WEST SIDE PARAGRAPHS

The Democrats and Populists Hesitate on Fusion.

THE BOILING POT IN YAMHILL

Populists and Popgun Combine—Very Little Complaint of Hard Times —Prosperous Farmers.

[From West Side Press Association.]

MCMINNVILLE, Or., Feb. 20.—The Amity Popgun, the organ of the people's party and the county court, has combined with the Oregon Populist of Albany. The outside of the sheet is the Populist, and the inside is the Popgun.

Politics are moving and the boys are hustling. The county being nearly 400 republican the members of that faith desiring office are seen out late nights. McMinnville heretofore has corralled the lion's share of the nomination on the republican ticket and there will be an effort to defeat their prospect in the next convention. Newberg must be heard.

The populists have held their primaries in the various election precincts in this county, and will assemble in this city on March 14 for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention. There is some talk of a combine with the democratic party, but the talk all emanates from democratic office-seekers. The old-line democrats are not in favor of an alliance and the prominent members of the people's party say that they will keep in the middle of the road.

A brass band of ten pieces has been organized. The boys have delegated A. H. Adams with the power of a leader, Charles Hodson being instructor and William Toney, manager. More musicians will no doubt join.

The sheriff is now collecting taxes, and the people are much pleased with the new law requiring the payment of school district, city, county and state tax at the same time. It saves much trouble.

The Jefferson democratic club is flourishing, and new members are being constantly added to its list. It is one of the strongest clubs in the state. It sends five delegates to the democratic conference on March 6th.

The McMinnville fire department held its annual election Wednesday. J. E. Griffith former superintendent of the water plant, was elected chief.

Very little complaint about hard times is heard in this community. The other day a horse buyer attempted to buy a lot of horses, but did not buy a single one. The farmers wanted too much for them. This is a good indication, farmers who are hanging on to their horses and wheat are not suffering for the necessities of life.

OUR BAD ROADS.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:

The discussion and suggestions of your correspondents as to the best way to improve our public roads, is getting quite interesting, and leads to the practical question, can we do it? and how?

Antimud says plank them, and I quite agree with him, that to utilize our big fir trees and make them do valuable service in this way, is the only thing within our reach if we are to afford the desired relief to any considerable portion of our people in the near future, for stone roads to be a general benefit is simply out of the question for immediate relief. So we will turn our attention to the planking, as suggested, and in order to give the greatest good to the greatest number, cover a few five-mile stretches leading out from the most important centers.

First, then, begin at Hillsboro and cover five miles of the main traveled road across the bottom leading to South Tualatin. Then five more from Hillsboro along the old Hall's mill road, then to the Chalmers farm with a branch to Glencoe, about seven and a half miles. Then from Cornelius to Centreville two and a half miles, then from Forest Grove to Greenville five miles. Then on the most needed lines from Reedville five miles, and to avoid local jealousies as far as possible, let brother Paulsen locate a five-mile stretch. This makes thirty-five miles that should be done immediately.

Now for the figures and general facts. I think we may as well cut our planks three inches thick and sixteen feet long so two loaded teams can pass conveniently, and for the convenience of figuring make them average twelve inches wide. Adopting Antimud's rule, leave one inch space between the planks, we cover one rod with fifteen planks, each one containing forty-eight feet, we thus use 720 feet to the rod, 230,400 feet to do one mile, or 1,152,000 on each five-mile stretch. We require 8,064,000 to cover the thirty-five miles thus proposed, which I estimate will cost at $6 per thousand, $48,384.

Now, here is a nice little job for the sawmill man who is going to get a mill for $400, set it up in one day, borrow a thresher engine, and saw the plank for $4 or $5 per thousand. Well, I presume, our honorable county court and board of commissioners will either buy a mill and do the work, or let the contract to the lowest responsible bidder with some specifications that must be complied with. I think this man will find it necessary to either enlarge his plant or take a back seat.

What we want is plank sawed out of good-sized logs up to forty inches diameter. To do this we must have a good double circular portable mill, carrying two forty, or forty two-inch saws with a thirty-five horse-power engine and strong belts to saw this hard fir into planks that will be durable and make a success of it, but it can not be done profitably with a single circular or side edger, driven by a weak power. My experience in sawing hard fir into square-edged lumber of any kind will not permit me to base my estimates on so low a figure as $4 or even $5.

Doubtless there are good liberal men owning timber suitable for road plank near the proposed lines, who would be willing to give it free for such a public benefit, and so reduce the cost that much to the county, and thus help the contractor to make bread and meat, furnishing it as specified at $6 a thousand at the mill, if fairly good timber can be got free of stumpage near water, for making steam, where 200,000 to 500,000 or more can be sawed at one setting of the mill.

How are we going to raise the money, is the question?

Well, I think the sure and only way to accomplish anything is to bond the county for the desired amount, say $56,000 for 20 years, then hurry up the improvement and we will save in wear and tear more than the cost, principle and interest in 10 years, and make a hundred per cent., besides the enhanced value in real estate all over the county, and I think those living in the foothills, or even the most remote districts would realize more in proportion in enhanced values than those in the valley nearer the terminal centers.

But there is another fact worthy of our consideration that may greatly extend the benefits to be derived by the people of the interior. There are but few, if any, of the lines proposed, that demand continuous planking over a five-mile stretch, but with proper rounding up or turnpiking the uplands with good surface drainage, the swales or bottom lands only need be planked, and thus what would cover five miles may be extended to ten or fifteen miles, reaching the homes of the people in nearly all directions, giving the hill settlers another advantage, as their taxes are very small as compared with those in the valley, whose holdings are rated much higher.

Then let us get out of the old ruts by using wide tires, four to six inches on all heavy carting, thus rolling firm, smooth surface on the unplanked portions, and avoiding the chopping-knife system of running the narrow tires even on our plank roads, and the experience of a five years trial will convince the most skeptical that roads thus treated will be firm and smooth, and even the plank will last much longer as well as the horses.

Another proposition is that the various road districts along these lines are to prepare the roadbed by turnpiking and properly raising it to receive the plank, and lay them firmly on the road, and as an inducement to redouble diligence and vieing with each other, I would give the first benefit to those who make the first and best preparation to receive it, and so on to the end of the material to be furnished.

This plan would throw all the labor of preparation for and laying the plank on the districts through which the lines are to run and ought to shut off all local jealousies of those not quite reached, as they are only taxed for the general fund, while they are certainly interested in the general benefits if not living directly on the lines thus improved.

Now, Mr. Editor and citizens of Washington county, though these figures may seem large, the improvements proposed are not impossibilities, if, instead of crawling into the can't-do-it hiding place and pulling the hole in after us, and becoming not only mossbacks, but mossed all over, we, with an unanimous determination to do it, take hold of the work and resolve to persevere until we relieve ourselves from the present horrid condition of our highways and byways that are not only a bar to our onward progress and prosperity, but an actual disgrace to our intelligence and civilization.

If legal difficulties stand in our way, we, the people who constitute this government and commonwealth, can and should remove them to enable us to build up and improve for our present and future wellbeing.

FARMINGTON.

Mrs. G. S. Robinson is quite sick at her home in this place.

Rev. Skeels, of Scholl's Ferry, held service at the Christian church on Sunday last.

It is reported that the snow is six inches deep about five miles west of here, on the Chehalem mountains.

Rev. F. J. Brown, of Beaverton, will preach in the Methodist church on Sunday, at 3 p. m. He will hold service here at that hour every second and fourth Sunday of each month.

The snow has nearly all disappeared, but everything is in the grip of old Jack Frost.
