"I am sorry that you do not wear a flag every day and I can only ask you if you lose the physical emblem to be sure that you wear it IN YOUR HEART; the heart of America shall interpret the heart of the world."—President Wilson.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The self-sacrificing men and women who worked so hard to make the Encampment a success and those who worked for a solid week raising Red Cross funds are the kind of people who make a community worth while. Forest Grove will always be worth while so long as it has such spirits among its citizens.

So far as the Express can learn, Forest Grove did as well in entertaining the G. A. R. and W. R. C. bodies as any town of equal size in the state ever did and no complaint is heard from any of the visitors. Certain it is that the members of the Commercial club and citizens in general did all in their power to make the visitors comfortable.

If they cared to, the men and women who solicited funds in the United States for the American Red Cross society could tell some interesting tales of stingy rich folks and liberal poor folks. This is not surprising, for some people are rich because they are stingy and others are poor because they have been givers all their lives. Of course none of the stingy ones live in Forest Grove, or this city could not have raised the amount it contributed Dilley isn't a very large town and the people thereof go about their business without blare of trumpets, but when the funds began rolling in for the Red Cross, you would have thought Dilley was the metropolis of Washington county. Asked to raise $500, the members of the committee rolled up their sleeves and raised $1,059 before they ceased their labors. Dilley has less than 200 voters.

The editor of the Express is proud of the fact that Dilley is in Washington county. Aren't you? Cornelius did even better ($1153.75), but it is considerably larger than Dilley. And Forest Grove, asked for $3,000, raised $4,550.00.

Here's a woman to tie to. She and her husband live in Eastern Oregon. Help was hard to get, so she fixed a basket on the gang plow, put her baby in it and drove four horses while she plowed sixty acres of land. Say, friends, you don't read of this kind in the society journals.—Western Farmer. If the baby whose cradle was a basket on a gang plow happens to be a girl, the editor of the Express hopes she will not have to drive plow-horses when she has become a mother. But, all the same, the mother above mentioned is a God-send to the nation. May her sons and daughters be many.

People may complain about Oregon not being perfect, but she is certainly patriotic. She stands third in the percentage of recruits per capita, over-subscribed her quota of Liberty Loan bonds by two million dollars and now has raised one-third more than her share of the Red Cross fund. Forest Grove has taken her place at the front in all three of these movements and the Express congratulates the people on their patriotism and liberality. May the bread cast upon the water come back with a bountiful increase.

The Express is informed that but fourteen women met at the Red Cross sewing rooms, in the Hoffman store, last Monday to sew for the wounded soldiers and sailors. This is probably due to the fact that the G. A. R. Encampment interfered, but, since this is now over, it is hoped many more ladies will turn out next Monday, between 2 and 5 o'clock, for this noble work. Muslin and linen fabrics are badly needed by the workers to make hospital supplies. See if you cannot spare some for this work. Forest Grove has done well in a financial way for the Red Cross. Let us not spoil our record by falling down on this sewing work.

Many people in Portland and other cities of Oregon view with alarm the fact that the members of the State Grange and Farmers Union have endorsed the Non-Partisan League, which has captured the political power in North Dakota and threatens to insist that the farmers and laboring people get a square deal. Until the Express hears that the Non-Partisan League has done any mischief in North Dakota, its editor refuses to "view with alarm" its advent into the political life of Oregon. Where the people have so good a chance to express themselves through the ballot box as they have in Oregon, these aforesaid people can generally be depended on to do what is best for themselves. Since the farms of Oregon probably pay the big end of the taxes, it is no more than right that the farmers, through the Non-Partisan League, should have an inning at ruling Oregon.

Herbert Hoover, the man selected by President Wilson to oversee the food conservation campaign in this country, writes the Express that he is asking every minister whose name he has secured to preach next Sunday on the subject of food conservation. Mr Hoover thinks in no other way can we do more to whip our enemies than by saving food, especially food that is now wasted. Every ounce of food wasted is just that much help to America's enemies. Let us see if we cannot sacrifice just a little, so those who do our fighting may have assurance of full stomachs on which to fight.

P. G. Kenzie of Seattle, general superintendent of the Pacific Coast Milk Products company and at one time superintendent at the local condenser was a business visitor in this city last Friday.
