

GALES CITY.

Miss Maude Lilly, who is teaching school near Buxton, spent a few days at home last week.

The school meeting Saturday resulted in the election of William Lee as director, and the tax lost.

Robert Lilly was transacting business in Portland Saturday.

Herb Smith and family were Gales City visitors last week.

Howard Lilly made himself a present of a new buggy the other day. Howard is one of the most promising young men of this place, and will soon have one of the most up-to-date little farms in this part of the country. He has all the up-to-date farming utensils he needs and a good prune orchard and prune drier, silo and ensilage cutter, steam engine and feed chopper, and running water piped to his drier and barn, and will no doubt soon bring it to the dwelling. He is also building up a thoroughbred Holstein dairy herd.

The young folks spent a very pleasant evening at the home of S. S. Dallas and family last Friday evening.

Mr Kalch has started to harvest his crop of potatoes. It is rather moist digging at this time of the year.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who have been so kind to us during the recent illness and death of our husband and father.

Sunday morning Mrs. Eggert of Portland will give an address on the last great triannual conference just held at Kansas City. Those who know Mrs Eggert know that this will be fine. In Colorado, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Washington, Utah, California, Wyoming and several other of the northern states experiments have been made with convict labor on the roads, and almost without exception satisfactory results have followed. The men have appreciated the privilege of living in the open air, their health and morals have improved, their work has been good, and very little trouble has been given.

EXPERT EXPLAINS WEAR ON ROADS OF VARIOUS TYPES.

Information as to Materials and Maintenance Under Traffic.

In a paper presented by W. D. Sohier at the third American good roads congress at Cincinnati, in which he discussed the uses of a traffic census and gives considerable information and data from the experimental work of the Massachusetts highway commission with certain materials and kinds of construction and maintenance under different kinds of traffic, the following conclusions are drawn as to the effect of loaded farm wagon, motor-truck and automobile daily traffic on roads:

A good gravel road will wear reasonably well and be economical with from 50 to 75 light teams, 25 to 30 heavy one horse teams, 10 to 12 heavy two horse teams and 100 to 150 automobiles. Hot oiled gravel or gravel oiled yearly with heavy cold oil in one-half gallon coatings will wear with a daily traffic of from 75 to 100 light teams, 30 to 50 heavy one horse teams, 20 heavy two horse teams and 500 to 700 automobiles.

Water bound macadam will stand with a daily traffic of from 100 to 150 light two horse teams, 175 to 200 heavy one horse teams, 60 to 80 heavy two horse teams and not over 75 automobiles at high speed. A dust layer will improve conditions on such macadam with a daily traffic of from 50 to 100 automobiles and should prepare it to stand as high as from 300 to 500 automobiles.

Water bound macadam with a hot oil blanket coat will be economical with a daily traffic of from 250 to 300 light teams, 75 to 100 one horse teams, 25 to 30 heavy two horse teams and as high as 1,400 automobiles and should stand at least 50 motortrucks, but will crumble with over 100 light teams or 50 heavy one or two horse teams hauling loaded farm wagons on very narrow tires. Water bound macadam with a good surface coating of tar will stand a daily traffic of 30 to 50 light teams, 25 to 30 heavy one horse teams, 10 to 15 heavy two horse teams and 1,800 automobiles.

MICHIGAN SHOWS EXAMPLE.

Rich and Poor Work on Road Improvement Task.

Five thousand Michigan men from nearly every walk of life have recently set an example which may well be followed by the whole United States by building 250 miles of excellent automobile road in a single day. And the women of the northeastern part of the state, through which the new highway runs, are entitled to much credit, too, for, while their husbands, fathers, brothers and sweethearts labored at digging and plowing and grading, these women cooked meals that put new heart in the muscle weary workers and made this most notable accomplishment possible.

As a result of the labors of these Michigan people there now is an unbroken line of graveled highway for over 250 miles from Bay City to Mackinaw City, where two days before there was mile after mile of corduroy road, sand holes and swamp lands.

Mayors of cities and towns, state officials, millionaire lumbermen and mill men slaved in the hot sun, heaving with picks and axes at corduroy road slabs, throwing stones, shoveling sand and gravel, leading plow horses or performing other of the innumerable tasks.

WANTS CONVICTS ON ROADS.

New Prison Head Will Seek Thus to Employ Nearly a Thousand.

Judge John B. Riley, the new superintendent of prisons in New York state, announced that he would apply to the prison commission for power to employ prisoners upon state highway construction. Mr. Riley thinks that nearly a thousand men could be used each year to advantage in road construction.

The new superintendent plans to send out only those prisoners whose terms are about to expire. This policy, he thinks, will not only lessen the number of escapes, but will build up the men long confined in cells, so that when they are finally released they will be in physical condition and able immediately to take up manual labor.

The plan of employing convicts was tried by Joseph F. Scott when superintendent, and in his annual report it was strongly urged as a means of bettering the condition of the men.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOME LATE FRUIT JELLIES.

THE late fruits, such as peaches, quinces, plums, grapes, apples, etc., make admirable jellies. Fully ripe but not overripe fruit is required for this purpose. All fruit must be carefully picked, washed and drained. Acid fruits make the best jellies.

A Novel Jelly.

Uncooked Jelly.—This may be made with any fruit which will jelly. Take equal parts of the fresh fruit and granulated sugar. Mash the fruit or put it through a fruit press or colander and stir with a wooden spoon until all the sugar is dissolved; then pour into glasses and let it stand uncovered for a week in a cool, dry place. When a thin, sugary crust appears on the top it may be covered with paraffin and put away in a cool place to keep. After standing for a few days it will be firm like other jelly.

With Plenty of Spice.

Spiced Apple Jelly.—To every half peck of sour apples allow a quart of vinegar, a pint of water, an ounce of cloves and an ounce and a half of stick cinnamon. Boil all together and drain through a jelly bag overnight. To each pint of juice allow a pound of sugar and boil until it jellies.

Quince Jelly.—This may be made from the parings of quinces, with a little of the whole fruit added. Seeds and the blossom and stem end of the fruit must be removed. Nearly cover the fruit with water, cook until soft and then strain overnight through a jelly bag. Take a half pint of sugar to a pint of juice. Let the juice boil from fifteen to twenty minutes. Heat some sugar in the oven, skim the juice and add to the sugar. Let it boil for a few minutes and then pour into glasses. A combination quince and apple jelly may be thus made by using one half apples and one half quinces.

Using Tart Fruits.

Plum Jelly.—Take plums that are just ripe. Place them on the fire in the preserving kettle with water enough to half cover them. Boil until soft and then put them into the jelly bag and drain overnight. In the morning measure the juice, add an equal quantity of sugar, boil and skim. When it is thick enough to jelly, which may be tested by allowing it to drop slowly from a spoon, pour into jelly glasses, cover and put away to keep.

VEGETABLE SANDWICHES.

LUNCHEON MENU.

- Mincel Ham. Hashed and Broiled Potatoes. Mushroom Sandwiches. Coffee Jelly. Coffee.

VEGETABLE sandwiches make a pleasing addition to the luncheon menu. They are nice to serve with the afternoon cup of tea or in any capacity in which sandwiches are used. Sandwiches as hors d'oeuvres should be small.

The Bread to Use.

Bread which is twenty-four hours old is the best. The bread should be cut in slices about an eighth of an inch thick. The slices should then have the crust taken off and be cut into strips, triangles or stamped in fancy shapes with a cutter.

Watercress and Cheese Sandwiches.—Take club cheese; then chop fine an equal quantity of olives and watercress and add to the cheese with mayonnaise to make the right consistency for spreading. Mix well; then spread on thin slices of white or whole wheat bread.

Piquantly Seasoned.

Mushroom Sandwiches.—Cut mushrooms into small pieces and cook in butter until tender. Season with salt and paprika and add enough thick cream to make a suitable consistency for spreading. Add a little lemon juice and the least grating of nutmeg and apply on thin slices of bread.

Cucumber Sandwiches.—Slice one thin cucumber. Marinate in French dressing. Then place the slices of cucumber on buttered brown bread, sprinkle with chopped olives, place another slice of buttered bread on top and press together. Trim off the crusts and cut in triangles.

Some Odd Combinations.

Mixed Vegetable Sandwich.—Chop fine six lettuce leaves, a little celery, three boiled beets, half a cupful of boiled peas and mix with some French made mustard. Spread or heap between slices of bread.

Bean Salad.—Take a cupful of baked beans and rub them to a paste. Add to the beans a teaspoonful each of onion juice, chopped parsley and celery. Together with an eighth of a teaspoonful of made mustard. Take thin slices of brown bread and spread the paste between them.

Celery Sandwiches.—Take thin slices of white bread, lay the tops of young celery between them after they have been carefully washed, then spread with mayonnaise dressing.

The Xmas shopping this year will not go as hard on papa's pocket-book as it did in former years if people buy at the right time and in the right place. K. N. Staehr of the Bazaar is running a sale on doll toys and Xmas gifts of all kinds for young and old. Mr. Staehr says that he wants to make sure of selling everything in that line this year as he has an enormous stock and does not know whether he will continue in that business much longer. He has reduced the prices from one third to one half off on every article which in many cases is below cost. Every thing is now on display. Long tables have been placed all over his store loaded with beautiful toys and gifts and it is indeed a wonderful sight for any one to behold. Many people are buying their presents now in order to be sure of getting what they want while the stock is complete. 181f
