ANIMALS AT WORK

WAR'S EFFECT UPON LABOR CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND.

Novel Experiments Have Proved Satisfactory, as in the Case of Store-keeper With His Parrot—Elephant Replaces Horse.

Many strange and unexpected cases are on record in which animals and birds have proved themselves useful to mankind, very often serving their masters more reliably than many human beings would do under similar circumstances.

At times of stress like the present, such dumb servants have proved themselves particularly useful, a good instance in point being provided by the case of a gentleman in the west of England who recently lost his gardener through the man enlisting. His master was confronted by the problem of his lawn, about which he had always been very particular, for the grass quickly threatened to make his once trim grounds look very much like a wilderness.

Then he hit upon a brilliant idea. Wiring off the ground, he turned in a dozen guinea pigs, who promptly proceeded to nibble away at the grass as evenly and neatly as any mowing machine could have done, much to the master's delight.

Similarly, an East End tradesman lately found himself short-handed owing to the war, and after some thought, this man hit upon a solution of the problem.

He happened to possess a pet parrot, and this bird he placed in the outer part of his shop and trained it to call "Shop!" whenever anyone entered by way of the street door.

The parrot very quickly learned its lesson, with the result that its master was no longer obliged to spend all his time on the lookout for customers, but could attend to other matters, knowing he could count upon his new assistant to warn him of anybody's approach.

The intelligence of dogs is known to everyone, but a dog as a golf caddy is somewhat of a novelty, you will admit. Nevertheless, the animal is no imaginary character, but a real caddy, who works on the links of a certain widely known course. Besides carrying clubs, this dog proves himself very useful in the matter of discovering lost golf balls, nosing about until he is successful.

But the war has made one strange spectacle possible in England. In Sheffield an elephant may be seen drawing heavy loads along the streets. It is claimed for this particular animal that he can empty a nine-ton wagon of coal in two journeys. Camels have also been employed by the same firm, but as draft animals cannot be compared with the elephants.—London Answers.

Troubles Never Come Singly.
 A resident of Boothbay, Me., was told by a neighbor that his son's cow was out in another pasture, and started to bring her in. He found a cow loose and set out in chase.

For an hour or two he chased one of the most obstinate and disgusting animals ever born into the cow breed. And at last he caught her and brought her out to the road and was leading her triumphantly home, when he met a neighbor who asked him what he was doing with another neighbor's cow. And so it proved. For the original stray cow was still in the wrong pasture, but tied securely to a tree. The other cow had had a perfect right to it grazing ground.

The exasperated gentleman then set out again and this time found the right strayed cow and took her home.

When he arrived at his son's place with his son's cow he found one of his own cows in his son's field and eating up the son's cabbages.

White Eskimos.
 Vilhjalmur Stefansson is having a difficult time with his "blond Eskimos" and by this time doubtless wishes that they were more brunette and ordinary. They hold up his men and rob them of everything removable, and utterly decline to consider the explorers a superior race. Yet when they are visited by an epidemic of influenza they attribute their misfortunes to the witchcraft of the strangers.

Hitherto newly discovered peoples have been greatly impressed by the white skins of the discoverers. The civilized races of Peru and Mexico respected the complexion of the Spaniards as much as they feared their firearms. A pallid physiognomy is one of the greatest assets of the white man who penetrates to regions where white skins are unknown.

His Status.
 "Are you the head of the family?"
 "Not exactly," replied Mr. Meekton.
 "My position is rather that of the man higher up who gets blamed when anything goes wrong."

LOOK OVER CARS CAREFULLY

David Harum Had Nothing on the Men Who Make Practice of Selling Second-Hand Autos.

Many dozens of places are now operating second-hand motor car businesses, and while some of them are quite reliable, it is still a sad fact that "faking" cars is a common occurrence, observes the Scientific American.

One purchaser of a so-called rebuilt car in New York paid $200 for a machine which is no longer built. It was guaranteed to be in running order, and worked fairly well on the way home, a distance of ten miles. The following morning he was unable to crank the car, and upon removing the cylinders he discovered a very unique hardwood piston in the front cylinder. The car being out of date, the dealer had been unable to obtain a piston for it, and had improvised one. The oil and heat of the cylinder combined to warp the wood and make the motor stick. The wood had evidently been treated with some heat-resisting compound, as the charring on the surface which had been exposed to the heat of combustion was not severe.

In another case, a purchaser of a second-hand runabout detected a most peculiar noise in his timing gears, which in that model were mounted on the front of the engine. Removal of the gear case revealed the fact that the gears had been packed in heavy grease in which was mixed chopped cork and sawdust. The bearings of the gears were badly worn and the imperfect meshing which resulted made them very noisy. The cork and sawdust effected a temporary remedy.

A third purchaser of the "running order" gamble found that after he had driven his car a dozen miles, three leaks developed in the cylinder casting. In the pan he found three pieces of dried chewing gum that exactly fitted the holes.

Among some of the other features of such "bargains" are cast iron ball bearings, papier-mache radiator, hose covered with aluminum paint, steel breaker points in magneto instead of platinum, window glass in wind shield, and cracks in crank case filled with putty painted over. In view of all this, who can wonder what has become of the good old-fashioned horse trader?

Not to Be Caught.
 "I think children are not so observing as they used to be," said a member of the school board to a teacher whose class he was visiting.
 "I hadn't noticed it," said the teacher.

"I'll prove it to you," said the school officer, pompously. Turning to the class, he said:
 "Someone give me a number."
 "Thirty-seven," said a little girl, eagerly.

He wrote "73" on the board. Nothing was said.
 "Well, someone else give me a number."
 "Fifty-seven," said another child.

"He wrote '75' and smiled knowingly at the teacher when nothing was said. He called for a third number, and fairly gasped at the indignation manifested by a small, red-faced urchin, who said:
 "Seventy-seven, and see if you can change that."—Harper's Magazine.

Women in Educational Positions.

Women hold many executive educational positions in the United States. Of the 12,000 conspicuous positions, largely of an administrative character, 2,500 are held by women. They include college presidents, state and county superintendents of education, directors of industrial schools, heads of departments in colleges and universities, directors of schools for afflicted, and librarians. Twenty-four out of 622 colleges and universities are presided over by women. Of the nearly 3,000 county superintendents, 508 are women. Of the 70 institutions for the blind 15 are directed by women.

Venice Has Electrical Ears.
 According to a newspaper correspondent who recently visited Venice, the Austrian army have made more than thirty raids on that famous city.

The observation station there is provided with sensitive electrical microphones, which are said to detect the noise of the motors on the Austrian planes the moment they leave Trieste, some sixty miles away. Electric sirens are immediately sounded to warn everyone of the approach of hostile aircraft, which cover the distance between the cities in something like forty minutes. Thus ample time is afforded for completing the antiaircraft artillery preparations before the first Austrian airplane heaves in sight.—Scientific American.

Knows What He's About.
 "Jibway frequently gets up at two or three o'clock in the morning and walks about in his house."
 "Is he a somnambulist?"
 "That's what he says, but it's rather curious that he always goes straight to the ice chest and drinks a bottle of beer."

The Bawling Out of Julia.

A deserted husband out west thus advertises his spouse's delinquency: Julia, my wife, has grown quite rude. She has left me in a lonesome mood; She has left my board, She has taken my bed, She has given away my meat and bread; She has left me in spite of friends and church, She has carried with her all my shirts. Now ye take note who read this paper, Since Julia's cut this reckless caper I will not pay one single fraction Of any debt of her contraction.—Boston Transcript.

For Backward Bunnies.
 "Papa?"
 "Well, Rutherford—"
 "I have just figured out why bunnies have fuzzy little tails."
 "That's fine. What is the reason?"
 "Bunnies live in holes, you know."

Both of Them.
 One day a professor and his companion became involved in an argument as to which was the handsomer man of the two.

Not being able to arrive at a settlement of the question they agreed, in a spirit of fun, to leave it to the decision of a Chinaman who was seen approaching them.
 The matter being laid before him, the Oriental considered long and carefully, then he announced in a tone of finality:
 "Both are worse."—Chicago News.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Suffered Great Pain!

Letter, Tells of Long Looked-for Prescription.
 Dear Mr. Editor—I am making a personal appeal to your readers who are bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and rheumatism, to give up the use of harsh salts, or alcoholic kidney medicines and in their place take a short treatment of "Anurie" and be convinced of its wonderful virtues as I was. I suffered great pain, had a great deal of irritation, water became foul. I tried everything advised but with no results. I sent for a box of "Anurie Tablets" and soon discovered that they brought relief. I have used them since, and now the water is natural, my health good, and appetite splendid. Some of the doctors pronounced my trouble enlarged prostate. Now I have no more trouble and I most assuredly feel that this latest discovery of Dr. Pierce's is the best remedy for bladder and kidney troubles that I know of. If I can induce anyone to give it a trial, I feel that he will thank me for calling attention to this great boon that relieves this seemingly worst of all troubles that human flesh can fall heir to. (Signed) H. H. FLEISHER.

NOTE: Up to this time, "Anurie" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing tablet, Doctor Pierce has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach, or send 10 cents for large trial package.
 Simply ask for Doctor Pierce's Anurie Tablets. There can be no imitation. Every package of "Anurie" is sure to be Dr. Pierce's. You will find the signature on the package just as you do on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the ever-famous friend to ailing women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, proven by years to be the greatest general tonic and reconstructer for any one.
 At any rate don't give up hope of being cured of your malady until just a few doses of "Anurie" have proven that it will make you feel like a different person.
 EDITOR—Please insert this letter in some conspicuous place in your paper.
