

PREPAREDNESS LECTURE

THIS war is awakening men to the truth about a lot of things besides Preparedness—and chewing tobacco is one of them. Soldiers are strong for W-B Cut and the facts are right before you. These shreds are all tobacco, no gummy sweetening—rich tobacco—more sap in the leaf than in ordinary tobacco by a long shot. That's why it's so satisfying and so economical—a little bit goes a long way.

He was carried into the house in an unconscious condition and a physician was summoned. He has suffered a great deal, but is improving somewhat.

JINGLE NEWS

Chicago's fashion-makers strive To pick Chicago's winner;
With what re-leaf must mother Eve Have dressed herself for dinner;
Entirely free from empty pomp And stays and shoulder braces;
Poor modern Eve Lives but to grieve For artificial graces.
The Fashion League (6 Buncombe Ave.) With naive announces That Oriental trouserettes Equipped with ruffled flounces Will form a part of street attire For Madame Gad this Winter;
We're glad, forsooth, We spent our youth In training for a sprinter.
We'd like to get as far away As hours and miles will let us, Before this style-mad bugaboo Of fashion's realm can get us, Lest we a victim might become, And how can poets hustle For bread and cheese In pants like these, Reclining on a bustle?
To hear Designers froth and rave, You'd think the war was over;
That girth control no longer ruled, And pigs were all in clover.
Our friends, the Conservation Board, Should rise in righteous passion, And with their might In concert smite The faker of the Fashion.

New Extension Director Experienced Farmer

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Sept. 3.—O. D. Center, the new extension director at the Oregon Agricultural College, arrived at Corvallis last Saturday and has already taken up the work of getting some of the best farming and homemaking information available at the College before the people of Oregon.

Mr. Center has training and experience in farming. He was chore boy and field hand on his father's farm in Illinois, making a full hand at the age of 14. He got his schooling in off labor seasons, first in the district school and later in a union high school, five miles from his home, while still farming. When he was married he began life on the farm, which he left to study agriculture in the Illinois University.

Even here he farmed. He was made manager of the experiment station farm for the last two years of his course, and was kept on the job until he resigned in 1910 to become superintendent of the Illinois Farmers Institute. When he left this position he went to North Dakota as district supervisor of the N. D. Better Farming Association. He next became farm demonstrator of Grand Forks county, and on leaving took up farm extension work as director of the Idaho University Extension Service. He left this work to take up like work in Oregon, but not until after he had transformed it from chaos into one of the most scientific extension systems in the entire United States.

He not only knows farming from its various angles, but he knows farmers and being one himself is able to enter into fellowship with them.
