Hugh Smith, who had a job as night watchman at a lumber mill at Cascade Locks, found the job so uninteresting that he quit and came home. He wants a real job or none at all.

Rev. R. E. Dunlap, former M. E. pastor in this city, writes F. M. Starrett that the Fourth of July parade in New York was the biggest gathering of people he ever saw. There were 120,000 foreign-born Americans in the parade and Mr. Dunlap says he never before realized what a lot of step children Uncle Sam was fathering.

In a paper received this week by Roy VanKirk, published in his old home town, Fort Recovery, Ohio, there is a picture of Samuel W. Grathwell, who is on for a lecture at the chautauqua being held in that town this week, his subject being "Getting By Your Hoodoos." Mr. Grathwell lived in Forest Grove several years, and is a graduate of Pacific University, and won many credits as an orator while attending P. U.

Carl Brodersen, the painter, took a day off Wednesday and took his family in the Brodersen Chevrolet for a spin up the Columbia highway.

In writing from Camp Lewis to friends in this city, last week, Newton Shipley said he, with 135 others, would leave in a few days for Camp Kearney, San Diego, California.

J. T. Kinnaird, Hood River merchant, who was drowned in the river last Friday, was an old Iowa friend of H. R. Bernard of this city, and was a highly-respected citizen and a good man.

Jim McGill and his son-in-law, J. G. Richardson, were out from Portland Sunday for a visit with their families. Mr. Richardson has since moved his family to Portland, where he has a position.

Ira Mann, an experienced auto mechanic from Long Pine, Neb., a nephew to W. L. Cady, has entered the employ of Joe Wiles at the Chevrolet garage. Mr. Mann and family drove through from Nebraska in their auto.

Chas. O. Roe, local distributor for the White sewing machine, has on display in the window of the old Miller drug store building a Weed sewing machine (taken in on a trade) that came to Oregon via bull train in 1852. That the machine was made of good material is shown by the fact that it has been used regularly for a big family sewing for 66 years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Littler and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. John Dopp and Mrs. Reba Secour visited at the Matt Patton farm, in the Chehalem valley, and at McMinnville last Sunday. Mrs. Reba Secour and Mrs. Ray T. Williams and baby visited at the Dr. Higgs home in Portland last Friday.

Mrs. Arthur Shearer and children left yesterday for an outing at Newport and Art is learning to turn his own flap-jacks.

H. R. Bernard visited his wife at the McMinnville hospital Sunday and found her recovering nicely from her operation of July 10th.

Ladies seldom get as good hats for the money as Stith & Jones are offering this week for $5.00 or less. Reason—too many summer hats.

Waggoner A. C. Smith of Camp Lewis visited Miss Nettie Jones, the milliner, in this city Saturday and on Sunday Mr. Smith and Miss Jones visited the latter's folks at Salem. Mr. Smith expects to leave soon for Camp Mills, N. J.

George R. Schoch, aged 60, a former resident of this county, was arrested last week at his home on Kiger island, near Corvallis, charged with hoarding flour. Mr. Schoch lived for years in the Watts district, near this city, and was always considered a good citizen, a man who minded his own business and allowed his neighbors to do the same.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Buxton of this city, their son, Philmore, wife and daughter, Thelma, of Moro, returned Monday evening from a week at the Tillamook beaches, where they had a delightful outing. Mr. Buxton says he had the best time this trip he ever had at the beach. Phil and family will spend the week with the Buxton and Nauffts families.
