Raleigh Walker and Ross Reder were in Portland Tuesday on business.

Miss Lilloch of St. Helens came Saturday to spend two weeks visiting Mrs. H. L. Smith.

George G. Hancock, real estate, farm loans and fire insurance, new Anderson block. 50

Willis Dyer of Ballston spent the week-end here with his sister, Mrs. Will Sparks, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Wiles and Miss Marcella Richards motored to Portland Friday to attend the Rose Carnival.

Mrs. Raleigh Walker went to Hillsboro Wednesday and visited at the home of her father until Sunday, spending one of the days in Portland at the Festival.

People who have rooms to rent during the G. A. R. encampment—June 26, 27 and 28—please notify Mrs. John Anderson.

Wolcott Humphries, a P. U. student in '61, returned Friday to his home in Mapleton, after having spent several days with old friends here.

Howard Jones, of the U. S. Marine band visited here with his parents from Friday till Sunday. The boys came to Portland to play for the Rose Festival, thus making it possible for some of the boys to visit their homes.

Ladies, do you know that John Anderson can sell you just as stylish waists, skirts and coats as you can get anywhere? Come and see them before you send for something you can't see until after you have paid for it.

Jim Williams, who enlisted in company K, Third Oregon National Guard, early in April and has been on detached duty almost ever since his enlistment, visited friends in this city Friday and Saturday. Jim is mighty proud of his company, which, he says, was the first in the United States to be mustered into the federal service. He says fully one-third the members of K are over six feet in height and some of them go six feet and four inches.

The short-burner "Bon-Ami" kerosene stove brings the heat close to your cooking utensil. See it at the Gordon hardware store.

Joe A. Wiles would like to write your insurance. Will give you service that will be to your advantage. Upstairs in Anderson block, room 2. 52

"The Girl of the Limberlost the Second" will appear in Forest Grove Saturday in the person of Miss Opal Whitley. Brought up in the wilds, Miss Whitley devoted a great deal of her time to nature study, calling plants and birds by her own names until later she learned the proper ones. She is now preparing a nature book for children. She has spent a year at the University of Oregon and is regarded by the faculty of that institution as a remarkable young woman. She charges only ten cents for her lecture in order to put it within the reach of all, and will use the proceeds to help her through another year at the U. of O. Her lecture will be Saturday evening, June 23, at 8 o'clock, at the Christian church, on the theme "Nearer to the Heart of Nature." She will have many interesting specimens to show.

New Bulletins on Food Preservation

How to prolong the home-grown fruit and vegetable seasons throughout the year and thus utilize to the fullest extent possible the food materials grown in the big food drive, is made the subject of two O. A. C. bulletins just off the press and ready for free distribution to all citizens of Oregon who have need for them. One, "Preservation of Fruits and Vegetables," No. 187, is by Professor C. I. Lewis, chief of the Horticultural Division, and A. F. Barsz special in vestigator of horticultural problems. The other, "Home Canning," No. 204, is by Anna M. Turley, field specialist in Home Economics. Both are published by the Extension Service. The former treats on evaporation and drying of fruits, uncooked jams, frozen fruits, evaporated vegetables, preservation in brines, and home-made evaporators. The latter considers why foods spoil, sterilization methods, equipment for canning, types of equipment for cold pack method, preparation of jars, steps, and explanations, classes of vegetables, lists of cultivated and of wild greens, handling of cabbage, brussels sprouts, and cauliflower, canning fruits, and meat-canning recipes. By combining the information contained in these two bulletins growers may prepare in the best known ways all necessary surplus fruits and vegetables with reasonable certainty that if the work is done according to directions the preserved products will be well-preserved, palatable and nutritious and prove a big factor in lowering the cost of living.

A fine line of ladies' spring coats, in the latest style and most approved pattern, just received at Anderson's. Come and see them.

Notice of Sale

Notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of an order duly made, rendered and entered in the matter of the estate of Alexander S. Weir, deceased, in the County Court of the State of Oregon for Washington County, on May 28, 1917, authorizing and licensing the undersigned administrator of said estate to sell all of the timber standing and growing upon the following described real property situated in Washington County, Oregon, to-wit:

The North half of the Northwest quarter of Section 32, T. 1 S. R. 1 W. of the Willamette Meridian, at private sale for cash in hand.

NOW THEREFORE, I will, from and after Monday, July 23, 1917, at the law office of H. T. Bagley, in the Hillsboro National Bank building, in Hillsboro, Oregon, proceed to sell at private sale all of the timber now standing and growing on the real property above described, said timber being sufficient to manufacture approximately 1800 cords of wood. Bids will be received at the law office of H. T. Bagley, and the purchaser may bid upon the entire body of timber; or upon the basis of a fixed price per cord, to be paid after the same is converted into cord wood and prior to the removal of the same from the premises, and said sale will be subject to confirmation by the County Court of Washington County, Oregon.

Dated this June 21, 1917.

MATTHEW S. WEIR,
Administrator.

H. T. BAGLEY,
Attorney.

Why Uncle Sam Can't Finance the Red Cross

Oregon, outside Portland must subscribe $400,000 of the $100,000,000 emergency Red Cross war service fund during this week in order to meet the expectations of President Wilson, who has appealed to the nation for this fund.

Prompting the President's appeal are the thousands of Red Cross ambulances on the firing line that must be maintained.

Other thousands of ambulances must be built and sent to the front. Fifty-five base hospitals already have been established and their work must be supplemented with that of many more hospitals in order to treat the wounds and save the lives of thousands of soldiers, including our own home boys.

The force of Red Cross physicians and nurses must be greatly increased and kept on duty.

British, French and Belgian soldiers can be sent home when, under hospital care, they have commenced to recover from wounds or sickness, but for Uncle Sam's soldier boys convalescent hospitals must be built by the Red Cross.

Mothers and wives who have given up sons and husbands and who have no other support must be cared for by the Red Cross organization.

Vocational schools for soldiers incapacitated by wounds for ordinary work must be organized and financed.

From the front line trenches to the mothers left at home the Universal Service of Mercy must maintain a vast organization and spend tremendous sums in order to meet an almost overwhelming emergency growing out of United States participation in the World War. Nor can the work be delayed one day. Bullets will not wait on tardy dollars. The man who offers his life on the battlefield for the defense of his country must not be left to bear the burden alone.

Why does the government not finance this relief work? The question is often asked. The American Red Cross is ranked as a neutral, as long as it is maintained by private subscriptions. The administration of the Red Cross cannot be carried on as are the national, naval and military operations. Relief work, also, must cut red tape, must be promptly ready for every emergency, must be governed by humanitarian principles and quick decisions and must not be hampered by the restrictions of governmental machinery. At the same time the Red Cross is the only relief agency formally authorized by the government. Its head is the President of the United States. Its accounts are audited by the war department. It is chartered by Congress. President Wilson declares:

"A large, well organized and efficient Red Cross is essential. It is both a patriotic and humane service that is rendered by every citizen who becomes a member of the American Red Cross."

Red Cross subscriptions need not be paid all at one time. One-fourth will be due July 1; one-fourth, August 1; one-fourth, September 1, and the balance, October 1.
