

HILLSBORO INDEPENDENT.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Money to loan. Room 13, Morgan building.

J. L. Knight has money to loan, and buy notes.

Hon. C. F. Tizard, of Tizardville, was in Hillsboro on Wednesday.

"Mrs. Murphy calls her slipper Castoria." "Because the children cry after it!"

J. I. Knight is always prepared for all kinds of notarial work, especially conveyancing.

Postmistress Brown, with her mother, are off this week for a vacation. Deputy John is "backing"—and so is one.

Lost—A scarf pin with small diamond set. Association makes the trifles valuable, and the owner will more than thank the finder if he will leave it at this office.

Speaking of fast work at the thrasher, Judge Humphreys mentions that while at his place the machine threshed 500 bushels of oats in one hour and five minutes.

The county board of equalization meets in the clerk's office, September 28th. For what purpose, and the time it will be in session is best told in the official notice appearing elsewhere.

The annual conference of the M. E. church for Oregon will be held in the Taylor street church, Portland, commencing September 25th. Bishop Thomas Bowman, of St. Louis, Mo., will preside.

We have for sale, very cheap, 240 acres of land, that can be divided up into smaller pieces to suit purchaser. Four dollars for unimproved and $12 for improved. All good land. Near school and postoffice. Terms very easy. Willkins Bros., Hillsboro Ore.

The city council held a short session Tuesday evening. Councilmen Burt, Tammie, Downs and Brown were present. The only business transacted was the granting of warrants to the Electric Light and Water Company for $120.55, and to Marshal Redmond for $55.

Stoked glass was in stack Tuesday night, but for the most part, there was no good opportunity to use it on account of the clouds that obscured the moon. Then when the clouds broke away a little, old earth had to step in for a time and completely blacked out the stars. For only a few minutes could the sharp outline of Mt. Hood be seen, silhouetted on the moon.

Wm. Beamish, one of our most estimable young farmers, died on Wednesday last, on the Connel farm, north of town, from an attack of typhoid fever. The deceased had worked very hard during the summer, and even after he was sick he did not spare himself but kept going, so that his system had not that vigor necessary for carrying him safely through. The remains were buried in Odd Fellows cemetery yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, of which order he was an active member.

Large yields—Mr. Bennett, near Cornelius, at the late harvest, cut one field of wheat containing ten acres, that yielded 55 bushels to the acre, machine measure. The method of culture was not stated, but the land is the common prairie of that section. Mr. B. T. Flint, near Scholl's, reports threshing 73 bushels of oats per acre, machine measure. The land producing this crop is highland, next to the Troutdale river bottom, but it has been in grain almost every year, for forty-six years, and has had no manure except what has been scattered by pasturing flocks and herds. It has been well farmed, though, and is free from weeds. Judge T. D. Humphreys reports a good yield, but it is from a field in Tualatin bottom and beaverland land.

Hon. Thos. H. Tongue and family returned the first of the week from their summer camping trip. Mr. Tongue visited his old camping places in Tillamook county. While there he talked with the people and observed the country. The principal sources of wealth for that county are dairying, lumber and fishing. The prospects for the future prosperity of that county are equal to any other county in the state. For that there needed is population. For that there needed is opportunity for making money. Within the past year the dairy industry has been pushed more than in our own county. The natural pastures are always green, and the grass is rich in the elements required for butter making. Several creameries have already been inaugurated. One of these has been inaugurated. One of these has been inaugurated. One of these has been inaugurated.

Mr. Wm. Jolly estimates that he will have 20,000 pounds of hops this year, of a quality rather better than was grown in 1894. The burs are not quite so large as last year, but they are compact and heavy, which is considered better than the greater size.

H. M. Cronkite and wife start for their new home at Newport, next Monday. Miss Cronkite, of the Hillsboro public school, and Miss Hanley, of the Independent composing room, accompany them for a few days' outing on the beach.

Judging by the number of wagons, buggies and saddle-horses one passes at almost every house, one would think that a wedding or camp meeting is in progress. But it is not. Hop pickers are near by in the yards.

Courtney Meek has sold his farm, a part of the Meek donation, to Mr. Mills, formerly a resident of Hillsboro. Mr. Meek will soon go to Idaho, where he has large interests demanding his personal supervision.

Within the next ten days fully $10,000 will be distributed about Hillsboro, within a radius of five miles. This money will go at once into active circulation, since it will be paid for picking hops.

The hunters were out in force last Sunday, but the slight rain that drizzled during the day dampened their ardor. The best that some of our town hunters could do was to offer to the market an owl.

L. K. Adams, who has been scouring the Cascade mountains, in Washington, returned home yesterday. He has become an expert pilot—on a spotted quail.

Several of our farmers who have hauled oats to Portland say of their condition that the market for oats is utterly glutted, as well as that for almost all kinds of hay. Portland dealers advise them not to rush their oats and hay in under the present condition of the market. The Oregonian of a day or two since intimates what our farmers have never known, that Hawaii does not raise any oats, hay or even any kind of cereal, though they employ thousands of horses and mules in the cultivation of sugar cane. They eat oats, barley, hay and clover feed. We have been shipping some of these articles as opportunity has offered by passing steamships, and it strikes as peculiar, in fact, gross negligence, that a steamer has not before now been put on this route to relieve our state of a portion of the immense surplus of these commodities, and it may be that these islands could be taught to eat potatoes. The Oregonian should tell us all it knows about this subject, as it is situated so as to be able to find out more than we of the interior. We ought to have that market, for no one can undersell us.

A disgusted cigar salesman called on one of our general merchants this week with his samples. One brand was quite anxious to introduce. The dealer was not a judge of a good cigar. "Well, light one and try it." "I don't smoke." A bystander who was invited to test the brand, but he did not smoke. A second was tempted, but to no purpose. "Well," said the drummer, "four men smoke four men together, and no smokers." Finally a visitor from Forest Grove came forward and sampled the weed. He said it was delicious. His word was good with the crowd.

Fruit is going to Kester's dryer in liberal supplies, and all are busy about that corner. Just now prunes are in excess of other varieties, though later apples will predominate. Apples for drying should be as carefully picked and assorted, both for size and variety, as though they were intended for shipping. Variety insures uniformity in cooking, and size in drying. For cider, the same care is not further mistake in the size of the boxes. A large and unwieldy box is difficult to handle, while sacks are no protection against bruising.

The Washington County Medical Society held its annual meeting for the election of officers, on Tuesday last. Dr. Robinson, of Beaverton, was elected president. Dr. W. D. Wood was elected vice president, and Dr. Tammie was continued in office as secretary and treasurer. Dr. Morrow was voted a member of the society. The next meeting is to be held in Hillsboro, and some interesting papers will be read.

Dr. Linklater has a fine peach tree growing at the south end of his residence, on Third street, that is prolific beyond its kind. Regularly, for the past seven years, it has borne its annual crop of peaches and its item for the INDEPENDENT. No tree has a better record for both industries. The fruit is large and well flavored, and in parts of our state. Benton county in this state has taken up the idea. Both teachers and patrons like it. The course is topical and any text book can be used. It would really be a good thing for Oregon. It would help rid us of the galling bark-trust that is now carrying things down so high a hand.

The cures are getting most too friendly for the good of the farmers. They have been visiting the hen roosts, also killed two sheep in an open field by the roadside, for E. F. Flint, and wounded several others.

Mr. Eddie Groat has gone to Astoria to spend several days.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a child, she cried for Castoria. When she became a woman, she clung to Castoria. When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

OBITUARY.

Event—In Hillsboro, August 30, 1895, Mrs. Jane Eliza Shaw Everitt, aged 60 years, 9 months and 13 days.

Jane Eliza Shaw was born in Kent county, Ontario, November 15, 1834. She joined the M. E. church during the summer of 1857, and remained a constant member up to the time of her death.

She was united in marriage with Samuel Everitt, October 28, 1857, to whom were born eight children, all of whom are living except the oldest, who died in infancy.

For many years she had been a great sufferer, always bearing her afflictions with patience.

April 25, 1893, she was stricken with paralysis, from which she nearly recovered. For the last few months she had enjoyed very good health, and, on the evening before her death, went to spend the night with her cousin, Miss Annelia Everitt, at whose place she was again stricken with paralysis at 11 p. m., and died the next morning at 4:30.

Sister Everitt was a member of the Hillsboro class, and was always at church when her health would permit. The class will miss her very much, but our loss is her eternal gain. The good Lord has called her from labor to her great reward in heaven.
