Grange to Meet Saturday

Gale Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, No. 282, will hold its monthly meeting at the K. of P. Hall Saturday, October 4, 1913. The forenoon session will open promptly at 10:30 o'clock, as an unusual amount of business is to be transacted, and we ask all members to be present.

Besides the regular routine work, several candidates are to be given degrees.

A communication from the State Grange will be voted upon. Final arrangements for the Grange exhibit at the fair will be discussed.

The social dinner hour will follow the social session.

At 1:30 o'clock the lecture hour program will commence, and we extend a cordial invitation to every one to spend the afternoon with the Grangers.

The program will be as follows: C. B. Stokes will talk on the subject, "Our game laws; are they written for the farmer or the sportsman?"

N. J. Baker, "Is the automobile more useful than the horse?" Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, "1. Reasons why we should exercise as much care in furnishing a well balanced ration for children as for animals; 2. Some rules for dressing children; 3. Diseases of children; 4. Amusements in the home for children."

Mrs. G. D. Rogers will read a paper on the subject, "Do flowers have an influence for good on people, especially in the home?" Piano solo, Miss Lyda Loyues. Vocal solo, Miss Ruth Haines. MRS. EVA ADAMS, Sec.
