... This paper has enlisted with the government in the cause of America for the period of the war

Says a Government bulletin: "The Allies were literally held together through the spring and summer through the success of the wheat-saving campaign. It did more to give them comfort and courage than any other one thing until the tide turned last month. It did more than any other performance to establish American credit until our troops took part in the second battle of the Marne. Once more we are called upon to share with those who sit at the common table. It is a challenge to our war conditions, to our humanity, to our chivalry and to our loyalty to our brave and long suffering allies. Be sparing in the use of sugar."

Notice to German Women

The U. S. Government asks us to publish the following notice:

United States Marshal, G. F. Alexander refers German alien females to the following important requirement, governing the change of residence of German alien females.

A German alien woman changing her place of residence to another place within the same registration district shall immediately report such change to the registration officer of the registration district and present to such registration officer her registration card for the purpose of having endorsed thereon by such registration officer the change of residence.

A German alien female who desires to change her place of residence to a place of residence with in another registration district must obtain a permit. Such German alien female must present herself to the registration officer of the district in which she resides and make application for the permit on a form supplied by the registration officer, and present her registration card to the registration officer for the purpose of having the permit of change of residence endorsed upon her registration card.

A change of residence in violation of the Regulations subjects an alien enemy, among other penalties, to arrest and detention for the period of the war.

The registration officers who acted in the registration will continue to act as registration officers for the purpose stated in respect to permits for change of residence.

The United States Marshal, Portland, has a supply of change of residence blanks in his office for distribution to the Chief Registrars (Chief of Police) in cities of over 5,000 population, according to the 1910 census; and to the Postmasters (Assistant Registrars) in communities having a population of less than 5,000 according to the 1910 census.

Warranty deed and mortgage blanks for sale at this office.

Mrs. J. Tumbleton and two daughters, Mida and Veta, visited with relatives at Wheeler recently.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Barker of Norton, Kansas, are visiting friends and relatives here. They are likely to settle in this county.

Mrs. J. A. Leiter has received word that her nephew, Frederick Coffeen, who enlisted from McMinnville, has suffered a fractured arm while doing trench work in France.

The Book Store is headquarters for all the latest popular music.

E. B. Sappington recently celebrated his 58th birthday. Mr. Sappington is a native of Washington county and has been county treasurer for several years.

C. E. Ruckle of Long Beach, Cal., is in this city. Mr. Ruckle lived here several years ago, and owned the Potwin place in the southeast part of town. He has been in eastern Oregon this summer, working in the hay fields.

Blanche Blair celebrated her 14th birthday at her home in the Carnation section August 20th, and invited 14 of her little friends to help her enjoy the occasion. Games were played by the young people, and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess. A birthday cake with candles was one of the pleasant features of the occasion.

Jas. G. Young, wife and baby arrived in this city last week and are occupying the House residence in South Forest Grove. They came from their former home at Medora, North Dakota by automobile, and enjoyed the trip very much. Mr. Young was here last spring, and traded his farm in North Dakota for the D. V. Buell farm in the Watts section. He says of all the country they saw coming out, they like this section best.

After attending the encampment, Mr and Mrs. A. C. Leabo of Oakland, Ore., in company with their son, R. H. Leabo and wife, motor d out from Portland, visited with the family of Mrs. Patrick. Also visited the scenes of their old home in Scoggin valley.

Wilbur K. Newell of Portland, formerly of Gaston, has left for Washington, D. C., to confer with food administration officials.

Dairymen, Attention

Even as we write there are signs of better things. Holland today is asking for six thousand dairy cows to take the places of those which their recent feed shortage compelled them to sacrifice. Germany is now almost without dairy herds, and France, Denmark and England are not much better situated. None of these demands can now be met by us because of lack of available ships, but the time is coming after the war when the bottom may be had (for the war will leave us with a magnificent merchant marine); then the dairyman having good stock for sale will be in a most enviable position.

If what we say about the situation abroad is true, then it is plain that dairy stock and dairy products will continue at a good price for some years to come. It takes three years to bring a cow to the producing point, and it will take much longer for the European countries to entirely restore their herds. And in the meantime our dairymen should be supplying their markets with both breeding stock and dairy produce. It is your privilege, Mr. Dairyman, to be among the favored few, if you only hold on through the present flurry and build up a reputable herd.

Another favorable omen is to be seen in the state of the condensed milk industry. The recent stagnation in the condensed milk market has almost wholly disappeared, and their product is now moving readily at an advanced price. The Sunrise Company at North Bend has been reopened by Seattle interests. The factory at Scio has resumed operations under new management, and the Holly Milk and Cream Company at Amity is preparing to resume activity.—State Dairy and Food Commissioner.

Good Roads as Character Builders

By W. J. R. BEACH

The self appointed obstructionist to the cause of good roads in Oregon may well absorb the thought expressed by the late Elbert Hubbard who said "Road building is the most unselfish public betterment in which man can engage; battleships are conjectural, libraries are used by a few, universities are not for the many, but good roads are a pleasure, satisfaction and profit to everybody in the vicinity and have an immediate effect, not only on the health but also on the cost of living."

It might be unsafe to say that whenever the roads are good the morals are good or that bad roads are a sure indication of bad morals among the people living beside them. There would, however, be little risk in assuming that excellent highways are conducive to right living and to intelligent regard for the best that enlightened life affords.

A road is always a thing of influence. From the cow path up to the double track railway every line of habitual movement marked out by man and his domestic and commercial agents is a register of civilization from which history may be safely reconed. Thrift and success naturally flow over the smoothest and shortest route.

Whenever a broad, solid and well graded thoroughfare crosses a country it is quite sure to be thickly lined on either side with the results of intelligent and prosperous labor, beautiful homes, well kept farms, the hedges trimmed, the barns tastefully painted, thorough bred cattle, flourishing crops, thriving towns, all these may be seen from the best highway as we pass along.

To be concluded next week.

Opens Fall Campaign

Last Friday R. O. Stevenson of Forest Grove, the Democratic candidate for County Judge, was interviewing Beaverton voters and made the Times office a short call. He has a rather taking motto on his card. He says: "Will try to make good." Most of our candidates are so positive that it is refreshing to find one who is willing to try. Perhaps it is because the Judge has had one try at this office that he is not so confident as some of the neophytes. Judge Stevenson first came to Washington county in 1859 and has been a continuous resident of the county, engaged in farming and fruitgrowing since the days when he finished school. Six years ago he was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Sewell and for two years filled the office to which he now aspires. He filled the office of state game warden for a term between 8 and 12 years ago, so he is not new to public office. He has a pleasing personality, brings experience and sound business success before voters, and with his modest, yet altogether cheerful slogan, we are willing to predict that he will make an interesting race for the office he seeks. —Beaverton Times.

Expresses Thanks

Neal C. Jamison, in the Extension Service of the Agriculture and Home Economics department, with office at Hillsboro, has resigned. He has already left to attend the Officers' Training Camp for the Heavy Artillery at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Kentucky. He says in closing his letter to us, "I take this opportunity of expressing my wishes for the continued prosperity of the farmers of Washington County, and for the health and welfare of the newspaper which serves them so well."
