DECEIVING THE EXEMY.

In the spring of 1888 a pair of red foxes took up their home on a Dako ta fazza. They dug several holes on s to a knoll in a wheat-field, and soon after four "kits" or young foxes arrived. Every day, while harrowing and sowing wheat in the field, says INDIANS LOCATED IN HARNEY COthe farmer, I saw the two old foxes lying on the little mound in front of their home. The kits rolled about Fish Without Names 3040 Bushels of in the sun, played with the bushy tails of their parents and enjoyed themselves apparently as much as a 6 00 group of kittens. One morning a neighbor came to all the curiosity of his kind, soon began the investigation of both farms. · He was stid a long distance from the fox-den when I heard a sharp warning bark and saw the kits disaplay on the mound, her ears erect,her nose on the ground, all attention. The father of the family, with his tail swinging in the wind, trotted toward the dog.

Can be intend to attack him, I wondered. I had never heard of such a thing, and the dog, though not a large one, was still larger than the fox. But reynard knew his busthe intruder until toe dog saw him, when both stopped for an instant, and then the dog gave chase. The fox, with a bark of defiance, turned so @ and ran in a direction away from his flour, one car of hops, three cars wood

At first the dog seemed to gain rapidly upon the fox, but I watched them for nearly a mile before they disappeared in the long prairie-grass and concluded that the fox was able to keep out of the other's way. In about an hour the dog returned from a fruitless chase, and for a time he contentedly followed his master. Then he began prowling around

All this time the mother-fox had remained on the mound, a picture of quiet vigilance; but now, as the dog again ventured near, she rose and trotted toward him, and the dog was soon chasing her over the prairie.
