

A factious exchange remarks that Andree should have taken a cat instead of a pigeon. The cat would have come back.

What is free speech? The utterances of Debs and Sovereign at St. Louis probably cannot be said to be reasonable since according to the U. S. constitution war must be levied by a citizen against the government or aid and comfort given to our enemies, but it was seditious and will probably lead to the loss of life. It is doubtful if any other government would permit such public utterances.

A short conversation had with weather forecaster Pague yesterday afternoon conveys the prediction that we will probably have showery weather till Sunday next. After that clear weather is expected. The conditions producing this damp spell are entirely local, and are now an unprecedented. Nothing heretofore occurred approaches what is now on us. Mr. Pague thinks that foul weather cannot vex us next week which opinion we all heartily hope will be verified.

Debs declared in his St. Louis speech: "This movement has attained tremendous impetus, and will go ahead with a rush. When the people are ready—and that day is not far off, my friends—there will be a spontaneous uprising, the supreme court will be abolished and congress dispersed." In this connection it is pertinent to enquire what Mr. Debs proposes shall take the place of the two branches of government which he proposes to abolish. This would be but one, the executive left. Does he expect that a government by a dictator shall be organized?

Hamilton then Secretary of Treasury reported to the house of representatives April 28th 1791, his views relative to the establishment of a mint. In the report occurs the following paragraph which in the light of these times seems truly prophetic: "As long as gold, either from its intrinsic superiority as a metal, from its rarity or from the prejudices of mankind, retains so considerable a pre-eminence in value over silver, as it has hitherto had, a natural consequence of this seems to be that its condition will be more stationary. The revolutions, therefore, which may take place in the comparative value of gold or silver, will be changes in the state of the latter, rather than in that of the former."

The tendency of the times is to use machinery of greater capacity. Thus in farming big threshers driven by larger power is what has been thought. While such machines do splendid work they cost more and the result is fewer machines are bought and the work of threshing grain is confined to a few large companies. The time was when a threshing outfit exclusive of horses cost no more than six or seven hundred dollars. There were many machines then and it was no uncommon thing to see four or five gangs of men in as many fields on one glance. Now a threshing outfit costs over two thousand dollars. There are fewer men who can get an outfit. In an ordinary season the big machines can do the work, but rain as now can do not threshers enough.

Government by injunction. No one here seems to know just what it means as used by agitator Debs. Out in this wild and woolly west we have thought that when a proprietor had a piece of property, that was about to be injured and rendered worthless by some one from whom no damages could be collected, he has a right to ask the court to interfere and forbid the trespasser to proceed. Now if Biglow & Co. propose to dam Dairy creek so as to raise the water to a height of ten feet all the farmers above would be injured and all the damages that could be collected from the big milling company would not recompense them for the injury to their lands. Hence the law permits the court to enjoin the mill company from doing the injurious act. The striking coal miners were entering upon the premises of the mine owners and by entreaties, threats and intimidations causing the miners who were otherwise satisfied with their conditions, to quit work. This rendered the mines worthless. Rather than take the matter in their own hands, the proprietors asked the courts to interfere. They did so, an investigation disclosed the fact that the miners were unlawfully interfering with the rights of others, wherefore the court commanded the miners to refrain from doing the acts complained of. True the proceeding was expensive but it could be naught else. For the miners were clearly engaged in acts without a shadow of rights attached. Debs proposes to abolish the courts, that is he proposes to nullify the laws. What kind of society will exist without the means of controlling the vicious element. It is possible that some judge may have taken an extreme view of the situation but is not Debs himself an extremist?

BEST SUGAR AND THE FARM.

The Scientific American discussing the relation of the best sugar farm to the factory says "It is well to sound a note of warning with reference to one or two elementary facts, the neglect of which may bring much loss and disappointment to the well meaning but misguided husbandman in view of the widespread attention which is now certain to be given to the cultivation of the sugar beet."

"In the first place it must be remembered that there are many localities which are quite unsuited to sugar beet culture that there may be in our districts which are well adapted to sugar beet, and are, generally speaking, well adapted to best crops. It is therefore desirable that the farmer should make several tests within different parts of his farm before he commits himself to the hazard of a full crop. It will not be necessary to plant any considerable areas; small, detached patches will give him sufficient specimens to determine the value and quality of the soil. When it has been proved that his land is suitable, the next step is to ascertain the cost of delivering the beets to the nearest factory, and whether it is such as to allow best farming to be carried on at a profit."

"As there are only a few localities in the United States where beet sugar factories exist, it will be necessary to erect factories to receive and work up the crops, and in making the selection of sites that the greatest forethought and care must be exercised. The factory must be centrally located with regard to the best growing district, and at the same time it must, if possible, be situated upon a railroad or have connection through its own private side tracks. If the enterprise is to compete successfully with others, it should have the various materials, such as limestone, fuel and water, within reach, and, of course, the nearer the factory is to the markets, the larger the net profits which will accrue to the farmer from the crop. It will be evident, from his recent description of manufacture, that it requires a plentiful supply of water, fuel and limestone. If any or all of these have to be brought from a considerable distance it can be seen that the profits of the undertaking will be seriously reduced. The necessity of rail connection is further evident when we bear in mind the large amount of residue in the shape of filtered cossities. This is a valuable feed for cattle, and with reasonable transportation afforded it could be disposed of at profitable prices in the outlying country."

"When it has been proved that the soil is suitable, that the materials of manufacture are near at hand, and that a market can be depended upon any agricultural district may lay out its beet farms and build its own factory with a certain assurance that it will prove a profitable and, what is better, a permanently profitable, investment both for capital and labor."

Studying the above it will be noticed that as Hillsboro we have all the conditions necessary to the successful building of a sugar beet industry except the one item of time. Wood, water, beets, market both for sugar and byproducts are so convenient that it is thought the one thing of time can be imported so as to make industry a success.

W. J. BRYAN AND THE PRESS.

It was asserted last fall when it suited Mr. Bryan's purpose that he had severed his connection with the Omaha World-Herald newspaper but the following correspondence, hardly two months old, is without doubt a true statement of the fact that the late presidential candidate was, has been, and is as much responsible for the utterances of the World-Herald as though he sat in the editorial offices of his paper. The following paragraph is taken from the news report of the New York World:

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—William Jennings Bryan not only used a pass from Sacramento to Portland during his recent visit to this coast, but he received from the Southern Pacific a pass from Ogden to San Francisco. This is shown by the following letter from Mr. Bryan to W. W. Foote, who obtain for him the Sacramento pass:

"Please get me transportation from Sacramento to Portland; with stop-over privileges, and give it to Pullman conductor on to-night's train for Portland. I will call for it at Sacramento."

"I want it on advertising account of Omaha World-Herald; paper telegraphed for it. I obtained ticket from Ogden to Sacramento on that telegram."

"W. J. BRYAN."

In reply to this letter William H. Mills, of the Southern Pacific, sent Mr. Bryan this letter:

"Inclosed please find transportation from San Francisco to Portland, on account of advertising in the Omaha World-Herald. Omaha World-Herald is charged on ledger account of advertising department with $10. Trusting this will be satisfactory. I remain, yours truly,

"WILLIAM H. MILLS."

The treasure ship "Portland" from Alaska that was to increase the world's circulation by two or three millions was in fact somewhat late when she sailed into Seattle last Sunday. It is now known that barely $150,000 was brought out of Klondyke.

COAL STRIKE IS ENDED

The Miners Agree to go to Work at 64 Cents

LABOR CONVENTION ADJOURNED

Bomb was thrown as President Faure Entered the grounds of the Palace of Madolet.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 31.—The coal strike is considered settled here. The plan is to resume work at 64 cents and work pending arbitration. The direct parties in the conference-adjustment are President Hatchford, of the miners, and the executive committee of the operators. A number of the latter were in the city today, and the result is that a decision may be looked for at any moment.

One day in the fall of 1865 while reading the paper I noticed an article about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, but did not give it much attention. That afternoon while moving some books I broke an ulcer on my leg. The pain was so severe that I could not walk. I then tried some proprietary medicine, but did not receive any benefit.

Paris, Aug. 31.—On the entrance of Pres. Faure to the grounds of the palace Madolet on his return from St. Petersburg, Russia, a bomb was exploded. Fortunately no one was injured. The police regard the explosion as the act of anarchists, and an attempt on the life of the president.

Japan and the Sealing Question. VICTORIA, B. C. Sept. 1.—Japanese papers state that a commissioner is to be sent by the Japanese government to the Washington sealing conference this fall, and that he will be instructed to side with the United States as to remedial measures for the preservation of seals and sea otters.

St. Louis, Sept. 1.—Eugene V. Debs spoke for an hour tonight to 500 people assembled at National hall, under the auspices of the social democracy. It was a red-hot, revolutionary talk, in which the newspapers, corporations, capitalists, courts and the whole system of government was arraigned, condemned and ridiculed.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—The coal miners strike seems on the eve of settling. The miners go back at a stipulated price which is to be finally adjusted by arbitration.

It begins to be seen that the Dingley bill will do for sugar just what republicans claim will result from adopting the protective tariff system. The sugar trust is not nearly as well satisfied with the schedule as the enemies of the bill would have us believe, but there is such a protection to the sugar beet industry that there is every prospect that capital will take hold of the matter and making its profit, will sign the death warrant of the sugar trust. The sugar beet industry is one that cannot exist except as small, comparatively, enterprises but there will be many of them and quite widely scattered so that it will be as difficult to combine them into a trust as it is to organize farmers.

The rain that has already fallen has not damaged anything, but danger lies in that which we fear may come. Should this showery weather continue for ten days, much grain would be ruined. This year the crop was spring sown and hence it is late. The cutting has been completed but the bundles yet stand in the field, and there is where farmers make a mistake. There was time for stacking most of the grain that is now out, and in stacks it would stand much rain. Of course this stacking would increase the cost of harvesting yet it is better to do that than to risk losing by rain.

The state supreme court in the celebrated Johnathan Tice case from Multnomah county decides that no orders of a court made on Sunday are legal. Tice had been tried in the circuit court and the matter submitted to a jury. The jury could not agree on a verdict and was discharged on a Sunday. The Supreme court holds that such an order cannot be made on that day. This ruling practically acquits Tice.

The Hawaiian legi-lature has been called in extra session as report states for the purpose of considering the annexation treaty.

TAKING CHANCES

Josh Billings once said: "If I was called upon to sweep over the body of a dead man, I would shed no tears over his head." Josh didn't take any chances, even though every appearance indicated that he was dead. He'd keep away from his heels. No man ought to take any chances when there is a certainty to be had.

IN BUYING

Your goals for this fall and winter take no chances but buy from a reliable house. We know we give more for the money than others care to offer. Come and see our goods and be convinced.

Gold and Gold.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The Evening Bulletin prints a letter from its official correspondent at Klondyke

The prospect for suffering there this winter is sickening. Men and men and men six hundred mile from their base of supplies and no transportation lines established except the backs of men. These two or three paragraphs are lines in the picture.

"Dawson is merely a collection of log huts, saloons and a mass of tents, about 600 in number. When the long nights come and the glass goes down to 65 degrees below zero, there will be intense suffering here, and I shudder to think of the result."

"Provisions are going to be very scarce, and there is little reason to doubt that the entire town will have to go on short rations during the winter, and that scurvy will be rampant."

"The gold that will go down the river for San Francisco and Seattle will amount to about $2,000,000. There is a lot of gold that will remain in camp, for it is used as an equivalent of money and is legal tender at 17 per cent. Of the 3000 or 4000 inhabitants, only a couple of hundred are miners, and the rest are engaged in various kinds of business. There is plenty of work a man can get for $20 per day, and many men have paid $25 per day or less for living, and saved the balance."

"Reports of other strikes are constantly received here, and many are authentic, so far as Stewart and Polley rivers are concerned, but nothing like so rich as the Klondyke has been reported."

One day in the fall of 1865 while reading the paper I noticed an article about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, but did not give it much attention. That afternoon while moving some books I broke an ulcer on my leg. The pain was so severe that I could not walk. I then tried some proprietary medicine, but did not receive any benefit.

At a Vain Search.

SEVERAL YEARS AND THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS EXPENDED.

An Expert Accountant and Bookkeeper of Detroit Troubled with Hereditary Scrofula in its Worst Form—Spends a Small Fortune Seeking to Find a Cure.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich.

James H. Wallace, the well known expert accountant and bookkeeper, of Detroit, Mich., lately had a remarkable experience, and a reporter called on his pretty near 240 Sixth Street, to interview him regarding it. He found Mrs. Wallace in the midst of house cleaning, and after the reporter related the object of an visit Mrs. Wallace said: "You had better see Mr. Wallace at the office of C. H. Hallock & Co., 12000 Broadway, on Orchard Street, and he will tell you of this experience more fully than I can."

Mr. Wallace was seen. "I am," said Mr. Wallace, "yet a young man, still I have suffered untold agonies and tortures. I was born with that awful hereditary disease known as scrofula, and what I suffered cannot be well described."

The first physician that treated me said it was a constitutional blood disorder and by constant treatment and diet, it might be cured. The blood purifiers and spring remedies I used only made the eruptions more fearful looking and in fact rendered me more miserable than I had been before. On my limbs were large ulcers which were very painful, and from which there was a constant discharge. In three years I spent over $500 in medicine and medical services and grew worse instead of better. I tried the medical baths, and in 1887 went to Washington, D. C., where I was not benefited. I then tried some proprietary medicine, but did not receive any benefit."

"One day in the fall of 1865 while reading the paper I noticed an article about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, but did not give it much attention. That afternoon while moving some books I broke an ulcer on my leg. The pain was so severe that I could not walk. I then tried some proprietary medicine, but did not receive any benefit."

"I only had bought Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People at the start. I would be thousands of dollars ahead and had five years of health and happiness instead of tortures. Today I feel like a new man, and my only regret is I am entirely rid of my old trouble."
