Silver dollars are legal tender for all sums of one dollar and upwards. As a tender in the payment of debts, the silver dollar is unlimited, a subscriber to our neighbor, the Argus, to the contrary notwithstanding.

McKinley has published his formal letter of acceptance. It occupies about six and two-thirds columns of breview type—too long for the INDEPENDENT this week, but space is reserved for it next week. It is an able paper that deals with all the questions of the campaign.

The republican editors of the state have been invited to meet at the Chamber of Commerce in Portland on Friday September 11th at 10 o'clock a. m. to discuss the propriety of forming a club organization in the interest of the pariy. It is desirable that the republican press of the state shall act in concert and on agreed lines in all questions of great concern relating to the present presidential campaign.

The populists of Oregon have absorbed the democratic party and a new electoral ticket has been named, to-wit: M. L. Olmstead, of Baker county; Harry Watkins, Yamhill, both populists; N. L. Butler, of Polk, democratic, and E. Hofer, of Marion, bimetallic. The electors are pledged to shpport Bryan and Watson, so there will be no democratic ticket run in Oregon this year unless the sound money democrats make nominations.

A common idea among populist is that there ought to be money enough in the world to liquidate all its debts at once. Even populists congressmen have spoken in the halls of congress as if thay thought there must be as many dollars in existence as there is business for the dollar to do. This is just as erronous as to suppose a farmer should need a bushel measure for every bushel of wheat in his crop. The measure can be used over and over again, and be be made to measuro thousands of bushels. The amount of business one measure will do depends on how speedily it is handled. So the amount of business a dollar or a thousand dollars will do depends on how fast the money circulates. The speed at which it circulates depends largely on the confidence of men, that when they give up a dollar they can get another soon. The question of circulation is a question of confidence to a very large extent. —St Helena, Cal., Star.

Some years ago an un-American spirit had taken so firm a hold that it was thought fast passenger ships—ocean grey hounds, they were called—could not be built in America. A company formed in New York and asked congress to pass a bill permitting them to buy ships from English yards. The act was passed, but with prvisions compelling the the company to build two new ships in American yards. The New York and Paris, the two fastest ships on the Atlantic were purchased and the new trans-Atlantic line from New York to Southampton, England, started. The company built the St. Louis and St. Paul. These boats have been in commission several months developing great speed from the beginning. On the last trip of the St. Louis, all previous records were broken and the time of the trip shortened three hours. The world now acknowledges, unwillingly perhaps, that American mechanics using American models lead all competitors.

A DEMAGOGUES OPPORTCNITY

There is a patriotism in America that is strong almost beyond belief. It was realized that the passion existed when President Cleveland sent to congress his message on Venezuelan affairs. It has been seen before and since. Demagogues and selfish politicians seek to take advantage of this to further their own political ends. The silver coinage leaders are now playing all changes on citizens who have this intense love of country. They say inasmuch as we defied England in '76 when our population was no more than three millions, we should declare our financial independence now that we number seventy million souls within our boundaries. They clamorously shout hopiug that the people will not take time to note the fact that we are not under the pecuniary vassualge of England or any other country. The system we have has served our needs for a century. It was evolved by so able a man as Hamilton, and citizens should ponder well the effects that would follow a chage. We are now in a position to be self-respecting and we ought to hesitate long before we let the yelps of the Weavers and Peffers influence us.

It is only by the consent of mankind that any material passes current for a measure of value. Our neighbor, the Argus, was right a few weeks ago when he said that gold itself would lose its value if the nations refused to use it for money. Iron itself, acknowledged to be the most useful of all the metals would become worthless if another material should be found fit for its place. It is this very universal use which gives vajue. The republican party is not an enemy to silver, but a friend pledged to bring the nations to recognize silver as a money material. The immense patriotic powers which the free coiners seek to debase to their own selfish ends is to be used by republicans to induce the world to recogniz and adopt true bimetalism.

Let not Hearst with his $75,000,000 or Teller with his $2,000,000 influence the patriotic American to do a silly thing.

EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION.

The Oregon Press Association held its annual meeting, last week, in Astoria. The attendence was good though it might have been better. There were about forty publications represented but some of the leading papers kept the editors at home, for instances not a paper in Yamhill, Linn, Clackamas, Columbia, Umatilla, Union, Lincoln, Tillamook or several other counties more remote were represented. How the papers in those counties hope to speak intelligently about Clatsop county at the mouth of the Columbia river is past finding out. The subject of subscriptions, of advertising, and of blacklisting the dead beats was not touched, but supporting the home paper was ably written of by Irvine of the Salem Statesman. The reporter of the 20th century was classically handled by Mrs. Olive Stanton England of Salem. Eddy of the Pendleton Tribune discussed the consistency of editors while Geo. H. Himes had a most valuable chapter on the history of Oregon papers. His paper of fiftty minutes in length dealt with the first six papers, their editors, and the plants on which they were printed. The history and final fate of the presses was listened to with close attention. The first cylinder press was bought by Bush of the Statesman, but was lost at sea. The next one was for the Oregonian purchased of R. Hoe in 1861. This machine is still in service and is the one used in this office. A Noltner had a good article on normal schools, which he defended. The state for its own protection required an educated citizenship. To get this it must undertake the work itself. For this it must have trained teachers. The common wealth can get just what it wants by training them itself for the same reason the machine shop frequently makes its own tools. The state ought to bear the expense of training its teachers, for that profession is unlike a trade where the apprentice becomes self-supporting almost from the hour he enters the shop. Pedagogy is unlike other professions in that the teacher serves the public while lawers, docters and clergymen, serve private patrons. Baker City was selected as the place for holding the next session. The time was left for the executive committee to fix. Since the Washington Association meets next year at Vancouver, it is probable the Oregon editors will meet at the same time and both Associations will join on the trip to Baker City. The officers elected are President, A. F. Patterson, Hepner "Gazette," 1st vice-president, E. L. E. White, Portland "Chronicle" 2nd vice-president, D. M. C. Gault, Hillsboro "INDEPENDENT," Secretary, A. Tozier, Portland "Pythian," Treasurer, Charles Nickel, Jacksonville "Times", Sargent at arms, C. C. Doughty, Dallas "Observer." The social part of the meeting was fully equal to that of any former session. The local reception committee did its work well. On Thursday the Association was placed on the flagship at anchor in the harbor, where the regatta races could best be seen. On Friday an excursion to Clatsop Beach was arranged. The O. R. & N Co's steamer, Potter carried the excursion to Flavel the western terminus of Goble and Astroria raidroad. The first ship to arrive with iron was there and discharging. A dock for the accomodation of the railroad contractors is building. The piles are driven and capped over and the warehouse frame is up. The first house in Flavel is a $30,000 hotel which will be ready for guests about Oct. 1st. The railroad picked up the visitors and carried them south past Warrenton a new and thriving village of 600 inhabitants, past Gearheart Park to Saa-side about 15 miles from Flavel. Here hid away in the thick spruce is a large encampment of seaside lovers enjoying to their fullest the summer vacation. A special train carried the newspaper people back to Gearheart Park station where all plunged into a thick spruce forest, tangled and wild, and threaded only by a root path. A walk of a third of a mile takes one to the enchanted ground and the hotel. Here some one had ordered a sumptuous lunch. The printers never have found out who paid for it, but they did not let that fact mar the enjoyment of it. They did though through an employe in the dinning room, come to know how the floral decorations were arranged. Miss Block, first Soprano in the Congregational church, Portland, and Mrs. Col. John McCracken, incidentally learned, Friday morning, that the newspaper people were to lunch there that day. The ladies obtained permission to decorate, and at once went to work. By noon they had walls and columns dressed in natures adorning robes. The hotel is but a few rods from a smoth sandy beach but behind a low hill that protects from the raw seawind. Gearhart has not its equal on the Northwest coast. If the weary want rest there is the place to go. At 4 o'clock the regular train picked up the tourists and made connection with the Astoria boat at Skippanon. This transfer was necessary on Friday, but the next day another order of things existed. Connection with Astoria by rail had been made, and by the time this is read in the INDEPENDENT, regular trains will be running between the O R & N dock Astoria, and Seaside.

An evening session at Astoria wound up the business of the Association but next morning the everpresent reception committee was present with transportation to Ilwaco, foral who had time for a day on the Washington side. The gang soon discovered that the state line had been passed for the railroad people that carry passengers to Long Beach wanted silver and gold instead of the card board that had before been good currency. Long Beach reached, the association that before had been a unite, broke up and there were only individuals left. Most of these came to Portland on the Sunday night boat. Now they are at home with the drudgery of a dingy printing office for their portion. The three days vacation is only a memory.

IF A DOLLAR BE A DOLLAR.

If a dollar be a dollar—honest coin—without deceit—one may melt it, one may smelt it, but its value won't retreat.

Melt ten dollars—silver dollars—in unbiased melting pot, and the silver "slug" resulting, only sells for "five the lot."

Melt gold dollars—melt an eagle in aforesaid melting pot—and the gold "slug" resulting quickly sells—for "ten the lot."

Will you tell me—kindly tell me how these dollars equal are—if a little glowing furnace puts on only one a scar.

There was never yet equation that demanded legislation to establish right to be; an equation is equation—else is it a fallacy!

And I'm thinking—quietly thinking that a poor man has poor sense—if he vote to have a dollar that will melt to fifty cents.

SHALL MINTS OR MILLS BE OPENED?

The popocrats dwell much upon the hard times as an excuse for asking the country to make an experiment. They say to the voter: "You're hard up, anyhow, and you might as well risk this. You can't be much worse off if it does go wrong." This is the kind of an experiment they ask him to make:

"We demand the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

The republicans also see the distress that has come to the people, and their idea of the remedy, as expressed by Major McKinley, is this:

"It is a good deal better to open up the mills of the United States to the labor of Americans than to open up the mints of the United States to the silver of the world."

It is for the American workmen to judge whether they want fifty-three-c dollars for the work they do now, or one-hundred-cent dollars for the work they might do if our mills started up again.—N. Y. Tribune.

"The people of Mexico are satisfied and prosperous under the silver standard. An ounce of silver will buy as much of the products of labor as it ever would." This from the State Journal is simply not true. The people are not satsified with their lot and silver will not buy as much as will gold or else visitors speak false. The time was 25 years ago. Mexico's prosperity if she has any is to be attributed not to silver coinage, but to the expenditure of great sums of foreign capital used in building railroads in that country, and the ease their herdsman find in selling beefcattle in the United States under the provisions of the Wilson tariff bill.

SOME THING IS REPLY.

The Hatchet is greatly worried lest the County Court shall favor the Hillsboro Pub. Co. Now the Hatchet will not be able to hew off very large chips unless it cuts the cord that binds it to Ananias. The first INDEPENDENT bid for stationary was $108.90. The Portland competitor objected to competing because he claimed the stock was inferior to that proposed to be put in by that firm. He knew the cost of the stock and hence calculated very closely what had been allowed for work. The Portland people then proposed specefied brands of paper, and new bids. It was a shrewd measure and but for the desire of the court to favor home dealers would have worked. The Hatchet did not compete on the first bid but did on the second. He did not, however, profit by the figures snbmited on the first, but bid $140 for the contract, a sum greater than any one else named. He pleads as an excuse that he did not know the cost of stock. This is one time when it was fortunate for the county that it had men to deal with who know their buisness. If any one has grounds for complaint it is the Portland firm, yet those gentleman write the court to express satisfaction at the action taked in awarding the contract to a home dealer.

Furthur the INDEPENDENT nor any other paper in the county, so far as heard from, except the Hatchet has been grasping enough to double the usual changes for printing notices in probate matters. In the estate of B. H. Catching deceased, $10 was charged and collected for publishing the notice of the appointment of administrator this too at a time. Feb. last, when there was competion at Forest Grove. The usual price for that work is $5. What the charge would be if there shall come a time when the Hatchet occupies the field alone, no oge can tell. No, the INDEPENDENT does not want to rob widows and orphans.

The INDEPENDENT will not go nosing about the Hatchet composing rooms to see whether its employers are printers or not, but does take this occasion to say that the Hatchet manager has always exacted that the Hatchet imprint be placed upon all work done in this office for him. It seemed to be good enough to be used for advertising purposes.

Those who have been here long enough have known Judge Cornelius and at least the majority of the court for forty years, and they will be slow to subscribe to the diatribes of one who has been here only a few months longer than one year. The financial standing of this county shows a management of public affairs by the court that cannot be smirched by the Hatchet. What it has on its walls is not a photograph of the hatchet once used by Washington.

The INDEPENDENET acknowleoges that it has not the big bank account of the Hatchet man. It furthur realizes that it has not the support of a subsidy in shape of a fat county office.

It is only by close attention to its undertakings and courteous and intellegent treatment of patrons that buisness is expected. The public is willing to pay what it costs for services done, but a snarling, grasping, selfish person is despised.

VOTE OF PIVOTAL STATES.

The presidential fight this year will probably be determined in the six Western States of South and North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, the four Northern States of Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana, and the four border States of Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. It is interesting, therefore, to know the relative strength of the republican, democratic and populist parties in these states at the latest test of strength.

Various tables purporting to show this, have appeared in different newspapers, but all have contained some serious error, greatly impairing if not entirely destroying, their value for campaign reference. In some the vote for governor or other state officer is taken as the test; others go back to the presidential vote of 1892; and a table resently appeared in the New York "World" which tabulated, side by side, as if cast at the same election, the votes of democratic and populist candidates in 1894, and the votes of republican candidates in 1892. A moment's reflection will make it apparent that the vote for a state official in an election where local issues chiefly predominate is a very inaccurate test. Conditions have entirely changed since the presidential election of 1892, and a comparison like the "World's" is worse than worthless.

The only reliable test is to take the votes of the different parties at the congressional elections of 1894, when the national issues were last voted upon. The figures in the accompanying table have been carefully compiled, and may, perhaps, be of interest to your readers.

The letter "R" after the figures in the column of majorities shows the excess of the republican over the combined democratic and populist votes. The letters "D-P" show the excess of the democratis-populist vote over that of the republican.

When we consider these majorities, which assume perfect fusion between the democrats and the populists, not a democrat or a populist bolting, and which even then are uniformly republican, with the exception of Kentucky, and consider, furthermors, the formidable bolt of the sound money democratic nominee, can any impartial observer doubt that William McKinley is the next president of the United States?

*In North Dakota there was complete fusion between the democrats and populists.

In Kansas in two congressional districts, in Nebraska in three, in Wisconsin in one and in Michigan in one, the democrats and populists united on candidates for representative, and rather than attempt to estimate the respective proportions of votes for these representatives cast by each party, the democratic and populists votes for all representatives in congress from these states are counted together.—Charles R. Saunders in Boston Herald.

Hoke Smith, Secretary of the interior, being an advocate of free silver coinage, resigned his place as an cabinet officer. He is more honest than Barkley of Marion who was elected a republican, but now supports Bryan. Barkley will not resign. Smith is succeeded in the cabinate by Ex-Gov. Francis of Missouri who is regarded as an able man and a positive supporter of Pres. Cleveland's sound money views.

Money! Make it Yourself.

I have never seen anything in the papers about the People's Wind Mill: we call it "People's" because the inventer never patented it, but let the people use it free. Any farmer can make a mill himself, and all the material complete will not cost over $10. It is a splendid mill, will pump the deapest wells, and will last longer than any mill I ever had. Any person can get a diagram and complete directions free by sending 18 two-cent stamps to pay postage etc., to E. D. Wilson & Co., Allegheny, Pa. Wilson & Co. sell pumps and when you get your mill going would be glad to sell you a pump if you need it. I think there could be big money made putting these mills up through the country as everybody would like one.

A READER,

Hair Restored to Natural Color.

I have used many preparations for restoring hair to natural color, but never had satisfactory results till I used Zulu Vulier; it will restore any hair or beard to its natural color in three weeks. If it does not they return your money, so you take no risks. People who have never tried it can get a sample package which contains enough to restore any one's hair to natural color, by sending 21 two-cent stamps to pay postage, etc., to Wilson & Co., New Concord, Ohio.

The regular price is $2.50 per package. If it does not restore your hair to natural color, or make any color of hair darker in three weeks, they will return your stamps. This proposition is so fair that thousands are using it. It is harmless, but never fails. Why can't big money be made by selling Zulu Vulier from house to house?

Fortunes are lost annually, directly and indirectly, by people who cannot do their own figuring, write their own letters, or keep their own books; and who do not know when business and legal papers which they must handle every day are made out correctly. ☞All these things, and much more, we teach thoroughly.

Hundreds of our graduates are in good positions, and there will be openings for hundreds more when times improve. Now is the time to prepare for them. Besides, a business education is worth all it costs, for one's own use. Send for our catalogue, to learn what and how we teach. Mailed free to any address.
