FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15.

In congress debate for the past week has been divided between Hawaiian matters and the repeal of the federal election laws.

Just so. The ways and means committee has reduced the duty on cut diamonds from 15 per cent. to originally fixed, to 10 per cent. Is this in the interest of the poor laborer?

Several democratic papers have convicted all the smugglers that have heretofore voted the republican ticket, but the democrats that handled the staff are untouched till the verdict of the jury is returned.

The electric wires of Salem must be strung in a very insecure manner. Another horse was killed in that city on Sunday morning by coming in contact with a broken wire. The same fate awaited any man had he by accident touched it.

The turn affairs have taken in Hawaii leaves President Cleveland in a very unenviable position. Those democratic papers, who took the American side of the question, have reasons for feeling exceedingly comfortable.

Mr. Olney says that the aim and effect of the Sherman anti-trust law is not to abolish trusts, which probably is a true interpretation of the act when made by a trust attorney. Put an anti-trust official in Olney's place and he would be able to come to a different conclusion.

The Wilson tariff bill has not yet been reported from the ways and means committee. There are indications that the iron men of Alabama and the sugar planters of Louisiana are going to "carry war into Africa." There is some very ugly things said about Washington corridors.

The county court of Multnomah county ought to take at least some moral responsibility for Kelly's insufficient bondsmen. When a man deliberately impoverishes himself on the county assessment roll, the county judge and all other bond-approving officers for that matter ought to take judicial notice of the fact. An unreluctant man in one place is very likely to prove wanting in another, especially where money is required to paid.

A steel rail manufacturer at Pittsburg was asked what he had to say on the deep cut in the duty on steel rails made by the Wilson bill. His reply went to the kernel of the matter: "I don't care what rate they fix. I can make them in competition with English makers—but the workmen will have to work for the English scale of wages." The tariff is a question of wages, pure and simple.

Shieriff Kelly, of Portland, who has been indicted for embezzlement of Multnomah county funds, is not a republican official and democratic papers will keep the blush of ignorance off their face if they stop asserting the false fact. Mr. Kelly had lost the confidence of republicans in 1882, therefore they nominated another candidate. This angered Kelly so that he got in and ran independently. His conduct in office for the past eighteen months only shows that the party leaders exercised good judgment when they threw him overboard.

Judge Hornblower, whose confirmation as justice of the supreme court was hung up in the extra session, has been renominated for that place. It is asserted that he is an anti democrat, except perhaps three or four, and all the republicans will vote for him. Now, if Hornblower, because of either moral or intellectual blemishes, is not qualified for the supreme judiciary, then republican senators ought not to vote for his confirmation. They cannot afford to do so. The purity and glory of this nation ought not to be jeopardized, even though it be courtesy to their opponents. Republican senators must not help President Cleveland send the country to the bow-wows.

During the fierce struggle in congress last summer over the repeal of the silver purchase bill, THE INDEPENDENT took occasions to say that Nevada and Colorado's most profitable industry is not silver mining, but is farming and stock growing. The following paragraph, clipped from the San Francisco Butcher and credited to the Nevada Courier is an evidence straw pointing to the same conclusion: "The hogs recently shipped from the Douglas county creamery brought 45 cents, live weight. William Daugberg, who went down with them, tells us that Nevada hogs bring 50 cents per hundred more in San Francisco than California hogs. Nevada beef is also given the preference, and apples and potatoes raised in this state command the top price. In fact, Nevada products of every description seem to be more than ever in demand in California, where their superiority has long been recognized.

DEPOSITORIES FOR PUBLIC FUNDS AND TAXES.

The condition of things developed at Portland and other places in the state in regard to public funds, calls loudly for some remedial action in the matter. There is probably at this time public funds deposited in the banks of Portland, amounting to not less than $500,000, and hardly a dollar of it available for the purposes for which it was appropriated, and with not a dollar of security for the same in the shape of bonds. In all probability there is an equal sum in the same condition in other parts of the state. It is true that the law against loaning public funds, whether to banks or individuals, has been violated, and persecutions and convictions may follow, but all this will not restore the money that has been misappropriated, and which has been wrung from the taxpayers in many cases by the sale of their homes and property.

The remedy for all this is very simple. The legislature at its next session should adopt the New York statute in regard to public depositories, which is as follows: "All officials of the state of New York and other persons receiving and disbursing monies belonging to the people of said state for public purposes, shall be and are required to deposit and keep all such monies received by them, deposited to their official credit in some responsible bank or banking house, to be designated by the comptroller of said state, until said comptroller shall be paid out, and disbursed according to law."

The statute also makes provision for such banks to give bonds for the safe keeping and payment of such monies deposited with them, and to be approved by the attorney general of the state.

We have no such officer as a comptroller, but the governor could as well make the designation. If this law had been in force when the banks closed in Portland, Corvallis, Albany and Eugene, and had those banks been designated as depositories for state funds, as people would now be well secured by money and sufficient bonds for this money. But as it is now made a large part of this money may be entirely lost, and the burdens of the poor taxpayer correspondingly increased.

Again, the law ought to be changed in regard to the collection of taxes, so that all taxes should be paid directly to the treasurer, and providing that if not paid by a certain time interest should be charged, and also a penalty of 10 per cent. additional; and at the expiration of the time provided the treasurer, should be required to make a settlement with the county court, showing the taxes collected and the delinquents, and the delinquent list together with a warrant for its collection should be delivered to the sheriff for collection. This would make a great saving in the costs of collection and lessen the liability of misappropriation or embezzlement. This is the law in many of the states, and it is found to work well. The sheriff's fees for collection of taxes in Multnomah county for this year will amount to over $10,000, a greater portion of which is unnecessary.

DISEASED CATTLE.

At another column will be found a very interesting letter from state veterinary surgeon Withycombe, on the topic of bovine tuberculosis, a disease that is causing some uneasiness among stock growers in this county, but because there are a few cases there is no reason for alarm. Intelligent care will soon rid the pastures and barns of all danger. Would that our sitting-rooms and parlors could be as easily cleared of the plague, though not the same way of course.

Tuberculosis is no new disease, having been known for centuries. (Rept. Sec. Agriculture 1889, page 97.) It is caused by, or at least is always attended by tubercle bacilli.—Dr. Koch. It attacks man and all domestic animals and fowls. In man it is commonly known as consumption. The bacilli exhaled by a man will infect his cow, his horse, his sheep, his dog, his cat, his chicken, while on the other hand the bacilli from any of those animals may enter into the human organism as death seeds. When one lodged in the system, be it brute or man, there is no recovery. There is death sooner or later.

It may attack any organ of the body, even the soft, spongy part of the bones are not exempt, though the lungs and softer tissues are the parts usually stricken.

All authorities agree that the milk and flesh of the herd are dangerous. Milk that is death to the child is also death to the pig, and the animal that is known to be diseased ought not to be killed at once and the carcass burned, though Dr. Withycombe suggests burial.

As suggested by the veterinary, no man afflicted with consumption should care for stock. Neither should he excrete where a dog or a chicken can get the mucus ejected. All such ought to be absorbed by a cloth which should be burned or dissolved in boiling water.

The hints given in surgeon Withycombe's letter in the methods of detecting the disease in cattle should receive the attention its importance demands. Tuberculin injected into diseased animals causes a high fever, while in healthy cattle no effect is noticeable.

"Does the Hillsboro Democrat want it generally understood that it is the desire of its party to have the old soldier arrayed against it?"

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION.

At every session of the legislature there is an attempt, or pretended effort, to enact laws in the interest of the poor man. But the workings of very many of these acts is almost conclusive evidence that only Barmaid legislation is intended. A case in point is the Homestead exemption law, passed at the last legislature. Instead of protecting the poor man it destroys his credit. If the man of small means takes his savings, say $200, and pays on a small acreage lot, he is left without any thing for improvement. He can't buy a cow. His credit is exhausted, indeed it is bought is not paid for, but land is always good for the purchase price. It is just like setting a man on a homestead and then robbing him of his homestead and plow.

The law virtually compels a man to live from hand to mouth, never permitting him to better his condition by trade and barter. The law is based upon a wrong assumption, that the rich are an ungrateful oppressive. This class of question leads the well-to-do class to distrust the honesty of those seeking the protection of the Homestead exemption law. Whenever confidence is shaken between two persons, individuals or classes, the weaker invariably has the worst of the bargain. The law ought to be repealed.

MORE CLEARLY STATED.

Some things have been said since last week which leads to the belief that all the facts relating to the last city election were not given, or if printed were not fully understood. Wherefore an amended report is appended:

The Oregonian asserts that "Washington's valuation needs examination." If the state board examines our assessment with an eye to doing justice to us, we invite scrutiny, but if it is to be done in the sense suggested by our contemporary there is a protest to be entered. Real estate has shrank in value in Washington county since the 1892 assessment was made, fully 25 per cent. How it may be in all parts of the county is not asserted, but in Hillsboro and vicinity, land and lots, if put up at public auction, would not bring the value put upon them by the assessor. The same is true of horses. Our assessment roll is short over a million dollars in the item of money, notes and accounts, made so by the trickery of tax dodgers. Or if they have not been concealed then the non-resident owners, citizens of Multnomah county, have listed them which in part accounts for that $19,000,000 raised there. What notes and accounts that have been listed in Washington county have been valued at 100 cents.

Yes, Washington county is willing to have its valuation examined, and is willing to assist at the ceremony.

There is unrest among the English farmers. At a meeting of an agricultural society, held recently, a resolution was adopted voicing the sense of the society that an undue proportion of the revenues were taxed upon the agriculturists. It might be well for our state economists to bear in mind this fact and the further one that there are sources of revenue the payment of which is easier to be met than levies on lands.

Sheriff Kelly, of Multnomah county, and Messrs. Markle and Sherman, his sheriffs, have been indicted for embezzlement of public funds. It is doubtful if they are convicted. Yet public opinion is so aroused in that county that there will be a change, if not in the jury box, then in the ballot box. Had public opinion must use great caution in choosing its next officials, lest it permits passion to do what patriotic intelligence and judgment should prevent.

A Hawaiian paper received in this country by the bark Kikkita, Port Townsend, makes a vigorous thrust at the Cleveland administration which finds fault with Minister Stevens for landing marines last January. The paper states that ex-Minister Stevens was merely performing and obeying the standing order of the state department, given by Secretary Bayard to the American minister in Honolulu. Stevens had been abused by the present American administration for obeying President Cleveland's explicit orders. If Minister Stevens is to be blamed for his intervention last January, then much more is Minister Willis to be censured for threatening to punish disturbers of the peace, which Stevens never did.

T. C. Watts, formerly sheriff of Columbia county, has been appointed to serve the unexpired term of Messie, absconded. Messie's bondsmen wanted the court to give them the appointment of that officer, but the court refused to allow them to name the man. The bondsmen doubtlessly wanted to share in the doubtfulness of the office so as to even up on Messie's shortage.

BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec 12, 1893.

HIGHEST OF ALL IN LIFTING POWER.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Editor INDEPENDENT:
Dear Sir—Your favor at hand, and I will endeavor to answer your questions briefly.

Tuberculosis is well known to be an insidious, subtle malady. The disease is not very prevalent among stock in this state, and when discovered the domestic animal commissioner adopted vigorous measures for its complete extermination.

Bovine tuberculosis among our domestic animals is the most dangerous to the human family, owing to the use of the milk and butter from cows suffering from tubercular diseases.

Some breeds of cattle are more susceptible to the disease than others. Highly bred cattle with easy pretensions, find it a very delicate condition exposed to the disease, owing to a lack of disease-resisting power. Symptoms of the disease differ greatly in different animals, but usually the preliminary symptoms are a dry, harsh cough, and a general anthrax appearance, hair dry, and standing erect from the body. The onset in many cases is so slow that an experienced stockman's suspicion would not be aroused. Tuberculosis in many cases is very hard to detect by a physical examination, but fortunately Koch's tuberculin has proven itself a very valuable diagnostic agent, a sub-cutaneous injection of a small quantity of this lymph in animals however slightly affected, almost invariably produces a characteristic reaction in temperature. Microscopical examinations of expectorations and milk of affected animals cannot always be relied on, as those substances may only contain the spores of the bacilli, which is indistinguishable through the microscope, but nevertheless capable of developing the disease.

Tuberculosis is not considered to be a highly contagious disease. It is usually transmitted by close contact with infected animals in towns, and by the ingestion of the tubercle bacilli through the consumption of uncooked flesh, milk and butter containing the bacilli.

A grave mistake is often made in allowing animals that have died from tuberculosis to be devoured by hogs, chickens, etc. All animals that die from any disease should be promptly buried, and in cases of anthrax they should be burned.

Consumptive persons should never be permitted to take care of stock, as the dust that arises from the dried sputa and expectorations from such persons, contains the bacilli in active form, and are liable to contaminate domestic animals and therefore greatly increase infective centers. Thorough cooking of meats effectually destroys all tubercular bacilli, and the heating of any substance containing the bacilli to a temperature of 212 F. for five minutes destroys the bacilli.

I do not think the residents of this state need have any fears regarding tuberculosis in our domestic animals. We have but little of it here, and we have an excellent law to assist in its complete extermination.

JAMES WITHEYCOMBE,
State veterinarian.

INDEPENDENCE, Dec. 14.—Bread is selling here at 31 cents per loaf.

There are 281 pupils enrolled in the State Normal school.

A daily steam packet line has been established between Independence, Polk county, and Portland. The boat leaves Independence at 6 o'clock a. m., and arrives in Portland at 2 p. m.

Coyotes ate four of Sam Phillips' sheep recently, in Spring valley.

The city election will be held at this place on Monday, December 18. A mayor, recorder, marshal and four councilmen will be elected to serve during the ensuing year.

McMINNVILLE, Dec. 14.—A cold, dry northwest wind is blowing and everything is drying up fast.

George Hach, of Newberg, was arrested last at his neighbor's, was arrested the other day for attempting rape. The examination was held before a justice Monday in Newberg precinct, and he was bound over to await the action of the grand jury. Bonds were fixed at $500.

The case of the young lady is Lilly Dietrich, aged 14 years.

Saturday evening, just before H. J. Armstrong, grocer, usually closes his store, and just as he was counting his cash which he had in a paper sack, Newt Agee and Alfred Jones entered the store and called for some cheese. After supplying their wants he missed his sack of money and called for help. Agee started up the street but was caught and brought back to the store and the door locked. The marshal was called in and upon searching the two young men the money was found in the overcoat pocket of Jones, who swears he does not know how it got there. The young men are of good parents and the matter is a mystery, unless it can be laid to art and craft, of which they consumed considerable during the afternoon. They were locked up in the city jail for the night and were taken to county jail Sunday morning. They waived examination and are under $100 bonds.

George T. Myers, E. W. Allen, R. W. Mitchell, George S. Hatty and H. E. Mitchell of the Midwinter Fair Association, attended the meeting held in this city on Friday last. The attendance was large and more than 75 per cent. of the persons present subscribed for stock in the corpora-

This county was the first in the state to help the midwinter project along, and the voters went back to Portland much more enthusiastic over the prospects of Oregon at San Francisco.

Bishop Morris reports in a private letter that McMinville donated a Thanksgiving offering to the hospitals of Portland, more than any other town in the state. The donations were collected through the churches and the public schools.

The Monmouth football team passed through here last Friday on their way to Forest Grove to play the Pacific university team. Their noses were on a bias and numerous seats relieved the monotony of their faces. From the air of general debility that seemed to wrap them like a shroud, it was easy to prophecy their defeat. They did not make a point.

Corvallis, Dec. 12.—Charles Reed, who is the owner of a one-thousand acre tract of land in the northern portion of the county, was in the city last Saturday, and gave out the information that he had laid off a reservation of several acres for the purpose of a deer park, and that he now has within the enclosure five beautiful white-tail specimens. It is his intention to increase this number by the addition of about ten more, and care for them as they require, with a view of supplying himself and friends with plenty of sport and "deer meat," in an inexpensive manner.

A young man who recently arrived from Arkansas, Adams by name, was seized with an epileptic fit last Saturday afternoon, and in falling was considerably bruised about the face and head. He was taken to the fire department headquarters, and seen again in proper manner, and soon again regained consciousness.

On Friday night last, the Rebekah branch of the I. O. O. F. of this city, had an enjoyable "flow-out" at which several visitors from a distance were guests. Of the number were H. Hirschberg and M. L. Dorris of Independence, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Goff. Everybody had a good time.

Many holiday preparations are making for holiday entertainments in this city, and the most popular program announced thus far is the grand masquerade ball of the Hook & Ladder company, on Christmas night.

James Caldwell, one of Benton's old pioneers, died in this city on Monday, aged 70 years. He was quite well known all over this surrounding country and was a favorite among his acquaintances. Judge John Burnett delivered an impressive address during the services at the grave.

Some time since R. E. Malcohy, superintendent of the Oregon Pacific railroad, received by express an infernal machine, and at once efforts were made to locate the source from whence it came with the result that one of the prominent under officials has been removed as the supposed guilty party. Notwithstanding the fact that there will undoubtedly be a few changes made in the official personnel of the Oregon Pacific soon following the sale, on Friday of this week. There is now a vacancy in the office of general freight and passenger agent.

The second game of football between the normal students of Monmouth and those of the agricultural college will be played on the campus of the Oregon agricultural college next Friday at 3 p. m., and a spirited contest is anticipated, as both teams have been undergoing hard and thorough training.

At the meeting of the city council, on Monday night last, liquor license bonds were approved as follows: Charles Albright, Gerhard & Mackay, George Maddux, J. G. Westfield and T. Whitehorn. Corvallis now has eight saloons.

A go-as-you-please walking match, between Albany and Corvallis is on the tapis of holiday sports. The contestants are in daily training, and the indications are that considerable money will change hands on the result.

The logs that escaped from the Friday boom, during recent high water, amounting to several million feet, have been nearly all located and will be taken down by the river to Newberg, where they will be sawed.

Much valuable work is being done towards improving our streets, sidewalks and sewerage system by city authorities.

For a sore throat there is nothing better than a flannel lintage damped with Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It will nearly always effect a cure in one night's time. This remedy is also a favorite for rheumatism and has cured many very severe cases. 50 cent bottles for sale by Hillsboro Pharmacy.
