Sam Walker spent several hours last Saturday in a very pleasant manner, visiting the farm where he was born and where his mother died six years ago the third of this month. The farm is a mile and half southeast of Banks, is owned by his brother, Will, and farmed by Ed. Schlegel. In wandering over the place and through the old Walker home, many boyhood experiences were recalled and Mr. Walker found in a closet in the old home some of his mothers old books that had been overlooked when her effects were moved out after her death.
After bathing and dressing in clean underclothing, Abert Tews Thursday night placed the muzzle of a shotgun against his forehead, pulled the trigger with his foot and blew out his brains. He was employed on the farm of John Freudenthal, near Hillsboro, and the latter and his family were absent from home until late and the body was not found until Friday morning. Tews was 30 years old and unmarried. He had money in the bank, had not appeared despondent and no motive for the act is unknown.

Motor Hits Car

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Groff, Mrs. Joseph Groff and Mrs. J. F. Helm, all of North Plains, Ore., were injured Sunday when their automobile, driven by Joseph Groff, collided with a North and South Portland streetcar at Sixteenth and Lovejoy streets. The machine, traveling at a good rate of speed, hit the streetcar squarely and was badly damaged.
The four persons hurt were taken to the Good Samaritan hospital, where it was said that none is seriously injured. They all sustained numerous cuts and bruises about the back and hips.
The driver said the accident was due to defective brakes.

Forest Grove Shoe Store Says
Good advice appears to be one of the few things that have not advanced in price. Our shoes have advanced, but we are selling them at a very small margin. You save quite a bit if you will give us a trial order. We have a large line in boys' and youths' shoes that are sold from 50c to 85c under any house in Washington county. (Agent for Bergman's Portland-made shoe; it's the best—worth $12.50; we sell for $11.00.)

The body of Mrs. Nancy P. Kentner was shipped by Undertaker Buxton last Friday to Sabetha, Kansas, for interment. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hesselstine of Vancouver accompanied the remains.
