Enjoyed Their Visit

The twenty-five Knights of Pythias who went to Gaston from this city Saturday night to attend a district convention of the Knights from Washington, Yamhill and Tillamook counties report a fine and profitable gathering, with something doing every minute. One delegate from each lodge was given ten minutes in which to unload his mind and when all had finished the Knights attacked an excellent repast in the banquet hall, followed by a smoker. There was a good attendance from both Washington and Yamhill counties, but Tillamook was lightly represented.

Curious Dwarf Oaks.

Known to ranchmen as chinquero, the dwarf oak of the southwest presents a curious instance of the devious and inscrutable ways of nature. There the illipitlan of the great oak family covers a great area in the plains of Texas bordering on New Mexico. The trees, it is said, rarely attain a height of twenty inches and are replicas of their giant brothers in other parts of the country. The acorns which they bear are as large as those of the common burr oak and present a grotesque appearance hanging from the little limbs of the low growing shrub or tree. The annual crop of mast is used for fattening hogs. When the acorns are ripe many wild animals and birds flock into the miniature forest to feast on the nuts.—Argonaut.

Told Almost All.

Here is a story told by one of our women lawyers: "I told my client to tell me everything just as it had occurred—to hold back nothing—and then, being perfectly familiar with all the facts, I might be able to help him. After the story had come to an end I asked him if that were all."

"Everything—'cept where I hid the money' was the answer."—Buffalo News.

Miscellaneous

The grand jury has been in session for about two weeks, a large part of the time being spent in the investigation of the Jennings-Ristman murder case. They adjourned Friday night to await developments from an investigation by the governor through his agent, Lester Davis, a newspaperman of Salem, who claimed that he would implicate another man than Thompson, who is being held for the crime. After a conference with Sheriff Reeves and the gathering of a few additional facts, he apparently has abandoned the investigation. The editorial association press correspondent personally interviewed Sheriff Reeves and reviewed considerable of the evidence which has been gathered for the conviction of Bennett Thompson, and, although the evidence is mostly of a circumstantial nature, all points so strongly to the one man and to no other, that it leaves little doubt as to which is the right man.

The investigator from Salem attempted to weave a chain of evidence around a man residing in Portland. In character the man is a moral pervert, knew the murdered woman, and disappeared about the time of the murder. No evidence was found which would implicate him with the crime, except his close resemblance to Thompson.
