

HILLSBORO INDEPENDENT.

FRIDAY, JUNE 28.

J. I. Knight has money to loan, and lay notes.

J. I. Knight is always prepared for all kinds of notarial work, especially conveying.

Sheriff Ford was confined to his room two days this week, but is about again, though he is not yet well.

On these hot afternoons, when the heat is at a melting temperature, the ladies ought to go to Schulmerich's to do their trading, because it is cool there.

Wednesday and Thursday were interesting occasions. The thermometer melted among the tinettes most of the time during the day, though the nights were cool and refreshing.

Those desiring advertising space on the daily programs for the big celebration can contract for the same by calling upon the committee on printing—W. H. Wehring, L. A. Long and D. M. C. Gault.

Comin! July 3d, 4th and 5th, at the opera house, the Alabama Jubilee Singers. The songs that they will sing upon this occasion are entirely new, of their own composition, and will please the most fastidious.

The O. R. & N. Co., always alert to the welfare of their patrons, have placed on sale at principal stations, a 1,000-mile ticket, at the rate of three cents per mile, good one year from date of sale, and good for passage over the rail and water lines of their system.

The Philharmonic Glee Club, of Portland, will give a concert in the opera house, Friday, June 28th. Doors open at 7:30 p. m. Admission, adults, 25 cents; children, 15 cents. Proceeds for the benefit of the Evangelical church. Come and enjoy a musical treat.

Hon. Thos. H. Tongue will deliver the oration at the celebration in the city on the Fourth of July. The Salem Statesman, in making the announcement, indulges in a little pleasantry by remarking that "Hillsboro can not hold her tongue on the Fourth. That honor is reserved for the capital city."

The fireworks to be exhibited on the evening of the Fourth is one of the finest selections offered by the whole state. Its like has never before been set up for a Washington county audience. Some of the pieces have never been shown in the state.

The sunset piece, the crowning glory of the display, is worth a twenty-mile ride to see. It is estimated that two hours will be required to make the display. The elders should see to it that the boys of the county, and the girls as well, have an opportunity to see the fiery exhibition.

The doctors of Hillsboro report that there is not a case of scarlet fever or diphtheria in the city, and we who live here may have truly passed through our streets without realizing that such contagions have been here for a year, though, by consulting the records we know that about two months ago there have been cases of diphtheria in one resident family, and in another family that came from Forest Grove and was temporarily domiciled here. About the same time there was a case of scarlet fever. But these cases have all recovered, and the quarantine of their homes was raised weeks ago.

The statement published in the Sun and Oregonian, that the Hillsboro brass band and the fire department are going to Portland on the 4th of July, which is next Thursday, is utterly without foundation. We know we have a band of good musicians, and Portland and the fire department cannot command their services on this occasion. They are going to stay at home and entertain the Bethany band and the other band boys that will be here then. The statement found in the Sun and Oregonian, that the same way that the Bethany band and the other band boys that will be here then, is another thing. But the trip has to be made because a valuable franchise for an electric light expires on the 4th of July, unless work is begun at once, wherefore he had to go.

Those spreading the story that the celebration grounds at Hillsboro are a mile and a half from the center of town, are magnifying the size of the town beyond what truth justifies. Warren's grove is just east of and adjoining the last tier of blocks built upon, and it is a half mile from Main at what is commonly considered the business center of town.

Mr. J. C. Lamkin has polished and otherwise renovated D. T. Phillips' small brass cannon of unknown antecedents, and the gun is now mounted on a carriage and ready for service on the Fourth. A company of artillery have been organized from among the boys. This battery will be a prominent feature in the procession on Independence Day.

B. B. Godwin bought a blooded Berkshire brood sow the first of the week, of which he was justly proud, but he awoke on Wednesday morning to find that she was dead. Just how the accident happened and what was the cause of her death, he does not know, but he is moving her from the city to the farm demanded the penalty.

Lieutenant-General Schofield, of the U. S. army, was in Portland on Tuesday, staying till Wednesday morning. His visit to the Pacific is for the purpose of inspecting the military posts and barracks, which duty the commanding officer of the army is required to do periodically.

The South Tualatin creamery has just added to its plant a new and larger boiler, which is being put in place. The boiler was too small and was taxed to its utmost capacity. The new boiler is an economical wood burner.

All agents of the Southern Pacific Company will sell round trip tickets, at a single trip rate, good for transportation on all trains leaving such points on this week, and on morning of July 4th, and valid for return only on and after the 8th.

Editor E. L. Jameson, late of the Colville Republic, spent a few days in town this week, the guest of Judge T. D. Humphreys. Mr. Jameson is a very entertaining visitor and one who will always be a welcome caller.

Two large wells have been dug at Warren park and pumps put in. These will furnish water for the thousands who will be on the grounds next week.

Charles W. Tarleton, who has been living at Beaverton for some time, left home on the 10th of May, and by his continual silence causes great anxiety for his safety. Tarleton came to Oregon about five years ago, stayed about Portland for a time, and then went to Beaverton, where his industry, economy and good habits soon raised up friends. He bought off the Horabucke donation an acre tract and at once commenced to improve it. He cleared and fenced his lot and built a small house on it. Here he lived. Having paid for the first acre he bought another, which was added to the first, and payments had been made as agreed. When he came to Portland he loaned some money to parties unknown to his friends. A few days before May 10th he incidentally mentioned to a friend that the Portland parties were ready to pay their note and that he was going down soon to get his money. He did not state the amount or the names of the parties. He started on the 10th ult., since which time none of his Beaverton friends have seen or heard from him, notwithstanding diligent enquiry has been made. His house has been searched but nothing has been found to account for his absence. Among his letters is one from F. E. Harnaack, Johnson Creek, Wis. Another shows that the missing man once lived at St. Paul, Minn. The police in Portland have failed to get any trace of him in their city.

The public school at Beaverton closed a successful year's work on Friday evening of last week. A course of study was adopted about two years ago, and pursuing that list of studies, a class of six girls completed the stipulated work this year and at the exercises on Friday evening received their diplomas. The happy recipients are Hattie and Daisy Davies, Venonia Morton, Mattie Wolf, Lillian Evans and Della Burbank. Principal Bates, of Tualatin Academy, addressed the class and congratulated their diploma.

One of the laughable features of the procession, next Thursday, will be the "calithumpians," or "honorificabilitudinitatibusque." The boys have been in training for months, and they will be able to create a sensation. They have humor in their make-up.

Dr. I. D. Driver, one day this week, on his farm near Eugene, met an antagonist more formidable than Bob Ingersoll. Walking through a pasture, he was attacked by a roan bull that gored him severely. In his escape, he threw himself on a barbed wire fence and was still further lacerated.

Mrs. Tiffany, who has worked so acceptably in the public school at this place for the year just closed, and who had been re-elected, does not accept a position here for the next year, but goes to Portland, where she has a place in the schools of that city. This change is unfortunate for our schools, as the lady has done excellent work here, and has made many friends, both among the children and their parents.

Luna and Venus embraced on Tuesday night. As early as 8 o'clock on that evening the proximity of the star Venus to the moon was noticed. The star appeared to the left and above the upper horn of the crescent, and gradually the distance between the two was lessened till the small light seemed to touch and float on the outside rim of the moon. They kissed. It was a beautiful sight, and was observed by hundreds of people.

Wednesday morning, Earl Cawston, aged 14 years, who was sailing wood for his aunt, Mrs. Shute, had occasion to enter an adjoining lot, and instead of going around by the gate, he started to climb over the pickets. When on top, his foot slipped and he fell, his whole weight coming on the sharp point of a picket, which entered the fleshy part of his upper thigh, making a serious wound. Dr. F. A. Bailey was called to the injured boy, and dressed the wound. There are no fears for his ultimate recovery, though this Fourth of July is meaningless for him.

A homesteader having a tract of land on the hill beyond Forest Grove passed through Hillsboro last Sunday trundling a wheelbarrow, on which was loaded two sacks of flour, as well as a number of other packages. He, being unable to make a living on his place in its present unimproved condition, is obliged to labor for hire. This employment he finds in Portland, and from that city he had brought his wheelbarrow and its load. When asked why he brought flour so far, he replied, "I had to bring the wheelbarrow, and I might as well bring it loaded."

Miss Sharpless, who was in our school here last year, has a position in the Portland schools.

Strawberries are yet in market, but they are from patches on the mountains. Fine berries, though.

The executive committee will have a lot of tents to set next week, possession to be given at the close of the celebration.

The Philharmonic Glee Club, of Portland, sings to-night, in the opera house, for the benefit of the Evangelical church.

The executive committee will be able to furnish hot roast meats to the thousands who attend the celebration here next Thursday.

There is a climbing rose clinging to the porch and roof of Mr. Williams' residence, on Second street. It attracts attention from all passers-by.

The road across Jackson bottom is not so smooth as it should be. There are many ruts that ought to be filled, and yet it is doubtful if any material other than stone will serve the purpose.

Mrs. Crocker, relict of A. T. Crocker, deceased, died yesterday afternoon at the residence of her son Charles. The funeral will occur tomorrow morning, at 10 o'clock, in the Masonic cemetery.

The teachers selected for the Hillsboro school for the next year are Prof. Stanley, Mrs. D. J. Elliott, Misses Coleman, Rose Wilcox, Grace Bessow, Lucy Humphreys and Grace Cronkite, and Mrs. M. M. Pittenger. One is yet to be selected.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE. Just at the time when a change is making in the office of superintendent there is more or less of disorganization. Such was realized last week at the annual meeting of the teachers' institute. Some of Supt. Bond's plans were discussed, and Supt. Craig, not yet in office, had no real authority nor time to make new arrangements. But, notwithstanding the seeming want of interest, the session was profitable, and the ground work was laid for a good meeting for the next time of holding it.

The teachers of the county are alive to their work, as the roll-call abundantly testifies. Those present on the occasion were: Hillsboro—Ella Lichty, Lulu Mann, May Willis, Samuel J.
