The P. U. Debaters Won Both Contests

Saturday evening Messrs. Lester Jones and Elbert Taylor of P. U. met Messrs. Randall and Conley of Willamette University in this city in debate on the subject, 'Resolved That a Literacy Test at Least as Restrictive as House Bill No 6060 is the Best Method of Regulating European Immigration.' The P. U. boys took the affirmative and easily out talked and out generalled their opponents, winning by a three to nothing decision of the judges Messrs. M. R. Johnson of this city, Prof. Frederick Berchto d of O. A. C. and Carlton E. Spencer attorney, of Portland. While the judges were comparing notes, the College Quartet, Messrs. Glenn Morgan, Thayne Livesay, Le lie Webb and Verle Stanley, sang several songs that were highly appreciated.

While the debate in this city was going on, Glenn Jack and Kenneth Irl of Pacific were at Salem, taking the negative side of the same subject against Messrs. Spies and Paulus of Willamette. And here Pacific also won by a unanimous decision of the judges—Prof. McPherson of O. A. C. and Professors Dunn and Bates of Eugene.

Won Six Out of Seven

By defeating the Mt. Angel quintet in this city Friday night, the P. U. basket shooters have won six of the seven games played this season.

Schanedding, for the visitors, played a star game, and Lucas, of Pacific, was high-point man with four field goals.

Fenenga sustained a sprained ankle in the last half. He has made more baskets than any other man in the Non-conference League.

The lineup follows:
Pacific U (21). P Mt. Angel (16)
Irl (2) Guards Pashek
Jones (2) (2) Kasberger
Fenenga (7) Center (7) Classic
Lucas (8) Forwards (7) Schanedding.
Fowler (2) Forwards Spear
Webb (2) Spare

Two Games Tonight

At 7:30 this evening, at P. U. Gym, the Forest Grove high school quintet will meet its old rivals, Newberg High, and endeavor to take another scalp. Having defeated "Mack," the locals feel quite cheery and this may give them additional strength against the Quakers.

The local High School club team will also take on the Christian Church team, making two games for the price of one—two bits Com—and see the fun.

What is "industrial preparedness?" How does it affect the humblest citizen? What does it mean to the nation? What is it all about? These and scores of other questions of vital concern to every citizen will be answered in the gripping photodrama, "The Eagle's Wings," to be exhibited at the Star theatre on Friday (tomorrow) in Bluebird Photo-plays. This gripping picture-drama is a non-political, non-partisan, patriotic inspiration—a lesson in loyalty for every citizen of the Union. Admission 5c and 10c.

THATCHER NOTES

W. B. Simmons of Estacada has moved into the Jas. West house. He is an experienced shoe man, having been in the repairing business for the past six years. He will have his shop in working order in a very short time and will be prepared to make new soles for all who need them.

The Thatcher club gave a costume dance Saturday evening at the Will Haney home which was well attended and enjoyed by all. A large majority responded encostume and many characters and pleasing ideas were carried out. Prizes were awarded to the following: First prize for ladies' most beautiful costume was given to Mrs.

A. Bellinger, who was dressed in black and orange, decorated with tiny black and orange hearts, representing St. Valentine. First prize for men's neatest costume was a tie between Louie Junker and Paul Pechin, both dressed as U. S. sailors. Mrs. Harry Miller as "Aunt Jamimah" carried off the prize for the most comical character. Will Haney, as an Indian Chief, took the prize for the most unique costume. Guy Mott, as a Mexican bandit, took the booby prize. It was difficult for the judges to award so few prizes as they declared everyone should have had one. Mrs. West as Martha Washington; Hazel Gilpin as a Colonial belle, Myrtle Gilpin, as a Spanish Maid; Rose and Ralph King, as Scotch laddie and lassie; Mr. Ballenger, as the red haired and freckled nose school boy, and many others were perfect in their different representations. The usual good music and good floor made the event one to be remembered by all who attended. Guy Mott, who several weeks ago was kicked by a mule and having his knee cap dislocated, is quite recovered.
