DEVOTED TO THE W. C. T. U.

Edited by Mrs. Katherine R. Kerr

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the Congregational church at 3 p. m., May 16. After the devotional exercises were over the president, Mrs. Wm. Kerr, introduced Senator Hollis to the meeting. He first spoke to the ladies on the impressions received at his recent visit to the state penitentiary. He interviewed about 60 of the men. He was also impressed that so large a per cent of the criminals were there through the use and influence of liquor. He then proceeded to explain in a very interesting manner the initiative and referendum, citing instances of both petitions. Questions were asked by several of the ladies present. At the close of his talk the president asked for a rising vote of thanks to the senator, and a large bouquet was sent to the senator's office.

We must be as good natured as sunshine, steadfast as gravitation and persistent as a Christian's faith.—Frances E. Willard

One of the worst habits in boyhood is the cigarette habit. If it gets a hold on the boy in young boyhood, it invites all the other bad habits to come and complete the downfall of the boy. I see the boys coming to and from school lighting the cigarette that I am sure, if they were put on oath could not swear to being fourteen, and yet the new tobacco law says these boys can be arrested without a warrant if seen smoking on the streets or highways. Can our officials know of this law, or is it like many of our laws, simply on the statute books and not enforced.

The Pennsylvania legislature not only passed the woman suffrage amendment, but has passed a mothers' pension bill, which is quite unique in providing that a committee of women appointed by the governor shall select the cases to be pensioned.

Children certainly have a right to be well born and they also have a right to be well trained. There are at the present time so few families whose children are taught to respect the rights of others. I certainly do not think the children of this community know anything of the rights of others or are taught the Golden rule; and whose fault is this, the parents certainly. Are the mothers and fathers not forgetting to teach the children the lessons that will make them thoughtful of the comfort of others, lessons that will make them a benefit to the world and not a curse. If this spirit of love and respect for the rights of others were taught the children we would not have the unpleasant scenes of child life we see on our streets today, but they would be, as I say, a blessing to their parents, and an honor to the world, and what would bring them greater happiness.

HOW TO MAKE TRIPE PALATABLE

MANY persons are prejudiced against tripe. This prejudice is foolish. Tripe is, of course, the stomach and intestinal tissue of the beef, but before being offered for sale it has been well cleaned and boiled. It is a food easy to digest, as much of it turns to gelatin in boiling. It is prescribed often in cases of stomach troubles and dyspepsia.

Palatable Foods.

Tripe Lyonnaise.—Take the tripe, wash it thoroughly and cut into small pieces, then place in a saucepan and cover with boiling water, cooking until tender. Drain off all the water, and put in with the tripe one tablespoonful of browned butter, in which has been fried one small onion, cut into thin slices; one tablespoonful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of mixed parsley and salt and pepper to taste. Cook for ten minutes and serve on slices of toasted bread.

Tripe Fried.—Take a pound of pickled tripe and soak it for about half an hour in salted water. Drain on a soft cloth and sprinkle with one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Dip in beaten egg and roll in finely powdered bread-crumbs. Fry in one teaspoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of lard until golden brown. Garnish with parsley.

Easily Digested Fare.

Stewed Tripe.—Take half a pound of tripe, an onion, half a pint of milk, one dessertspoonful of flour, pepper and salt. Blanch the tripe. Remove all fat and cut into square pieces. Put the tripe, the onion, finely chopped, and the milk into a saucepan. Season with pepper and salt. Simmer gently for a couple of hours. Mix the flour with a little cold milk and mix it in. Stir until it boils up. Serve hot.

Tripe Soup.—Take half a pound of tripe, three pints of water, a turnip, a carrot, three onions, seasoning herbs, parsley, half a pint of cold milk and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch. First scald the tripe and cut it into very small pieces before setting on to boil with the cold water and herbs. Chop all the vegetables into small pieces, add to the tripe and boil slowly for one hour and a half. Then take the cornstarch, work it into a paste with a little cold milk. Add to the boiling soup and stir over the fire for ten minutes. Just before serving add the rest of the milk, the chopped parsley, with pepper and salt to taste. Serve the soup very hot with fried bread.
