OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

FRIDAY, JULY 12.

OREGON PRESS ASSOCIATION.

The ninth annual meeting of the Oregon Press Association is hereby called to meet in the city of Newport on Saturday, July 20, 1895, at 8 o'clock p. m. All arrangements have been made for hotel accommodations for the press, and the general program of the session is being prepared by the executive committee, E. L. E. White, chairman, Portland. Those desiring transportation should notify the president not later than July 10th. Association papers please copy this notice.

J. R. BEEGLE,
President.

The new chief of the weather bureau is a republican; and therefore in harmony with the rains that have recently dampened the prospects of the free silver movement in the West.

Secretary of State Kincaid is an unlucky official. Now he is in trouble with the board of regents of the Weston normal school. The last legislature made an appropriation for buying additional ground and for buildings. The secretary refuses to draw warrants on the appropriation because there is no law authorizing such appropriations.

The completion a few years ago of the object-glass of the Lick refractor, with a diameter of 36 inches, was rightly considered an important event in astronomy, but the Yerkes lens, now ready at Cambridge, Mass., is 41½ inches in diameter, and is without an equal in size. When it is mounted at the Lake Geneva, Wis., observatory the attention of astronomers throughout the world will be turned in that direction as the most probable point of new discoveries.

The first step of the binding twine trust has been taken. It is a news report to the effect there is to be a twine famine,. This will be an excuse for raising the price of string. The thing happened somewhat similiarly last year. It is now stated that the surplus left over from last year added to what has been manufactured since, is not enough to supply the demand. It is really to be hoped that the "surplus" will be used this year so that it will not be depended upon hereafter.

A Cornell boating crew went over to England a few weeks ago to row in English waters. They met their antagonists on Tuesday and got the word "go." They went, but the Englishmen did not start, wherefore the Yanks were declared to be the winners. The English team is mad, first, at the umpire, himself British, second, at Cornell, who get the abuse. Leander, the English team, has a reputation for trickery, and some critics do not hesitate to assert that they were up to some dark game, but got beaten.

When one goes to church and listens to a most affecting and earnest appeal for money to spread the gospel through the world, and then looking around sees enough waste material in the ladies' sleeves to keep a missionary in the field, he's apt to think of Hezekiah 13: 18: "Woe to the woman that sews pillow slips to her arm holes."—Riddle Enterprise. That is reading to frighten our wives and daughters, but then they need not be alarmed, since the quotation is like some others. It is not there. There is no such book as Hezekiah in the bible.

Very heavy wind and rain storms have visited the Mississippi valley during the past week. In some localities so rapid have been the rise of water that inhabitants have been driven from their homes and even drowned before high lands could be reached. The severity of the storms can be imagined by comparing the rainfall there with ours here. The news report states that seven inches of rain fell in some localities in one day. Here our most severe storms in twenty-four hours amount to no more than one and a half inches. It is a hard rain in Oregon that in twenty-four hours precipitates an inch water.

Some years ago, by act of congress, an American company was permitted to buy two of the ocean greyhounds and sail them under our flag, conditioned, though, that other ships of the same class should be built in America and put in the same trade. A new line was established between Southampton, England, and New York. The American ships were at once commenced. The first one, the St. Louis, has been completed and has made its first round trip, behaving in a satisfactory manner, except that on its return trip, its immense rudder gave way, and for a time left the steamer a helpless hulk in mid-ocean. But the captain is a Yankee, and had coasted down many a New England hill. His ship has twin screw propellers, and by working these—kicking first with one foot, then the other—as occasion required, he brought his ship to port only a few hours behind time. The rudder was at once replaced by a new one, and the ship started on the second voyage at the time fixed.

TRAIN ROBBERS.

The traveling public is allowing itself to be terrorized by a set of outlaws in a way that could be avoided by the exercise of a little nerve. It was only last week that two men out near Riddles deliberately robbed thirty or forty. Indeed, so methodical was the work done that almost an hour's time was required for the job. Long before the highwayman reached certain parts of the train, passengers had notice of what was happening ahead, and hid valuables successfully. Now, if that thing could be done, what hindered the same individuals from organizing a resistance. They were not surprised by being covered by a gun. A little grit and a little management would have made them heroes instead of laughing stocks. And generally the traveling public by its cowardice has so encouraged the very small lawless population that enterprises are undertaken and successfully executed, that would not be attempted were there any resistance shown. A man going on a journey refuses to arm himself because the robber would get the "drop" on him when the citizen's pistol would be useless. But it ought to be remembered that one or two men cannot cover thirty or forty people all at once in a car. Even the train men do not carry weapons, holding them to be useless after the "drop." Others say they would rather lose ten or twenty dollars than have the remembrance of killing a man present with them for the remainder of life. It seems that a sufficient answer to this is, that if no man has a greater sin on his conscience than shooting a robber, there will be few to go to Hades.

Again, trainmen may say they are not paid to fight highwaymen. Well, let a few of them be discharged because they refuse or neglect to guard their train and they will soon conclude that they are paid for that service. All Europe allowed itself to be held up during the first part of this century by the pirates of the Barbary states in Africa, till Uncle Sam, then a young man, plucked up courage and whipped the sons of the desert. And that is just what must be done with these land pirates. It is cowardice not to resist.

THE HAWK EYES.

The state republican nominating convention of Iowa has just adjourned. General Drake was nominated for governor on the 6th ballot. The platform, among other things, declares:

"The democratic party is convicted of obtaining power in 1892 under false pretenses. In its platform it declared the policy of protection to be unconstitutional; but with complete power in its hands its lawmakers have utterly failed to carry out the policy to which they were pledged. It is a farcical pretense of the democratic party to claim credit for a measure for which nine months ago its president withheld his approval, and denounced as a humiliating abandonment of their cardinal principles. The senate bill, substituted for the Wilson bill, is not a measure which the republican party would father. It reduces the revenue upon luxuries, a method of levy more effective than any income tax; it restores taxation to sugar; it reduces the wage rate in many industries in which labor is the chief element of cost; but it maintains in many of its parts the principle which the democratic party declares to be unconstitutional. To claim credit under it, is to claim credit for abandoning its policy and adopting the principles which it has denounced.

"We affirm the declarations of the republican platform of 1892, adopted at Minneapolis, that the American people from tradition and interest favor bimetalism, and the republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money, with such restrictions and under such provisions to be determined by legislation, as will secure the maintenance of the parity of value of the two metals so that the purchasing and debtpaying power of the dollar, whether silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal. The interest of the producers of the country, its farmers and workingmen demand that every dollar, paper or coin, issued by the government shall be as good as any other. We urge that the United States exert its influence to establish with the important commercial nations of the world an international agreement which will enable this country to reopen its mints to the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold, without the loss of one or the other from the volume of our money."

Senator Allison, speaking to the convention, had this to say on the currency question:

"The republican party has been, and is now, in favor of a sound national currency, a currency always redeemable in coin. Whatever the form of our money, whether gold, silver or paper, it must have equal purchasing power. Gold and silver have always been and will continue to be the money of the world. They are not the creature of accident. The metals are the natural money of the world because of their divisibility and their non-destructibility. The price of these metals, gold and silver, must of necessity be determined and measured by the same rule as applied to all other commodities. That is by the quantity produced and the demand for its use. By this rule, gold is the more precious and silver the least valuable. We recognize this difference in value in the coinage of silver and gold into money at a fair ratio. That ratio thus fixed may become changed and seriously disturbed by an abnormal increase in the products of one or the other.

"The enormous production of silver in the past few years in this and other countries has increased the quantity without relatively increasing the demand, and has lowered the value. Silver being necessary in the money of the world, we must either maintain its coinage at par, by legislative limitation of the amount, or change the coinage ratio to the basis of its market value. Under the policy of legislative limitation of the amount, aided by the redemption when in excess of the demand, we have maintained at par our silver coin, although its intrinsic value is less. This policy was satisfactory so long as the price of silver continued high, but when it became reduced on account of over-production and other causes, there sprung up a demand by the producers of silver for special silver legislation. This claim is now crystalized into a demand for free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1. This means to give to every man, to every nation, the right to deposit at the mints of the United States silver in unlimited quantity and to demand and receive in return, free of charge or cost, that silver coined into money at the ratio of 16 to 1, bearing the stamp of our government.

"In my judgment, such a policy will establish America as the dumping ground of the silver of the world. It means repudiation. It will bring an avalanche of silver, but a rest for labor. The republicans of Iowa, if we owe a debt, we expect to pay it in money worth par, worth 100 cents on the dollar, with money of equal purchasing power with any other money of the world. If any one owes us, we demand and expect payment in money of equal value. This is a vital question to all classes. The farmer, laborer, merchant, manufacturer, all classes have an interest in the maintenance of good currency. The dollar they receive for their products and labor should have the highest purchasing power, and be as good as the best dollar in the world. Upon a sound currency depends to a large extent the development, the prosperity, the success and the maintenance of our people.

"So now, the republican party must not be lured by what might be called an apparent craze sweeping over the country, but must take its position according to every right of this question. In my view, we should favor bimetalism, the use of both silver and gold, with the largest use of silver in our currency that will not impair or endanger in anyway the parity in value of all money in circulation, whether metallic or paper. We should favor an international conference to adopt a measure that will insure the parity of value between gold and silver for use as money. The United States should not open its mints to free coinage of silver until arrangements have all been made with other leading nations whereby they will agree to concurrently open their mints to free coinage at an agreed ratio."

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech has been cast in bronze. Its delivery occuples only two or three minutes, and yet if Lincoln had made no other speech that one would have placed him at the head of the orators of his time. It has but one equal in the whole range of literature, ancient or modern, that of the Greek orator, Thucydides, who pronounced a similar oration over the graves of the heroes of Thermopylæ. It is doubtful if Lincoln ever knew of that masterpiece. As the voice of Moses to the Jews that brief Gettysburg address will stand as a lesson and an inspiration to the American citizen.

This week, one of the largest religious gatherings that has ever been known in this country is holding at Boston. It is the annual Convention of the Christian Endeavor Societies, comprising over 50,000 delegates and representing a total membership of 2,500,000. The growth of this organization is one of the wonders of the period, and its influence is second to that of no other religious organization.

The board of education in Philadelphia has decided to dispense with a final examination in the girls' High School of those pupils whose record shows no failure during the year. This looks like a case of gumption, for which Garfield always allowed 65 per cent when he was engaged in educational affairs.

Mr. Cleveland placed 2500 employes of the government printing office under civil service rules last week. The democrats now are enthusiastically in favor of 1 service, and would like to put all the national offices under its beneficent operation.

Hill's Fourth of July letter to Tammany paints the situation in dark colors, which goes to show that he still vividly remembers what happened to him when he ran for governor last year.

The populists are holding a few conventions here and there from force of habit, but for all practical purposes, their party is out of politics.

Secretary Herbert is right in saying that "the democratic party has been sorely tried during the last two years." and it has also been convicted.

The republican party has never favored any form of dishonest or doubtful currency; and there is not the least danger that it ever will do so.

SOLDIERS' REUNION.

The reunion of the veterans of Washington county and vicinity, which took place the 3d, 4th and 5th inst., was a pronounced success. One of the largest gatherings that has ever come together in Washington county, composed of veterans of the late Civil war, Indian war, veterans of Mexican war, veterans some that wore the gray, but now love the old flag, and citizens from all parts of the county united together for one purpose, and routed old Jupiter Pluvius and the elements, and had a good social time that will long be held in remembrance.

The good people of Hillsboro fairly outdid themselves in the preparations they made for the old soldiers, and the vote of thanks given them for their kindness but feebly expresses the feeling of gratitude the old veterans have for them.

The exercises were mainly composed of short speeches, detailing reminiscences of the war and camp life. Mock courts martial, music, recitations, etc. On the 5th a business meeting of the association was held, at which time the following officers were elected for the coming year: H. M. Cronkite, president; Thomas Bramel, first vice president; Col. Tom Cornelius, second vice president; Chris P. Yates, secretary; W. H. Morton, treasurer.

It was voted to hold the next reunion the 1st, 2d and 3d days of July next. The place was not designated but will be given to the town or city that offers the best facilities and grounds for the same. The semi-annual reunion will be held at Cornelius the first Thursday in October next. The following is a roster of the soldiers who registered:

Another girl baby at President Cleveland's home. There are three now, Ruth, Esther and this youngest.

Salem populists got a special train July 4th from Salem to Turner, the place of their celebration, fare to be at half rates. The Statesman says just five persons went from Salem.

The lord of the English treasury gives little reason to expect that the present government will favor bimetalism. Conservative England will remain a gold country to the last.

Marion county hop growers have contracted to deliver to Phil, Neis & Co., by October 10th and 15th, hops agregating 70,000 pounds. The price paid is 7½ and 8 cents per pound. Advances of 4 and 5 cents have been made for picking money.

In May, 1893, the czar of Russia offered to loan the U. S. government $50,000,000, or more if needed, at 2 per cent interest. It is said that the offer would have been accepted, had there been a law permitting such a thing.

On the second day of racing, at Leander, on the Thames, England, the Cornell crew miserably failed. They could not honor the demand for endurance. But, because these four failed, Englishmen need not jeer the other 70,000,000 Americans. They might just as well remember how long the America's cup has been on this side of the pond.

Business is improving and times are getting better. There is no doubt about it. The evidence? Notice the paragraphs of labor strikes printed in the news columns of the dailies. Only one day last week there was information of five strikes in one paper, telegraphed from as many localities. Last year times were so dull that no laboring man could afford the luxury of a strike.

Dr. D. A. Paine, of Eugene, has been elected to succeed Dr. Roland, as superintendent state insane asylum. Dr. Paine is a surgeon of some local fame, but appears to be fitted for the superintendency by reason of his being a good executive officer; that is, he has, in private life, succeeded in accumulating some property. Sec. Kincaid and Gov. Lord voted for Dr. Paine, and Treas. Metchan voted for Dr. Roland.

We hear of assistants for cabinet officers. An exchange tells how many assistants each is entitled to: Each cabinet officer has as many assistants as the work of his office needs, in the way of heads of bureaus, clerks, etc. But of immediate assistants, assistant secretaries, the secretary of state has two; the secretary of treasury has three assistant secretaries; the secretary of war, of the navy and of agriculture have each one assistant secretary; the attorney-general has a solicitor-general and four assistant attorneys general; the postmaster-general has four assistant postmasters general; and the secretary of the interior has two assistant secretaries.

"Five days before he was inaugurated, President Cleveland sent for me," says Senator Vest, "and requested me to go and see Bland and prepare a silver section for his message; but despite his pledges and promises, he allowed himself to be allied with the gold-bugs of the East, and that's what I call political treachery." Of course Vest believes that such a thing happened, but his memory is at fault in matters of that kind.

The United States vessels that participated in the Baltic canal display were greatly admired, and the remembrance of them will hardly fail to have a salutary influence in the way of preserving amicable relations between our country and the European nations.

The swing of the pendulum away rom the free silver mania is positive. The democrats of Kentucky repudiate Blackman and endorse Carlisle. The tendency throughout the South is away from the extreme teachings of the silver advocates.
