BAD ROADS TAKE UP ALL PROFITS

A Graduated System of Construction Necessary at First

"Good Roads Activities in the Northwest" by Walter C. Tiffany in the August issue of the Review of Reviews contains the following striking statistics:

The farmer and the business man as well, has at last come to realize the losses he suffers from bad roads, and the magnitude of the movement to better conditions is little appreciated by those whose interests have not brought them in contact with it. The cost of bad roads has long been known in a vague way, but recent scientific investigations have brought the matter home in tangible form to those who suffer from them. One of the most thorough investigations of the subject ever conducted, the results of which are used as a text wherever the doctrine of good roads is preached, was made by the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association.

The committee made the following deductions: On account of bad roads each farmer lost for the year $1.70 for each acre that he farmed; 13 cents every time he carried a ton of farm produce over one mile of bad roads; 9 per cent of his total crop. He paid as much for bad roads as for labor; more than for feed for his stock; twenty five times as much as for fertilizer. The total loss to the farmers in this district for the year from this cause would have bought all the corn produced in it, or all the wheat, or the oat crop twice over, or all but 10 per cent of the potatoes, or all the barley, rye, flax seed, timothy seed, hay and forage combined. The losses would replace the farm implements or the cattle every three years, the horses every four years, and would pay off all the mortgages in the district in three years, with $100,000 to spare.

The farmers, moreover, were not the only losers from bad roads. The committee found that the worst sections in the roads they had to travel between their farms and market were within the city limits; that there were approximately 3600 business houses in Minneapolis, employing 5000 wagons, whose loss from bad roads was $10,000 for the year.

The combined loss of the farmers, merchants and manufacturers for one year was $1,518,000. As there are 3000 miles of roads in the districts, which could have been kept in good condition for $3000 a year, if properly constructed, in order to ascertain what amount could profitably be invested in good roads, the committee deducted this amount from the total loss, leaving $1,200,000. Capitalized at 4 1/2 per cent or 5 per cent, which is more than bonds would cost, the principal is $22,000,000. If this amount were invested in good highways at $7000 a mile, the district would still break even on the investment.

Just as cheap railroad construction was necessary at first to make possible the spanning of the immense unsettled areas traversed by the transcontinental lines, dirt and gravel roads must in many instances precede water-bound macadam or concrete, even where the present traffic is heavy. Isolated stretches of high cost highways are of little more value than similar stretches of rock-ballasted, heavy steel rail constructed railroads would have been. The great arterial highways of a country demand the best roads it can afford, and the main-traveled roads adjacent to large cities a still better type, while for less traveled roads dirt shale, sand-clay or gravel must suffice. On this principle, road construction is now being done in many localities of the Northwest.

Their Reward

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

This is the reward of the unselfish act of the people of Silverton Forest Grove, McMinnville Newberg and others who have opened their homes to the beneficiaries of the fresh air fund of the Associated Charities of Portland. They are not wealthy people in a dollar sense but in a spiritual sense they are exceeding rich. To them has been given the realization that vicarious service is the fullness of life.

Many of them have households in which there are already many little hands and voices, yet their hearts were large enough to make room for another. Many have homes from which little hands have vanished and in which little voices have been stilled and their empty hearts filled with the voice and hand of another.

Who can estimate the mutual benefit? Who can compass the new worlds opened to beneficiary and to benefactor? Who can record the pleasant memories? Who can measure the reward?—Oregon Journal.
