OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1897.

The promised dollar wheat of Democracy never eventuated during the free-trade administration, But we are getting nearer to it under protection.

If those republicans continue such work as has overtaken the country in the last four months something will happen. If wheat continues to advance and silver decline some one is going to make a pile of money. The howlers will be disappointed too.

A paragraph from the Columbus Ohio Dispatch claims that the buggy company of that city has resumed operations as the direct result of a return of prosperity. Three hundred men left their homes carrying their tin buckets that are again taxed. The cheerful procession had not been seen for months before.

It is reported that a pigeon has been shot which bore a message from Andree, the North pole Aeronaut. The bird was liberated at 82° north latitude. However scientists do not believe that the pigeon was Andree's or that it was shot. The latitude and longitude of the ship making the capture is not given. That omission is a suspicious circumstance.

Germany ought not to expect else of America than the protection of her own industries. Germany has been discriminating against America for ten years. First our hog was fenced out then our beef and now our bicycles may not roll on her roads. Is it any wonder that America did not consult Germany when her revenue laws were framing.

So Bryan is going to Mexico to preach free silver and that in Spanish too. It is well. That same old speech may be palmed off upon the unsuspecting greasers as something new. Being accustomed to 40-cent dollars and starvation wages, they may yet be living in blissful ignorance of the terrible gold standard and its results. By all means let Mr. Bryan go and "teach the nations." The conditions sought to be produced in this country by the silverites are already ripe down there. Merely calling attention to the facts as they are, without drawing upon the imagnition is all that is required. Thrust in thy sickle!

It seems a little strange to us out here that there should be points of dispute between the striking coal miners and the mine owners that can be taken into court. But it went there and the court made the injunction permanent forbidding the miners to trespass on private estates. It seems the operators have miners willing to work if they can be assured of protection. The injunction authorizes the operators to employ such force as is necessary to protect employees. Thus it is seen that a successful, peaceful strike is questionable. A man has a right to quit his job if the work or the wages are not satisfactory but he has no right to hinder others from taking his place.

Virtue profits when sinners quarrel. This is illustrated by the condition of affairs at Astoria. That city is governed by a city council but the police department is dominated by a commission. Some months ago the council reduced the wages of the policemen. Those guardians retaliated by pulling all the gamblers. This reduced the income of the city seven thousand. But the commissioners were willing that gambling should go on only it must be licensed. The council proposed a gambling license ordinance which seemed to be popular with the law makers but here the churches took a hand in the fight and secured the defeat of the measure but the bad blood between the council and police commission still existed. The police now propose to drive all the lewd women out of town but just where the council is to be spited is not apparent. Certainly all good citizens will welcome the purification of the tough district.

Senator McEnry of Louisana, the only democrat who voted for the Dingley tariff bill in the senate was enthusiastically welcomed home in New Orleans. The republicans asked permission to participate and make the occasion non-partisan, but his party friends would not permit it, as it was decided to make the meeting thoroughly Democratic, one that would express the views of the democracy of Louisana. These views were in thorough accord with those of Senator McEnery, in favor of a tariff that would produce and at the same time protect American industries, the protection to be unsectional and to do equal justice to all. There were 400 vice-presidents, including the ex-govenors, members of the supreme court, officers of the state, county and ward democratic organizations as well as the leading democratic citizens of the city. It was an almost unanimous protest agains; the attempt to declare Senator McEnery's course un-democratic. This demonstration is democratic in Louisana, but not so in any other state.

SUNDAY AMUSMENTS.

A Portland paper of last Monday morning reports that 2000 people witnessed the bicycle races that were ridden on Portland field Sunday afternoon. So the L. A. W. goes down and the C. A. C. C. (California Associated Cycle Clubs) is at the front. It is now legal to race on Sunday and do some other things that the puritan fathers and mothers of some of the riders did not, would not, will not approve.

A conversation was overheard in Portland a few evenings ago that touches a phrase of the question. One speaker is a cyclist the other is not; both work in offices. The first said when he worked all the week he needed recreation and the privilege of going to see racing. Sunday was the only day he could get. The other said when he worked all the week he wanted to rest od Sunday. This he claimed he could not get by racing on a bicycle which is hot hard work. "What do you do?" said the first. "I go to church and have the permission of my pastor to go to sleep if necessary for rest."

Which is the better citizen, the man who in the costume of the race track, curries over the country on Sunday morning and in the afternoon is one of the crowd that attends the race track or he who dons clean garments the best he has, and stays at home with his wife and children, goes to church and in the afternoon with his dear ones, quietly strolls out for an hour? Which of the two is most rested and best prepared for his desk next morning?

And the young man. Does he gain by loitering about the grand stand. Which will conduce most to peace of mind to be seen by his father coming out of church or coming out at the gate of the "field?" Would he blush as he leaves the church to meet his employer? He might not blush when he leavs the athletic grounds, depending somewhat upon the number of visits he has made. Ordinarily whom does the proprietor regard as the safest and most to be trusted employee, the young man who stays at home on Sunday or he who indulges in "Sunday amusements?" Where does the young man meet the best and purest society —in church or on the "field?"

And the young woman. If she is new probably she is in her appropriate place on the "field." But there are some girls who have not reached that "new" condition. They are demure, modest, retiring, lovable, but we hope always to meet them at the home or church on Sunday rather than at the bicycle meet. Some of us prefer that our sons shall not select wives from among the racers.

But Portland does not set an approving seal on the C. A. C. C. A city of 80,000 souls could send but 2,000 to the races on Sunday afternoon and that too after thorough and persistent advertising. The city has not yet gone deft. There is yet good, solid citizenship left and disappointment will come to the new wheel sports.

THE NEW MEXICO MESA.

Some weeks ago the starting of an exploring expedition from New York to New Mexico was noticed. Prof. Libbey of Prince university desired to scale the "Mesa Encantada" which lifted its perpendicular cliffs seven hundred feet above the plain. It was a legend that in the long ago the top of the Mesa had been inhabited. The expidition in due time reached the place and Prof. Libbey was entirely successful in his efforts and reached the top of the famous height. By means of a 2½ inch brass cannon he succeeded in throwing a cord over the crest of the Mesa, and by means of this cord the ropes required in making the ascent were pulled up. Fifteen hundred feet of rope was required to reach from one side to the other, and when all was in readiness a traveling block way attached to the pulley which had previously been spliced to the main rope, and pulled up to the edge of the overhanging ledge. A chair was then rigged on the traveling block and it was filled with pieces of rock which equaled the weight of a man. This was then sent up to the crest of the ledge, and the experimental trip was found to be entirely successful. Prof. Libbey then took his place in the chair and was raised to the top of the Mesa. All that was found at the top which indicated that it might have been inhabited was a monument of rocks which looked as if it were errected by man. With this exception, there were absolutely no indications that it had ever been inhabited, so that there is absolutely no ground for the romantic legends which have always clung about this mysteriously table land.

CAN THE RERUBLICAN MAJORITY BE TRUSTED.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: My reasons for favoring a called session of the legislature were not as fully set forth in my communication in the last INDEPENDENT as the importance of the subject required. So with your permission I will trouble your readers again. However before discussing this duestion, I wish to say that any attempt to shift the responsibility of the disgraceful legislative hold-up to the democrats and populists parties alone will be worse than wasted. They, although in the minority, owing to the peculiarity of the constitution of the state, might have done so, but the people of Oregon are too intelligent not to know that the brains of the hold up were furnished by men who are prominently identified, although a factional minority with the republican party who from their own declarations fused with more than nine-tenths of the democrats and populists in this hold up for no better purpose than to prevent the election of a man to the U. S. senate who was the choice of a majority of the republicans of the state. The contemptible figure the democrats and populists cut in the combination was only the usual exhibition of their political stupidity. In their mad effort to create confusion in the republican party they violated their solemn pledges, neglected the opportunity to enact needed legislation and made possible the selection of a political enemy, who holds them in contempt and all they received for this sacrifice of political and moral manhood, was free lunch in a free silver restaurant and from $50 to $100 each to pay other expenses.

Most of the republicans engaged in this conspiracy were Influenced by a reason, considering their pledges so freely made, much less creditable than their opposition to Mitchell. They represented the great majority of those who at heart were determined to defeat it possible, any legislation that would relieve the taxpayers of the state from the oppressive burden under which they were laboring. This defeat could be brought about in no way so effectively as by the failure to organize the legislature. They well know that with its organization effected, with their pledges warm on their lips and fresh in their minds, the majority of its members would have saved by proper legislation, to the taxpayers of the state thousands of dollars that are worse than wasted in salaries of useless commissions and over-paid office holders Bearing these facts in mind it will be readily seen what this revolutionary hold up has now cost the state of Oregon.

Much may be done to remedy this evil by an extra session if one is held at the earliest possible date. It is a serious mistake that the "voters generally are indifferent on this question." It would be of necessity short, but the majority who were shamefully hindered from doing the work they were pledged to do, and more than willing to do, would make an earnest and I believe a successful effort to redeem these pledges. Even those who worse than wasted their opportunities and have felt the public pulse since their return to their homes would not dare to further betray an outraged constituency. The remedial legislation would take effect at once and the relief desired would be enjoyed by the people at once.

Whether a senator is elected at such session if called is a question that may in some measure determine the action of the executive. But that question must be met, and throwing it into the next political contest of this state will only make confession more confounded. If this matter must be fought over again neither the people of Oregon or the republican party will be the gainer by its infusion into the political contest of 1898.

This contest is of vital importance and the future of the republican party of this state and possibly of the nation may depend upon the way in which it shall be decided. Then why should not the leaders of the republican party throw aside their disgraceful bickerings and settle their differences before that contest commences. I fully believe that harmony in the republican party will be promoted by an extra session. The legislators will make an effort to redeem their predges and this redemption will be in the interest of the people. The point is well taken in your editorial that "the decision of the supreme court is a purely legal question" and it setties our hope for the future that the auditing officers of the state can at their own promotion neither stop the wheels of government or repudiate the contracts for supplies to carry it on. It is also true that its economical points are only incidental. But this incidental takes out of the treasury thousands of dollars that if the pledges made to the people in the last canvass were worth anything, would have been saved by proper legislation if organization had been effected, and may still be saved if an extra session is called. The decision has saved the interest if it means that the claims can be paid out of funds not appropriated, but it is the reduction in the principal that was promised and might be yet made if the legislature were called together. Probably the fact of this reduction may be a potent factor in the call.

Public sentiment, I believe, has expressed itself so decidedly, that an organization will be forced if the governor will give the members an opportunity. If this opportunity is not given the republican party will be held responsible and must bear the odium of the broken pledges. It controls the power that can give its majority in the legislature the opportunity to keep these pledges, that should have been carried out at the regular time; and the failure to call the legislature together will be an admission that this republican majority can not be trusted. I believe that it can.

REPUBLICAN.

Great Britian is not going to reopen the India mints to coinage of silver, and if she should, the act would be of no value to us, but a detriment; for if we followed with a free-coinage act we should simply go to the silver basis, where India is.

WHEAT IS BOOMING

Rapidly Raising to the Dollar Mark

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN THE EAST

Silver Drops to 51 3-4 Cents per Ounce —Mexico Talks of Going to the Gold Standard at Once.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—High water mark for the season was reached in the wheat market today, not only on values, but as to the amount of transactions as well. Prices advanced 4½ to 5c for the day, and sales reach the big total of 14,315,000 bushels.

Excitment prevailed in the market from start to finish, but particularly in the last hour, when wheat advances became so rapid that frequently the fluctuations were marked by ¼c fracions, instead of the ⅛c and 1-16c changes that are ordiarily seen. A lot of operators who had been fighting the advance in the forenoon were the foremost buyers in the afternoon. The phenomenal raise and the scarcity of wheat for sale fairly staggered them. The demand was particularly active in the December option, which from a discount of 1¼c under September at the start narrowed the difference to ⅛c at the close. The total range of September wheat was from 91½c to 95¼c, against 86⅞c, the lowest price of yesterday and 92¼c, the previous high notch for the season.

The advance today began with a fractional rise in Liverpool quotations this morning, instead of the weakness generally expected. This was followed by rumors of a big jump in curb prices at Paris, that market being closed on account of a holiday. On top of these factors was a big demand from foreig houses and reports that all of last night's offers had been accepted, including three cargoes of American. The spring wheat news also brought in lots of buying orders, it being considered a very bullish report by the trade, as the weather is too cold and wet for harvesting preparations.

Not in years has there been such an extraordinary movement in wheat values as took place today. Even the old traders were amazed at the stubborn advances, while those who have heretofore scouted the dollar-wheat theory were obliged to admit there was every prospect of September wheat reaching that price on the mere theory of supply and demand.

The official market close at a net advance of 4¼ @ 5c on wheat. On the curb, September sold from 94⅛ down to 93⅞c. Corn advanced ⅛@⅜c, and oats advanced ⅛c for the day.

Sharp Advance In San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Wheat advanced sharply today. Reports from all centers are of a booming nature. Excitement on the local board ran high, business was large, and values were considerably advanced. Spot wheat is also higher. Barley is firm, both for spot and options. Oats show a slow advance and the market is more active and firm.

Silver Dropeth.

NEW YORK, Aug 18.—The price of silver dropped 2½ cents per ounce making the price for bar silver 51¾ cents per ounce. The silver in one dollar is thus worth but 40.13 cents. Mexican dollars are worth 41 cents.

Mexico Talks of a Gold Standard.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 18.—The premium on New York exchange today rose to 140, corresponding to the renewed decline in silver, the news of which created a sensation. Talk of a gold standard is heard in banking circles, but an argument raised against it is the injury that would result in local manufactures. The government now anticipates a continued fall in silver until it reaches the average cost of production, although some large miners contend that it is already below that.

The Coal Strike Appears to Lose.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—This was the operator's day, and from the present appearances, they made a most effective move, and have nearly if not quite, checked their opponents, the striking coalminers. The court's decree today, in making permanent the preliminary injunction restraining the strikers from camping marching or in any manner interfering with the New York & Cleveland Gas Coal Company's miners, had the effect of almost depleting the camps, and apparently a general demoralization of the campers exists.

In order to follow up their advantage, the operators held a largely attended meeting tonight at the Monongahela house and arrange for the starting of their mines with or without force. If force seems to be unavoidable, it is the attention to start a few mines at once, under the protection of deputies, and whatever expense may result will be shared pro rata by the mine-owners.

When the United States adopts a revenue law satisfactory to our people, Germany decides that it is a proper subject for international arbitration. But that country does not propose arbitration when the Kaiser's government discriminates against American products. We have heard that story about the other man's bull being gored.

The republican party in Oregon and in the nation stands for good government and an economical administration of affairs. The policy of the party unfortunately is sometimes thwarted by individual but oftener by its political opponents. A case in point is the action of the populists and democrats in the state legislature last winter. For the sake of supposed party advantage the populists and free silver democrats abandoned duty and basely united to thwart the enactment of needed laws for the benefit of the state. They had the votes to have done something but they refused to cast them. And while they received money, the pittance was so small that it is not thought that they received it as a bribe, but they sacrificed honor, duty and patriotism for party. "Republican" in his correspondence does wrong to suggest that blame should be shifted from their shoulders. Their constituents entrusted them with the performance of certain duties. They basely refused to do what the law required. They were free moral agents, but they chose to desert. In the senate where the republicans were in an overwhelming majority organization was promptly effected, but in the other house where the populists and silver democrats were able to abort the organization they did it.
