HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Insomnia.
Two of the chief causes of insomnia are mental excitement and overfatigue. One of the best means of combating the first is a long tepid bath just before retiring. Meet overfatigue with some simple, warm, nutritious drink. Then do not make an effort to sleep. Make yourself perfectly comfortable, and even if you lie awake for a time you will suffer little harm from the insomnia. Never use artificial means on your own impulse.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM

Washington a Friend of the Public School.

In the immortal "Farewell Address," George Washington left a series of precepts for the guidance of his countrymen. He foresaw the importance of universal education when he said: "In proportion as the structure of government gives force to public opinion, it is important that public opinion be enlightened. Promote then as an object of primary importance institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge."

No institution reaches all classes of people as does the public school. No institution is more vitally connected with the general diffusion of knowledge than the public school. When a community invests money in its public schools, either in teachers, equipment or buildings it is investing that money in the best grade of gilt edged security. No other investment that it makes brings such sure and beneficial returns.

A community that does not support its public schools deserves and soon earns the reproach of progressive people everywhere. Stinginess toward the schools is a pennywise and pound foolish policy in as much as it serves to keep away prospective residents who might move in, build homes and invest their wealth and so help to lessen the amount that each would be called upon to contribute to the common good.

Forest Grove has acquired an admirable water system, an efficient lighting plant, is paving and improving its streets. The next great need is the improving and adequate housing of its public schools. W. M. Proctor.

Work upon the Odd Fellows' building has been resumed with the coming of warmer weather, and the structure will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES.

BAKING potatoes is one of the most wholesome ways of preparing them. There are many methods of serving them thus besides the simple, old fashioned one of bringing them to the table baked au naturel.

Among these methods may be mentioned the following:

Potatoes With Onions.
Stuffed Potatoes With Onion.—Take large, even sized potatoes and for each potato allow a tablespoonful of stale grated cheese, a teaspoonful of minced cold bacon and a teaspoonful each of chopped onion, parsley and drippings.

Scrub the potatoes and bake them until they are soft inside. Cut one end off each and scoop out the interior with a small spoon. Mash this smoothly and mix it with the cheese, meat, parsley, onion, warmed drippings and seasoning. Refill the skins with this. Reheat until hot through and serve at once.

Spanish Potatoes.—Scrub and bake six medium sized potatoes, cut open lengthwise and take out the inside. Mash the potatoes with grated onion, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of butter and a cupful of cream or milk. Replace the mashed potato, dividing equally among the twelve shells. Place a slice of bacon on the top of each and brown in the oven.

Potatoes and Ham.
Stuffed Potatoes With Ham and Peppers.—Peel good sized potatoes and hollow out a space in each, leaving a canoe or boat shaped piece. Fill the hollows with a mixture of chopped ham, chopped hard boiled egg and chopped green peppers, seasoning to taste with salt, pepper and melted butter. Bake until the potatoes are done.

Stuffed Potatoes With Eggs.—Take six potatoes; put them in the oven without peeling. When done take out the insides, but preserve the shape of the potatoes. Put the insides of the potatoes in a basin and add one and a half ounces of butter and salt and pepper to taste. Mix together until light and add two well beaten whites of eggs and stir all together. Fill the potato skins with the paste, first rolling each piece in beaten yolk of egg; then bake in the oven. Serve as soon as the tops are well browned or in from ten to fifteen minutes.

Whose Advertising Bills are YOU Paying?

When you buy something at a store that does not advertise, you help pay for the publicity of the store that DOES advertise!

The proposition is a perfectly logical one.

Advertising enables a merchant to sell more goods in a day. Thus his daily operating expenses is collected from a large number of customers—instead of from a few.

Assuming that he sells ten times as much merchandise as the non-advertising store sells, he is enabled to greatly undersell his slower competitor, and still make a larger aggregate profit.

The penalty—the tax—therefore, is paid by the hapless shopper who goes to the non-advertising store; and who, by paying a higher price, indirectly "pays for the advertising" that the live merchant does.

Assuredly the patron of the advertising merchant does not "pay for his advertising," for, because of the advertising, such patron saves money on her purchase!
