, but for the timely action of one of the guests, two persons would have been burned to death. This guest was the first person on the scene after the explosion, and two men were almost entirely aflame. He ripped open a sack of flour and poured its contents over them and then smothered the fire in the wood-work the same way. In all 500 pounds of flour were used for this purpose, which is credited with saving the hotel and several valuable adjoining buildings.

The injured men were sent to a hospital in Portland, and one is in a critical condition. The flesh from his face, hands and forearms is almost burned off; the other was only slightly injured.
