... This paper has enlisted with the government in the cause of America for the period of the war

Before we can hope to lick the Kaiser we must first learn to lick the plate.

Habit helps the Hun. Get rid of the wheat flour habit and help win the war

War is scraping our sugar bins and our graneries. The less we eat the longer it will take to empty them. Isn't that plain enough?

It is much better to be a worker in the ranks than a shouter on the side lines. Everybody can be a worker in the food saving ranks.

Denying yourself a little wheat and sugar is not comparable with the sacrifice the men at the front are making. It's merely a privilege. Take it as such.

"It's a lot better for the whole lot of us to be eating American oats, rice, corn or barley, or good Irish-American 'peraties' than to have the Kaiser feeding us crow at the point of a sixteen-inch gun," says Mrs. O'Flaherty.

"The Allies should be grateful to two men after victory has been obtained. First, to the general who lead the soldiers to win the decisive battle, and second, to Herbert Hoover, who rendered it possible for the soldiers to eat so that they might fight."—Victor Boret, French Food Minister.

More than 800 penalties for violation of rules and regulations governing licensed dealers in food-stuffs have been imposed during the past 10 months by the Food Administration. About 150 companies and individuals have been ordered to quit business in licensed commodities for a limited period, and over 500 have voluntarily made a money payment, usually to the Red Cross, or have temporarily abstained from doing business rather than risk calling down more drastic penalties.

WHAT HAVE YOU GIVEN UP?

Have you given up your job and let your business future take care of itself?

Have you said goodbye to your family and friends and all you hold dear?

Have you begun an entirely new career that may end, if you live, with health impaired an arm off, a leg gone, an eye out?

Have you given up your business future and said goodbye and taken a chance on coming back alive and well, and done it all with a cheerful heart and with a grim determination to do all you possibly can for your country?

And do you only at times—in the evenings, perhaps when the light in the sky slowly fades away—feel so homesick and so lonesome that you are fearful you may not have the courage to do your part after all?

You have not done these things? Ah, I see, you are not one of our Army or Navy boys; you are a stay-at-home person.

Well, there have to be 20 or more stay-at-home persons for everyone who goes, and so certainly no disgrace attaches to being one if you fully appreciate what those boys who do go have to give up and if you support them to the limit of your ability.

National War Savings Day is June 28. That day gives you the opportunity of showing in a practical way that you do appreciate what it means to the boys who go. Pledge yourself on or before that day to save to the utmost of your ability and to buy War Savings Stamps that there may be more money, labor, and materials to back up those who fight and die for you.

PLAIN TALK BY A WOMAN PHYSICIAN

Dr. Esther Lovejoy, a Portland physician, who has recently returned from doing Red Cross work in France, brings the mothers of America this message from bleeding and outraged France:

"I wish every man and woman in America could spend one day in France and see what I have seen," she said. "This apathy, this woeful ignorance of what is going on over there, this criminal blinding of eyes to the horrors of this war would stop, and everyone would do his share. We are fighting for life, for liberty, and more than the pursuits of happiness. We are fighting for ideals, for religion. The God of the Hun and the Turk is not our God.

"The terrible Hun is inflamed by a faith that transcends life. He believes he is in the right. It is my observation that the attitude of a German soldier is that a French woman should feel herself favored of God in bearing a Boche child. I have worked mostly among the women and children refugees who have been sent back into France because Germany has no need for them. Children from 3 to 13 are only an excess burden on Germany, and so are mothers with families. They have no military value.

"There are three great military values in Germany—fighting values, labor values and breeding values.

"All the helpless and aged, all children from 3 to 14 and mothers of large families come under one of these three divisions, and are returned as being of no value to Germany. If a woman has a baby under 3 years of age she is kept in Germany, for the Hun figures, and truly, that the baby is a Boche baby.

"These are terrible truths. A girl of 14 is sent back, but a girl of 16 is kept for breeding purposes. I do not mean immedate motherhood. I mean that a girl of 16 is held as an asset in Germany, and regarded as one regards a healthy stock animal. A girl of 16 has 30 productive years ahead of her. No one knows what happens to them. But we do know that if thousands of young French women are kept in Germany children will be born to them and the children will be Huns.

"French mothers are wonderful women. They smile and look proud of the boys they have given to France, but when they speak of their daughters held by the Hun their tones are grief racked; they speak of their daughter as lost forever. That is why warfare is much worse for women than for men of any country," says Dr. Lovejoy.

"A man can only die, but a woman can live to become the mother of a Hun. With a woman the evil goes on. She can live to be the grandmother of a family of Huns and the tragedy continues through her years. A woman who loves her country can become an enemy to that country because of her military value as a breeder and the mother of men."

"Girl workers in German factories are paid weekly $1 20 in cash and the rest of their wages are put into banks by their employers for the next loan without the formality of asking their consent. The enthusiastic response to the national war loans over which the kaiser is so happy is thus ingeniously explained—Baltimore American.

HOW'S YOUR "MORALE?"

By Helen Rowland

THE OTHER DAY,

I heard somebody getting terribly excited over "the morale of the army," or "the morale of the people,"

Or "the morale of Germany" or something.

And all of a sudden, It flashed over me, like a great white light,

That nobody has more than ONE "morale" to "Keep Up." And that the only "morale" I need to worry about is MY OWN!

And then I said this little prayer:

"Oh, Lord,

"Help me to keep my pluck and courage,

"And my FAITH in everybody and everything!

"In American ideals, and American grit, and American ingenuity—

"And in Yankee spunk, that has never yet lost!

"When the heat fails and the water pipes burst and the gas freezes,

"When eggs go up and wheat is short and the laundry breaks down and the news in the morning paper is a little disheartening,

"Let me not 'give aid and comfort to the ENEMY'

"By wailing over my own little woes

"And helping to drench the world in gloom and to take the heart out of everybody about me!

"When the blizzard bloweth and the grippie grippeth,

"And the weather seems to be trying to outdo the kaiser in Shreklichkeit and to win the Iron Cross, "Keep me patient and calm and sweetly cheerful,"

"That I may help to put serenity into the hearts of those around me,

"Yea, help me to 'come up smiling!'

"Let me face my meatless, wheatless, sweetless days joyfully,

"Know that for every lump of sugar which I must forego in my cup of tea,

"There is a spoonful of sugar for some boy 'over there,'

"And that for every cup of flour that I am denied,

"There is a piece of bread for some hungry soldier.

"Yes, make me GAME!

"Stay me from joining the knockers!

"Help me to be lenient—even to the landlord; gentle—even to the janitor; and PLEASANT—even to the iceman.

When complainers come unto me with their 'oh-how-dreadfuls' and their 'isn't-it-awfuls' and their petty troubles

"Let me smile back at them with a courage and confidence

"That will SHAME them into silence.

"Though others may fret and fume and sign and groan,

"And quarrel with fate and the world and one another,

"Let me keep my eyes steadily toward the light,

"And my heart and hands steadily upon 'my OWN knitting,' my own job,

"And my OWN 'morale!'

"For, though I am only a woman,

"I know that it will take more than guns and bullets and ships

"To win this war!

"And I know that the greatest thing that a woman can contribute to the ultimate victory—of a man, or an army, or a nation—

"Greater than sweaters or socks or beanies or arguments,

"Is faith and hope and cheer, and glad SELF-SACRIFICE—

"The smile-that-won't-come-off!" ~ That is my "morale"—and every woman's!
