

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

MEN OF THE NAVIES LIKE BIG FAMILY

American and British Sailors Best of Friends, Says Writer.

JACKIE LIKED IN ENGLAND

Flight Among Themselves and All That Sort of Thing, Says Charles Dawbarn, but No Happier Crowds Could Be Imagined.

London.—Writing in the Daily Chronicle on "The United States Fleet in Being" and discussing America's invaluable services, Charles Dawbarn says:

"It is not the American way to fear publicity. Uncle Sam likes to act in the broad eye of day and to have his deeds emblazoned for his own encouragement. But the English are secretive—perhaps this is one of the revelations of the war. In any case, a veil of silence has been dropped over American naval action in the service of the allies—in conformity with British traditions. Being in Rome, the good Americans do as Rome does. In this particular Rome holds its tongue and looks wise. Not the least of American services to England is her readiness to become dumb and anonymous, because that is the immemorial way with the British navy.

"And yet it would not do to suppose that our cousins have not contributed very sensibly to the reduction of the peril which awaits us on the water round the coast. Sir Eric Geddes paid handsome tribute to them in his maiden speech as first lord in the commons. The United States 'Jackie' is a fine fellow, and one of his finest attributes is his speedy adaptation to the new conditions of service in European waters. He has become our own Jack Tar's firm friend.

The Family Feeling. "Gratifying examples of co-operation between the two services are furnished every day. Officers and crews of the two fleets like each other so well that they 'get mad' at each other, as the Americans say—just as if they were members of the same family.

"In courts of inquiry both services participate when both are involved. Perhaps the senior officer will be British and the two juniors American, or the senior will be American and the others British. The unity is such that British and American destroyers swing at the same buoy and follow each other in their sea practices. At sea they exchange signals; on shore they use the same clubs and huts. At one base a converted cinema hall is now a rendezvous for the bluejackets of the two nations. There they fraternize in the most cordial manner. Between scenery painted by sailors and in front of an orchestra of destroyer musicians English and American artists sing their songs and deliver their monologues to their brothers of the sea.

"The incessant work of the destroyers and patrol boats in conveying troops or merchant ships, or in chasing the submarine, has not blunted the edge of the sailor's keenness. If you speak to him about his present

6 FEET 7 INCHES NOT TOO TALL FOR ARMY

Little Rock, Ark.—W. E. Hale, a farmer, appealed to the local draft exemption board to discharge his son, W. P. Hale, because the lad is "just naturally too tall for the army." But the board rejected the application. The young soldier is 6 feet and 7 inches from the soles of his feet to the top of his head.

MAKE REAL CITIZENS

Americanizing America Feature of D. A. R. War Work.

Calls on Women to Make All-American City or Town of Place Where They Live.

A new opportunity for women to help in the war is offered by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, through their war relief committee, of which Mrs. Matthew T. Scott is chairman. It is sending out a call to the women of the country to make an all-American city or town of the place in which they live. It asks enlistment for this special service which works directly with the unassimilated immigrant, ignorant or indifferent to America's history, customs and laws, unpledged to support our flag, rearing a family with un-American views of life and reading only foreign language papers.

'metier,' and compare it with his peacetime labors, he will declare that the latter were heavier to bear. There was the eternal maneuver for the action which never came, and, after it, officers had to analyze the theoretical results. Navigating and engineer staffs lived in an atmosphere of paper problems. Nowadays they are swept away. There is no time for them. And the spice of danger has given zest to the daily round. To understand that, one must understand the psychology of the sailor.

Danger Is Real.

"His danger is real enough. Hydroplanes and other appliances have not proved a sufficient solution. The only real solution is man and ship power; the policeman on the spot to catch the thief.

"A hit, a palpable hit, perhaps, and yet the result is uncertain. This is the common experience of submarine chugging. You are never certain of your bag. But whatever German apologists may assert, the number of 'tin fish' disposed of by our ally steadily grows greater, and the system of convoys—a number of ships 'in a bunch,' surrounded by destroyers—has at least this advantage, that it brings the enemy to the defense force and thus obviates a search for him. And in 'taking care'

MATA-HARI DIED AS SHE HAD LIVED

Dancer Convicted of Spying for Germany, a Stoic to Last Moment.

EYES ARE NOT BANDAGED

Gazes Calmly at Execution Squad Awaiting Order to Fire Fatal Volley—Confesses She Was in the Pay of Germany.

Paris.—In the gray dawn of a Tuesday morning a tall, graceful woman stood erect before the targets on the Vincennes rifle range. Her unbandaged eyes gazed calmly at a squad of zouaves from a Moroccan regiment. A signal from their commanding officer and the sharp crack of the zouaves' rifles cut the early morning air. The woman fell backward to the ground, her face upturned to the sky. Mata-Hari, the dancer whose charms had captivated the capitals of Europe, had paid the price of being found out. She died convicted of being a spy in the service of Germany, of having betrayed for money the country that had sheltered her and had applauded her art.

Mata-Hari died as she had lived—mistress of herself and her emotions. When awakened on the fatal morning in her cell at Saint Lazare she knew that the end was at hand. She quickly attired herself in a dark dress trimmed with fur, which she had worn at her trial. Putting on a long coat and a large felt hat, she announced that she was ready. The little procession passed through the dark corridors to the office of the warden. Here Mata-Hari wrote two long letters. She was the least affected by the suspense of any in the party.

Says Last Good-Bys.

Handing the letters to her lawyer she bade the prison officials good-by and, escorted by the prison guards, she entered a military automobile accompanied by the two nuns and Captain Bourcardon. Arriving at the fortress of Vincennes she calmly stepped out of the motor, turning to help one of the nuns to alight. Then the condemned woman was taken to the office of the governor, where the last formalities were quickly gone through, after which Mata-Hari again of the traffic, British and neutral, in the sea lanes leading to these isles, the United States navy is performing a duty essential to our existence and reaffirming the old maxim—consecrated once before at sea—that blood is thicker than water."

DANCING CURES HER NERVES

Woman Testifies in Alimony Suit That Physicians Pronounce Her Improved.

Atlanta, Ga.—"I have undergone several operations and become very nervous, so I was induced to take dancing lessons, in the hope that my condition would be improved," said Mrs. Hattie Green, a dancer, on the stand in her own behalf in an alimony suit. "Physicians have informed me that my nerves have been greatly improved through my dancing. Counsel for the husband was closely questioning Mrs. Green as to her dancing.

Miner Earns $348 in Month.

Somerset, Pa.—Lawrence R. Finzel, aged forty-five years, of Hooversville, near here, is believed to have earned the highest wage during the last month of any coal miner in the history of the industry in Pennsylvania. Finzel, it was announced, received $348 last month. With a 100 per cent car supply it is said he would have earned even more.

entered the automobile, which started for the rifle range, this time escorted by a squadron of dragoons.

On the range all preparations for the execution were ready. A detachment of infantrymen in their blue-gray uniforms were drawn up, forming a hollow square—the targets being at the further end. The firing platoon of zouaves was in the center, the men standing at attention. The automobile stopped at the entrance to the square and Mata-Hari stepped out. She gazed unmoved, almost disdainfully, at the setting prepared for her final appearance, in much the same manner as she had regarded the audiences that had applauded the exotic dances with which she had startled Paris. In the background stood a group of officers from the Vincennes garrison, many of whom had been witnesses of the condemned woman's stage triumphs. With her lawyer on one side and one of the nuns on the other she passed unshaken in front of the silent, waiting troops.

Arriving in front of the targets, Mata-Hari bade these two good-bys, embracing the nun as she stretched out her hands to a waiting guard who held the cord with which they were to be bound. The commander of the platoon raised his sword and the volley rang out, the corpse was taken to a military cemetery and buried in a section set apart for the interring of executed criminals.

Mata-Hari, whose name was Marguerite Gertrude Zelle, gave Paris a new sensation to talk about when some fifteen years ago she made her first appearance at the house of a well-known opera singer, where in a mystic dance she divested herself of a number of veils which were the only garments she wore. She was a remarkably handsome woman, tall and dark, with a skin that was almost bronze in color. This gave rise to the statement that she was a Javanese, but she was of Dutch parentage and had married in her youth a Dutch army officer, from whom she was divorced.

At her trial her guilt was so conclusively proved that she finally confessed she had been in the pay of the German secret police for a number of years. She had utilized her wide acquaintance in France to collect information of military value which she transmitted through secret channels to Berlin, receiving in return large sums of money.

AMERICAN TO REBUILD TOWN

Dun-Sur-Meuse in France Is Promised Restoration by Man of Same Name.

Paris.—The inhabitants of the little town of Dun-sur-Meuse are convinced that, after all, there is a lot in a name.

For, thanks to the fact that its patronymic happens to be the same as that of a wealthy and generous American, the ravages caused by war will soon be made good.

The municipal council of Dun-sur-Meuse has met in Paris to be presented to its "godfather" who has undertaken to rebuild the town.

Sees Belled Buzzard.

Martinton, W. Va.—The belled buzzard was actually seen near here by Jasper D. Dilley while at work on his farm. Dilley heard the tinkle of a bell, the sound apparently coming from overhead, and in looking up he saw a large buzzard sailing over, with the bell tied around his neck. The bell tinkled at every movement of the bird's body.

Nothing Doing There.

The seedy looking man took his seat at the table and scanned the menu.
"Waiter, I've only 30 cents on me. Now, what would you recommend?"
The waiter gently removed the card from his would-be patron's grasp.
"Another restaurant," he said.—Exchange.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Back-achy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.
