HILLSBORO INDEPENDENT.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

C. G. Reisner, of Sherwood, was in town on Monday.

Persons wishing to borrow money will find it to their advantage to call on J. W. Morgan.

Protect from the damp days of fall and winter with rubber overshoes, purchased at Laidlaw's.

There are rumors that the price of hops is advancing. Some sanguine growers anticipate as much as 15 cents.

The Hillsboro base ball team seems not to be in the swim this year. The Laurel boys beat them again last Sunday.

The Newberg fair will open at that town on Monday next, September 24, and continue in exhibition four days.

D. M. C. Gault, secretary of Montezuma lodge I. O. O. F., is ex-officio agent for the selling of lots in Odd Fellow's cemetery at Hillsboro.

Wanted—Farm lands in exchange for Portland property. Send description. H. Allen Shorey, 254 Stark street, Portland, Or. 17-21

Squire Perry Watton, appointed to fill a vacancy in the J. P. district of Dairy, qualified yesterday by taking the oath of office and filing his official bond in the sum of $500.

Wanted,—a man with his wife, who understands farming, to work on a farm and care for stock. None other need apply. Address T. L. McEldowney, Reedville, Or. 16-17

A retired hunter living at Cedar Mill, last Friday, killed a large black bear near his residence. A few weeks ago Mr. Koch saw five bear in that neighborhood in one bunch,—one old one and four cubs.

We have rented the Cornelius warehouse and will conduct it this season. All kinds of grain cleaned and stored. The patronage of all farmers in this part of the county is solicited.

HANCOCK & WISDEWITSCH.

Word comes from the eastern end of the county that the hops which have been exposed to the few showers are badly damaged. There have been a few aphis, and these have, by the cool wether, been driven into the base of the hurs. There they suck the juices that should nourish the hop and mildew soon sets in. Yards in the eastern part of Washington and western part of Clackamas counties are damaged from 30 to 50 per cent. Reports from Lane county are to the effect that the crop is damaged by a mildew.

J. Keim, proprietor of the Imperial Cider and Fruit works, at Cornelius, Oregon, will commence making cider, jelly and apple butter for customers November 25th, 1894. Owing to a short apple crop, I will only work three days in a week—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. I will, under no circumstances, work up green, unripe or rotten fruit, and I earnestly request all my customers to clean and finish their barrels at home 23 days before they come to the mill. All work must be paid for before taking the goods away. 17-19

Last Thursday evening Miss Bagley, at her father's farm north of town went out in the early evening to fasten up the smoke-house, when she heard some one down by the granary. Being a girl of spirit she took a walk down toward the wheat bins and got there in time to see two worthies run. She called her brother, but before he could get to the scene the visitors had gained the brush. On returning to the house a light up the road attracted their attention, which upon investigation proved to be fire in a pile of lumber intended for a hop house, lying by the side of the road half way to Mr. Blanchard's. The lumber was set on fire by parties who expected to attract the attention of both Mr. Blanchard's and Mr. Bagley's people, so as to better commit a planned burglary. Mr. Bagley was not at home that evening. The loss by fire is trifling and the theft was hindered.

About 1 o'clock Saturday morning, W. V. Wiley was aroused from a profound sleep by a vigorous rapping at the front door and another at the rear. Awake sufficiently to be conscious he found that his woodpile of fifteen cords was all ablaze from the furnace of the steam saw that had cut it the day before. A garden hose turned on only made the flames the merrier. It was like throwing turf at the boy in the apple tree. Wiley then ran to the city hall and called the aid of the fire company. The boys went and soon had a pipe line and a great stream on that controlled the fire almost instantly. The fire out, the apparatus was housed. But there was the coffee club with steaming coffee which was joyously sipped amid jokes by the fire ladies. Only one was heard who feared that his tongue would be burned, wherefore he asked for "cold coffee." This ceremony over, the boys gave a lusty cheer for the coffee club, and then accompanied its members—their mothers, wives and sisters,—home. The coffee club is a good organization, and may anguish be the portion for him who disrespectfully criticises it.

Several items of the methods of the steel cooking range agents have been noticed, but having heard nothing of their operations here it was thought that this county had escaped, but it has not. In '93 a slick confidence man drove his red wagon out among the farmers and sold several of those "new steel ranges worth $75, but because of a kind regard for the prospective purchaser, the accommodating agent would take $72 and accept a personal note for that amount payable on or before five years." The note was signed by both husband and wife and the stove fired up. It proved fairly good, but no better than one of cast iron costing no more than $15, at least the bread baked in the newfangled thing was no sweeter, but rather exceedingly bitter this summer when a collecting agent called for his money. "Note is not due for four years yet." "O yes, it is, my good man. It reads plainly September 1, 1894." And so it did. Now, what puzzles our victimized farmer is to know just how his signature was transferred from that five year note to the one year bill payable. There are several victims in the north part of the county, but they are too gritty to squeal.

The sugar trust and the other combines exert a bad influence upon men. This example tends to make its victims vain, overbearing, dictatorial—disagreeable in many ways. A case in point was seen and overheard at the station a few days ago between a country editor and a drummer for a big proprietary medicine firm. It seems that the editor was going on train nearly due, and that the patent medicine man wanted to make a yearly advertising contract. The work to be done was shown and the publisher made a few figures and stopped, saying: "There is no use for us to talk, you will not pay the rates." "Well, I have made contracts in every town where I have tried, and I don't see why we can't here." Pencil silently pointed to his figures. "Oh, you are beyond all reason. Such rates are prohibitory. I made a contract with your secretary of state for $20. It was all he asked, and his circulation is greater than you claim." Here the other got in a word to this effect. "Well, perhaps Kincaid can afford to do the work for that since he has a pull at the state, but we, who helped elect him, have to pay our bills by a strict attention to business." Drummer then tried the humanatarian dodge. "Your sick people need these remedies, and you ought to make your charges reasonable so we can reach—" "Come off there. That don't go. My paper has got to live as well as your medicine house, and, besides, we have Linklater, Bailey, Tamiesie and Wood, who will take care of us, and their prescriptions are filled at our drugstores quite as willingly as the clerks hand out your bottles and boxes." About that time the conductor drawled "All aboard." The country publisher stepped on and the aforesaid "agent" went back to town without his advertising contract. It is not yet signed. The trouble is those houses want work done for about a tenth of what it is worth, and such breaks as some of the papers make does not help matters.

Last Sunday, at the M. E. church, was the last service in the conference year. Rev. Mr. Elworty has been with the Hillsboro church for two years, and a sort of inventory is in order. At this last service seven accessions to the church in the city were received, and at the Jab school house five more, making in all forty-four that have been received during Mr. Elworthy's pastorate. In that time the Sunday school has had a steady growth in members and efficiency and that, too, in the absence of the distribution of reward cards or papers employed as allurements. By these ecomies the disbursements for the school have been reduced to no more than $24 or $25 per year. The offerings to the severel benevolences of the church during the first year of his pastorate amounted to about $70, during the year just closing they dropped to $50. Rev. Elworthy goes to the annual conference feeling that his labors have not been entirely unprofitable.

The Oregon Press Association will meet in Pendleton, Umatilla county, Tuesday, October 2, and remain in session till its business is completed. The train bearing the members from the Willamette valley will leave Portland Monday evening at 7 o'clock. Members of the association have already been informed where transportation may be had. Editors not belonging to the association but who intend to ask for admission, with their wives, will be furnished with transportation by communicating with E. L. E. White, station A., Portland.

Some of Mr. Charles Henderson's friends gave him a surprise on Thursday eve of last week at the residence of his brother, Mr. A. G. Anderson. Among those present were Misses Tony, Honzaik, Annie Honzaik, James, Garlington and Barr, Messrs. Hale, Carter, Craig, Stone, Hanna and Walker. Mr. Anderson expects to start for Europe in a few days, where he will visit during the next few months. His many friends will wish him a pleasant winter and hope he will soon return.

This week the departure of a number of our young people to schools of higher education is to be chronicled Hon. T. H. Tongue's young people resumed studies at Forest Grove. John Willis and Clyde Reeves went to the Portland University. John Gault has gone and Oliver Gates will, on Monday next, go to the State Agricultural College at Corvallis. There may be others, but they choose not to let the left hand know what the right does.

Contractor Imbrie, on Thursday, commenced work on the Jackson bridge across Tualatin river. That bridge will be pushed to an early completion. The piles are of cedar cut near Shady Brook, and hauled a distance of eleven miles. The logs are quite large, and the transportation problem gives some anxiety.

The call of Mr. O. Pihl, United States assistant engineer, is acknowledged. Mr. Pihl is in Washington county for the purpose of examining the Tualatin rive rfrom the Jackson bridge, south of town, to its mouth, that its navigability may be determined.

It is not necessary to call further attention to Messrs. Tucker's & Co's. annuuncement. It is plain enough for all to see. But it is perhaps proper to state that Mr. T. S. Weatherred will be found in attendance, and prepared to show goods or write receipts.

Marriage licenses have been issued September 11 to A. A. Mead, aged 34 years, and Edith Ellis, aged 18 years; September 15th to Ernest Lehman aged 25 years, and Mary Schmidt aged 19 years.

Blind Tom will be exhibited in this city by the Hillsboro Reed and Cornet band, about the 9th of next month.

W. R. Craig will pay $1 per hundred for milk testing 4 per cent, delivered at Hillsboro creamery. 17-19

The Glencoe bridge has been completed and thrown open to the public. It is a substantial structure.

The Bethany band is preparing a program to be given in the near future, in the band stand.

The A. P. A. will have a big lecturer in this city on next Thursday evening.

The hop yards have been stripped and the product served in good condition.

Mr. Phil Withycombe, of North Yamhill, was in town Monday for a few hours.

RAILROAD MEETING.

Pursuant to a call the citizens of North Tualatin Plains met last Saturday, September 15, at 3 p. m., at Wilkes school house. The meeting was called to order by R. W. McNuitt. Martin Manning was elected chairman and A. Shepherd, secretary. The purpose of the meeting was to take steps in connection with the Nehalem settlers to interest capital in building a railroad from Portland or Oregon City up West Dairy to Vernonia. Mr. Sidney Dell, on behalf of the Nehalem settlers asked the meeting to appoint a committee to act with their committee in securing a subsidy. He said in substance:

"You have the most fertile valley in the world. It is the richest part of the most fertile valley in Oregon. North Tualatin plains at the junction of east and west Dairy creek is of unequalled wealth in its soil, and thickly settled with industrious citizens. Within two miles of where I stand begins one of the greatest coal and iron basins of the world. It is 40 miles square. It extends to the banks of the Columbia and from the coast range to the gates of Portland. In the valley of the basin flows the Nehalem river, meandering for 100 miles through the rich treasures. I come as a messenger from those people to say that we wish to join hands with you in seeking railway connection with Portland, the great metropolis of the Northwest.

Three miles from here up west Dairy slopes of the iron basin is thrown up out of Beach's well, a pile of the richest red hematite rust. All around are like evidences of the best iron deposit. Just over the divide are the vast coal fields of Pebble creek with no less than five veins of rich, bituminous coal. All these but await the life-giving touch of railway connection to develop great wealth for us and for Portland. Amidst the conflicting interests of early times and the rapid development of Oregon since transcontinental railway connection, this richest region has been overlooked in the railway system. Its greatness now demands recognition. It is true a blight has fallen upon our land and money for new enterprises is difficult. But this is such an extraordinary region that in my opinion a good land subsidy well handled would bring us either an electric line or an extension of the Southern Pacific. There are many interests that could now be enlisted. Portland itself is deeply interested in the development of this richest of her tributaries. The Oswego iron works with its two million dollar plant should bestir itself. The Portland General Electric Co. has a vast interest in getting its water power extended this way. The S. P., too, should be touched up. If Nenalem and Tualatin will join hands we can get the road. I am here on behalf of the Nehalem to urge you to join with us." R. W. McNutt addressed the meeting in some encouraging words. D. M. C. Gault, of the Hillsboro INDEPENDENT, made some very interesting remarks, full of sound sense. Upon motion, Martin Manning, Jabez Wilkes and R. W. McNutt were appointed a committee to act with the Nehalem committee to secure a land subsidy for railway connection to Vernonia. A disposition to a liberal subsidy was manifest.

On motion, the subsidy committee was instructed to ascertain the amount of the subsidy to be had from Jabez Wilkes farm via Glencoe and Cornelius pass, as well as by Forest Grove, Cornelius and Hillsboro, to Portland, and to decide upon the best route.

Mr. Jabez Wilkes presented the importance of the railroad in a very strong light to the farmers.

A resolution was passed requesting the people between Greenville and Hillsboro to call a meeting at Cornelius to consider this road; also a like request to the farmers about Glencoe. The meeting then adjourned. There was a fair-sized attendance, but the county papers containing the call did not get around until Saturday evening, so many did not know of it. Great interest is being excited.

The president of the Portland General Electric Co., and the secretary of the Oswego iron works, write very favorably of the movement. The former, while not at present wanting to control the line would aid all in its power.

OBSTRUCTIONS IN TUALATIN.

The adjourned meeting of the freeholders on Tualatin river bottom was held in the court house last Saturday, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. Superintendent Watson, of the Steel and Iron Co., was also present. He exhibited plans of the work proposed by his company, looking to the lowering of the dam. The plans were discussed at length and while the results will not be equal to an unobstructed river, they were so favorably considered that the meeting unanimously adopted this resolution on the motion of Judge Thos. D. Humphreys, seconded by Loui Rood:

RESOLVED, That it is the expression of this meeting that, although any obstruction in the Tualatin river by erecting a dam at or near the present dam built by the Oregon Iron and Steel Company is a damage to the farmers on said river, we would make no objection to the proposition, and plan exhibited, offered by Mr. Watson, the general superintendent of said company, to-wit: That the present dam shall be lowered to a level 2 feet below the present crest in the center for a distance of 175 feet, and may extend on south side one foot higher for a distance of 24½, and then one foot higher for a distance of six feet and one foot higher for seven feet, and to be permitted to raise the water in the river by means of slush boards 205 feet in length and of width not to exceed 3 feet from the 15th of June to the 15th of September, but no later unless necessary to keep the water in the river at the present stage.

No further business presenting, the meeting adjourned till Saturday, September 14, 1895, one year hence.

PROBATE COURT.

Estate of H. C. C. Demmins, deceased. On petition, Bertha Demmins, widow of deceased, is appointed administratrix of the estate with bonds fixed at $2,500, upon the filing of which letters of administration will issue. The appraisers are Conrad Schulmerich, Christopher Helmold and Rudolph Meyer.

Guardianship of A. C. Wilkins, a spendthrift; ordered that Joseph Klineman, guardian, pay and turn over to the person named, as executor of the last will and testament of A. C. Wilkins, deceased, $1219.40. Balance in money in hands of said guardian at time of settlement, one note executed by Robert Imbrie for $600, and one wagon appraised at $85. And that the claim and final account of said guardian be discharged, and bondsmen be exhonerated upon the filing of proper receipts.

NOTES FROM GREENVILLE.

Ben Wade, of this place, has gone up to John Hain y's hop yard to learn how to dry hops.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Shirley started for Yaquina today, where they will make their future home.

Max Moore, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore, who was seriously sick, has recovered.

Miss Hattie Moore will start to school at Pacific University at Forest Grove, this week.

Mr. S. C. Wilson, of Glencoe, visited this place last Sunday.

John Dooley killed a large bear last Monday, that weighed over 300 pounds.

Moore, Ireland & Co's store was burglarized about two weeks ago. The entrance was gained by taking out a glass in the front window. The burglar took an axe and cut the money till open, but did not secure any money.

Dr. Parker has got a new well dug at his residence.

School started here today with Miss Josephine Sheover, of Gales Creek, as teacher.

GLENWOOD.

Mr. Ed Wagner has been very sick with inflammation of the stomach, but is convalescent now.

Mr. I. R. Hogan spent several days in Portland last week.

Mrs. Lizzie Griffin had quite an experience recently. While out cow hunting she completely lost herself within three-fourths of a mile of home.

The effort to start a Bible class last Sunday at Glenwood was a failure. The people who live up here don't seem to be that way inclined.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder

California, empire of the Pacific, salutes the world. Her Midwinter Fair closed in a midsummer blaze of glory Second only to the Columbian Exposition in extent, variety and splendor, the coast display was a veritable triumph. Out of her abundance the state poured her treasures—and the nations of the earth came to aid her in her noble exhibition.

Memorable were the exhibits—of gold and silver, of wheat and oil, of fruit and wine, of silk and wool—of all that man and nature could combine to produce. And no exhibit attracted more attention or excited warmer approval than that of

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

Official tests showed it to be highest in leavening power, purest in quality, and most efficient in results of all baking powders made. Accordingly, the Highest Award and Gold Medal were conferred on Dr. Price's at the Midwinter Fair.

The triumph at San Francisco confirms the victory at Chicago. The Midwinter Fair verdict sustains and vindicates the bestowal of highest honors on Dr. Price's by the jury of awards at the World's Columbian Exposition.

MORE PARTICULARS.

The following particulars of the accident to J. P. Catchings of whose death a short item was published a few days ago, are taken from the Missoula Standard, of August 31:

A party of ten men left here this morning to search for the body of J. P. Catchings, the Bearmouth saw mill owner, who had been missing since Sunday. Five more joined the party at Bonner and at Bearmouth the searchers were taken to where Catchings was last seen Monday noon. Search was organized and the party proceeded to scour the canyon of lower Rock creek, up which the unfortunate man was traveling.

Where the canyon becomes rough and narrow, about four miles from the mouth of Rock creek, the trail of the horse was found and following this a place was discovered where the animal had jumped over a fallen tree, and just beyond was the saddle with the front cinch broken.

It required but a few minutes' search after this to find the body of the missing man, which lay a short distance from the saddle, in a position which indicated that he had been thrown from the horse. His head was lying on a stone and beneath his neck was a thin slab of slate rock which the man had struck on the edge when he fell.

His jaw fractured and his neck was broken. Death must have been instantaneous, as the fracture of the neck was complete and there was no sign of a struggle where the body lay.

The theory of death is that when Catchings forced his horse over the fallen tree the front cinch of the saddle burst and the horse began to buck, as indicated by the marks in the soft ground near by. The rider must have been thrown upon the rocks, which caused his death. His rifle was under his arm, but the cartridge in the barrel had not been discharged and there was no sign of a gunshot wound on the body. The remains were brought to this city on the afternoon train.

Mr. Catchings leaves a wife and one child, who were in camp on Rock creek where he was going to join them, when he was killed. They returned to their home Tuesday. Mr. Catchings was a man who was generally respected by a large circle of acquaintances.

From the Missoulian the following account of the funeral is taken:

The funeral services over the remains of Joel P. Catching, an account of whose terrible fate was duly chronicled in Thursday's Missoulian, occurred from the Christian church, in this city, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Ireland officiating. The services and subsequent interment were largely attended by the residents of the deceased gentleman's former home, Bearmouth, where his untimely end is most keenly felt. A large number of Missoulians and sympathizing friends from other points were also in attendance to pay their last tributes to the memory of their departed friend.

[Joel Parker Catching was a native of Missouri, aged 51 years. When but merely a lad, in 1845, he crossed the plains to Oregon, with his parents, remaining in that state until 1865, when he journeyed to Montana and settled in Alt Reynolds City, Missoula county, at which place he engaged in mining and mercantile business, still retaining at the time of his death many valuable mineral interests along the gulches in that vicinity. Mr. Catching was one of the early settlers in Phillipsburg and in 1856 erected and commenced the operation of the saw mills at Bearmouth which still stand as a monument to his memory. Since engaging in the lumbering business he has been largely interested in the construction of bridges and trestles along the line of the Northern Pacific in western Montana. Mr. Catching was known to the many with whom he came in contact as a brave and fearless man, honest to the core and generous to a fault. He had experienced many ups and downs during his life in Montana and was at one time regarded as one of the wealthiest men in the Northwest. The deceased gentleman leaves a wife and two children, a son of 26 and a little girl of 6 years of age, who are well provided with this world's goods.]

Among the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young, none are more prominent than severe sickness. The young mother vividly remembers that it was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured her of croup, and in turn administers it to her own offspring and always with the best results. A Good Thing to Keep at Hand.

Some years ago we were very much subject to severe spells of cholera morbus; and now when we feel any of the symptoms that usually preceed that ailment, such as sickness at the stomach, diarrhœa, etc., we become scary. We have found Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhœa remedy the very thing to straighten one out in such cases, and always keep it about. We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but to let our readers know what is a good thing to keep handy in the house. For sale by Hillsboro Pharmacy.
