WHEN WORK FITS WOMEN.

Edward W. Bok, in February Ladies' Home Journal, considers editorially "When Work Fits Women," a text under which he enters emphatic and vigorous protest against the mad rush of women to seek employment in mercantile and manufacturing establishments.

The foregoing thus establishes Great Britain in her strict right to be entitled to the territory extending to Barima, including the water sheds of the Essequibo, Cuyuni, Uruan, Pomaroon, Waini and Barima.

The maps were prepared in order to illustrate the various boundary lines referred to in the correspondence. The Daily News, liberal, says, commenting upon the government's case:

"The Venezuela bluebook bristles with facts and challenges refutation. Our case is impressively, if not irrefragably strong; but the stronger it is the less reason we have to urge against unconditional arbitration."

It is advisable that we should go to the tribunal as strongly fortified as possible. From this point of view we are not satisfied with Lord Salisbury's presentation of our case.

ENGLAND'S CLAIM IN THE VENEZUELA DISPUTE. The British blue-book on the Venezuela boundary dispute was laid on the table of the house of commons, March 6th.

First-Long prior to and at the time of the treaty of Munster, in 1646, the Dutch founded settlements in various parts of British Guiana, particularly on the coast.

Second-The only Spanish settlement prior to them was Santo Home de Guayana.

Third-During the whole period from 1645 to 1796 the Dutch had uninterrupted possession of the entire coast line and the river Corentyne to Barima.

Fourth-During the same period they had explored the upper portions of nearly all the rivers and made many settlements in adjacent districts.

Fifth-Prior to 1723 there was no settlement of Spaniards, except Santo Home de Guayana.

THE QUESTION OF ADJOURNMENT.

It is evident that tariff legislation is impossible at the present session of congress. The republican house has done its duty in that respect by passing a bill designed to furnish all necessary revenue; but the democratic-populist senate is against it, and settles it. This is to be regretted, but it cannot be helped.

The condition of the appropriation bills is fortunately very favorable to an early adjournment. Of the thirteen measures authorizing expenditures for regular and necessary purposes, five have been passed, and discussion is under way on the sixth and seventh.

The Daily News, liberal, says, commenting upon the government's case: "It is advisable that we should go to the tribunal as strongly fortified as possible."

FOOD REMEMBRANCES OF LONGFELLOW. In writing of her early days on the stage, and telling the incidents of her first tour of the Eastern cities, in February Ladies' Home Journal, Mary Anderson de Navarro dwells at some length and affectionately upon her reminiscences of Longfellow, the poet, for whom she had the greatest admiration.

THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST IMMIGRATION BOARD. PORTLAND, OR., March 9, 1896. TO THE PEOPLE: The Pacific Northwest Immigration Board has been established for the purpose of bringing to the Pacific Northwest such a class of producers as shall tend to develop its resources and increase its prosperity.

Practical Logic. To reason from cause to effect is very good logic in its way, but to practice on physical conditions in seeking the cause first, is a very slow process indeed.

Don't invite disappointment by experimenting. Depend upon One Minute Cough Cure and you have immediate relief. It cures croup. The only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. W. E. Brock.

Sow a Crop of Wheat and Reap a Harvest Worth Having. "Don't be deluded into the belief that it is smart to know things that you wouldn't like to tell your mother," writes Ruth Ashmore in an article on "That Boy of Mine," in March Ladies' Home Journal.

The Old Story. An old hunt for buried treasure has been in progress lately in the little mountain town of Chilli, forty miles east of Albuquerque, N. M.

Soothing, healing, cleansing, De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is the enemy to sores, wounds and piles, which it never fails to cure.

OVER THE STATE.

The boys of Falls City pay their dog license by improving the streets. Four carloads of cattle were shipped from The Dalles to Troutdale Monday.

Superintendent Gilbert, of the penitentiary, says "Bunco" Kelly eats his regular rations, and is in good health. Old Tom Payne, of Eastern Oregon, has struck a pocket of rich ore.

Brownsville is one of the few towns in the state where no city tax is paid. That city has decided electric lights are not absolutely necessary just yet.

The loss of stock during the past winter has been very light, as the weather has been quite mild. They are again being turned upon the range.

Dr. G. W. McConnell, of Newberg, has been appointed by Governor Lord to succeed himself as a member of the state board of medical examiners, for a term of five years.

V. P. Fiske has commenced the publication of the Oregon Woodman, at Dallas, Polk county. It is an 8-column folio devoted to the interests of the Woodmen of the world.

Another unfortunate youngster, who was born February 29th, and will have to wait eight years until his next birthday, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wyatt, of Lyons, Linn county.

Baker City closes her saloons from 12 to 5 o'clock a. m., and will allow no music to be played therein. Now, if the council will prohibit card playing and other games of chance, the dawn of reform will have broken.

Arrangements are being made to ship copper from Grant's Pass to Baltimore, by rail. It will be hauled in from the Waldo mines in matts, and the copper will be extracted when it has reached its destination.

Mr. Galloway received a telegram Tuesday stating that his bonds had been approved and that his commission was in the mail and for him to enter upon his duties at once, as receiver of the Oregon City land office.

The Dalles Chronicle is informed that the Day Bros. claim they have finished the work at the locks, and are now waiting to learn what action will be taken by congress as regards the new appropriation. They expect to hear within five days.

AN ANIMAL SHE HAD NEVER SEEN.

"During the last campaign one day," said Howard, the populist member from Alabama, "I went up to the top of a considerable mountain to see a hunter of the name of Bill Saunders, to secure his vote. Bill was not at home, but his wife was a tall, lean, bony woman, with dusty black hair, hollow, colorless cheeks, and sunken eyes, a large mouth, and yellow hands. In one hand she held a box of snuff, in the other a tooth brush, and she was spitting ambergris."

"Good morning, madam," said I. "How are you, stranger?" said she. "As your husband at home, my good woman?"

"No, he ain't. He went down in Coon Holler this morning before day, and I ain't lookin' for him back until towards midnight."

"Well, madam, I continued, 'I am a candidate for congress, and hope you will use your influence to get your husband to vote for me. I know that a woman of your intellect, your beautiful eyes that shine like the dewdrops on the mountain top when the light of the morning sun first strikes it; your fresh, rosy cheeks which the gods would kiss as Nectar, and your entire charming personality - I say a woman so endowed by nature must have great influence over her husband, for he was indeed fortunate to secure you for a wife.'"

"Law, now, stranger," exclaimed the woman, "when you come talkin' that away, and then I know I likes your looks anyway, I guess if Bill Sanders don't vote for you he need never expect to roost 'round these diggins no more, I tell you."

"I was much pleased with the progress I was making, and I ventured to put the question of most importance to me: 'Are there any populists in this vicinity?'"

"Dear me, stranger," she answered, "you are a little mite too hard for me this time. You see, I don't pay much attention to them things, but Bill is a mighty pert hunter and has killed and skunked almost all kinds of varmints in these mountains. But whether he ever ketch one o' them air, what you call it, stranger? - populist varmints - is more nor I know. If you'll just walk 'round' the back side of the house where he's got all his pelts hangin' up a dрын, you may find one o' them things, for now that I come to think about it, Bill he yesterday mornin' killed one of the dole-gasted critters I ever see. It had long legs, bandy shanks, long hair, and was cross-eyed, and I jest bet a pound o' home-made tobacco it was a populist, though I never heern tell o' no afore."

A high liver with a torpid liver will not be a long liver. Correct the liver with DeWitt's Little Early Risers, little pills that cure dyspepsia and constipation. W. E. Brock.

Froed of his Age. The oldest white man in Sonoma county, California, William Blackman, died in Healdsburg last week, at the age of 100 years and three months. He was especially anxious that it should be known that he did not die of old age. Pneumonia cut his life short, and there is little doubt he would have lived some years longer in the natural course of events. He was very active and healthy up to the time he took cold. He smoked and drank intoxicants in his early life, but abandoned both habits half a century before his death.

Oregon can go eighteen years better, having just lost a citizen who had reached the mature age of 115 years.

Soothing, healing, cleansing, De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is the enemy to sores, wounds and piles, which it never fails to cure. Stops itching and burning. Cures chapped lips and cold-sores in two or three hours. W. E. Brock.
