J. D. Haws pitches into Oregon republicans for standing on the National republican platform.

A prominent populist in town, after reading the U'Ren expose in the Tribune said: "He must be a fool or a knave."

Mugwump does not like old things. In that he is different from the phalanxers who will be satisfied with "any old thing."

Cal Cooper says he keeps his ear close to the ground. Would it not be well for him to hearken to the sound of that "phalanx" lest they run over him and crush his head into the earth?

The rumors noted last week to the effect that the Portland Daily Tribune had been bought by republicans turns out to be a canard. The same man who worked with Hirst on the New York Journal still writes scare heads and preaches free silver.

Chairman Cooper declares that the phalanxers are not discussing candidates yet. He positively asserts that the claims of bishop Barkley are not taken into account. That probably is true as far as Mr. Cooper is concerned but what is the bishop doing?

Judge Stearns of the Multnomah county circuit court has been compelled to resign because of ill health. Stearns has made a brilliant record, but it was at the expense of his health since he is comparatively a young man. Gov. Lord has not yet appointed his successor.

The Oregonian boasts of reposing on the table lands of Harmony, hard by a pearly fountain that forms limpid rills. Would it not be better for that advocate of sound money to descend along that rill to the plain and at threatened points dam and dike to prevent an overflow rather than loiter where it is content to damn the toilers.

The article on tuberculosis in another column is a valuable contribution and ought to set people to thinking and then acting. Dr. Withycomb has made more post mortem examinations of tuberculosis perhaps than any other man in America. He is firmly convinced that consumption can be driven from the country. He has promised further contributions which will be eagerly read.

Congressman Tongue has introduced a bill in congress granting a pension to our neighbor in South Tualatin, Littleton Linsey, a veteran of the Mexican war. If the pension is allowed it will aid a most worthy citizen at a time of life when his earning capacity is at a minimum. We all hope Mr. Tongue will be successful in getting his bill through both houses. He will leave no stone unturned to do it.

U'Ren has been endorsed by his party in Clackamas county. It was not a unanimous vote, but the white wash is more or less thick. It is well. U'Ren is corrupt. He took money and paid some to others of his party. His party endorses him and partakes of his corruption. The party is not pure. Are those letters forgeries? Not a bit of it. U'Ren got the compromising letters from Young and left them in an old secretary. When he moved he did not take them. Mrs. Lewelling found them and gave them out where they would do the most good.

On the first page this week the full text of Mackay's reply to the Hirsch proposition is given. The peace overtures are rejected and now there looks like nothing else will be done save to continue the factional fight. We are to have the cause of sound money jeopardized that a few men may vent their spleen. The phalanxers are in high glee over what they regard as their easy victory. It is too bad, The 16 to 1 policy of a minority is in danger of being fastened on the state because the stubborn pride of a few men will not agree to arrange for a full and free expression of the votes. Who is to blame? Probably both parties. It most always is the case in such contentions. It is the cause of sound money that will suffer.

Cal Cooper, phalanxer and fusionist says his party will not defend the legislative hold up in 1897. His neighbor said "you will have to. The democrats and populists and Yamhill bimetalists, will be compelled to bear the burden of that outrageous thing." "Well," replied Cooper, "The Simon republicans were in it, too." "Very well, if Simon republicans were with you, let them bear the responsibility which attaches to their acts. But you must remember that you were not compelled to do Simon's bidding. Your self-respect and your obligations as a good law-abiding citizen ought to have compelled you to do your duty. The republicans were there to do their duty and did it as far as they were able." Cooper then got his head on the ground to listen for the coming of the phalanxers.

MARK HANNA'S SUCCESS.

Because of the prominence of the man and the principles involved, the whole nation watched the senatorial election in Ohio with more than usual intetest. At the late republican state convention in that state Senator Hanna was nominated for re-election to be voted for in the legislature. The platform was a re-affirming of the St. Louis republican national platform, a gold standard declaration of political policy. The party wanted Hanna. There was no opposition to his nomination or if there was it remained in the background. The people wanted the principles of the party to succeed for they elected not only the state ticket but also the legislative ticket. The people ought to have what they wanted. To get their rights they organized meetings and reinstructed their representatives when it was developed that a few were making combinations with the opposition to defeat what they had so stubbornly battled for in November. On Wednesday 1 st a joint ballot was taken and Hanna was elected Senator by one majority for both the short and the long term.

This is well. The organization of the only party that stands for sound money, is maintained. This of itself at this time, is sufficient reason for the election of the regularly nominated candidates of the party. Just now the welfare of the nation cannot be jeopardized by the trickeries of selfish politicians,

TUBERCULOSIS.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT:

In compliance with your request I submit the following items regarding tuberculosis. This disease as is well known, is the bane of the human family. Its victims are numbered by the tens of thousands annually, and yet this subject receives but a passing consideration at the hands of the general public. So extensive is this disease in the human family that autopsies in portions of large cities, show lesions of this malady in one person to every three that die. And the disease is directly responsible for one-seventh of the mortality in the human family.

Tuberculosis in our domestic animals is identical with tuberculosis or consumption in man, and is transmissible one to the other.

There is but slight doubt but that some of our domestic animals, especially the cow, are responsible for the propogation of the disease. The cow has been designated as the "wet nurse of consumption." This noble creature evidently merits the title, but who is to blame for it? This condition is largely due to environments which are under the control of the owner, hence it is an easy matter to place the responsibility. Among our domestic animals the cow is probably the most susceptible to tuberculosis, especially the dairy cow, as during lactation the large yields of milk depletes the system and lowers the vitality of the animal, thereby reducing her disease resisting powers to the minimum. During this period in the life of the cow, large tissue changes are hourly and daily taking place, hence the importance of furnishing her with an abundance of pure air, for the proper oxidation of the blood. Since pure air is an indispensible agent in the maintenance of a healthful condition of the cow, the importance of furnishing her with well ventilated quarters is apparent, for without this she is not only a menace to the health of the herd, but also to the consumers of her daily milkings.

After an experience with tuberculosis, extending through several years, the writer has arrived at the conclusion that fully 90 per cent of tuberculosis in dairy cows is directly caused from faultily constructed stables, accompanied with bad sanitary regulations. Whenever a herd of dairy cows are found that have been confined during a considerable portion of the time, in a dark illventilated stable, a tuberculine test will almost invariably reveal tuberculosis in that herd; while on the other hand herds kept in barns, properly ventilated and well lighted, are seldom found to be diseased.

Thus it will be seen that vitiated air is a potent factor in spreading the disease among cows, and the writer firmly believes that the same cause is largely responsible for the ravages of consumption in the human family. It is a well known fact that the tubercle bacillus cannot long withstand pure air and sunlight, hence dwellings for human beings, as well as barns for domestic animals should be constructed so as to admit as much pure air and light as possible for the comfort and the health of the occupants.

The high death rate from consumption in our large cities is mainly due to two causes. First, from overcrowding in dark illventilated tenement flats, and, secondly, from using milk from tuberculous cows.

The percentage of diseased cows in some of the dairies near the large cities of the east, is simply appalling, oftentimes ranging from 75 to 100 per cent. Those cows are kept in basement barns; they are never permitted to take exercise, and are deprived of all natural light. This class of dairies furnishes the milk to the poorer classes. And it is among these people that we find the highest per cent of death rate from tuberculosis.

In the mild climate of this state there is no excuse for a dark, and practically air-tight cow barn, although many of our dairymen, either through ignorance or penuriousness will persist in keeping cows in such places. The humid climate of Western Oregon is somewhat favorable to the tubercle bacillus, hence the supreme importance of surrounding our cows with proper hygienic conditions.

Cattle kept in the open air are rarely, if ever found to be affected with tuberculosis; and we have no record of a case of bovine tuberculosis among the range stock of this state.

The dairy herds of Oregon are probably freer from tuberculosis than the dairy herds of any other state in the union. Oregon is the first state that undertook the task of stamping out the disease from among the domestic animals within her borders; and is also the first state to enact a law empowering the use of tuberculine as a diagnostic agent, which agent at the present time is recognized by the veterinary profession in every nation of the civilized world.

Men who have made a close study of tuberculosis in man and the lower animals are generally of the opinion, that with the observance of scientific sanitary principles in the construction of our dwellings and barns that ravages of tuberculosis will be considerably mitigated. Fortunately electricity is destined to be a boon to the populace of our cities, as the metropolitan street railway system, will or even has already fairly revolutionized the old style of building cities. Suburban homes will become more numerous, which will insure plenty of pure air, added vigor, and less consumption.

To successfully cope with the disease, we must first recognize the fact that the disease is highly contagious under certain conditions.

Numerous instances are on record where tuberculosis has been transferred from man to animal and vice versa.

To show the peculiar manner in which the disease spreads, the following are good examples:

Dr. Deverue of Paris had among his patients three brothers who successively sickened and died of tuberculosis. They had shared the same bed, and were all bed-bug bitten. Thirty bugs were caught and put upon three healthy guinea pigs, all of which died, and post mortems showed well marked tuberculosis. From the diluted and filtered pulp of fifty crushed bed bugs, bacterial cultures were obtained which caused typical tuberculosis when inoculated.

A well known gentlemen in Portland had a son who sickened and died of tubercular spinal meningitis, a short time afterwards the family cow was condemned and destroyed for tuberculosis.

A Portland young lady suffering from consumption had some pet Buff Cochin chickens which she attended to herself. Shortly after the death of this young lady, the writer made a post mortem examination of one of those chickens and found it to be affected with generalized tuberculosis, evidently caused from picking up the sputa from their attendant.

THE PRESS.

We object to the name of free silver republicans; there is no such thing If you honestly believe in free silver you are entitled to your opinion, but you are a Bryan democrat and no amount of white-washing can alter that fact. The chief plank in the republican platform is the gold standard and sound money plank, and to repudiate that bars you from calling yourself a republican until your education in finance is completed, and you have become convinced of the folly of trying to reduce this country to the financial basis of ol Mexico.—Corvallis Union.

There is but little doubt as to the outcome of the impending struggle between the republican and democratic parties on the currency question. The one has again declared its firm support of what it has always upheld, the policy of keeping every dollar as good as gold, and the other is reiterating its intention of supporting the half-fiat theory of free silver and seems to be about on the verge of declaring in favor of absolute greenbackism and the issuance of unlimited and irredeemable paper money by the government.—Albany Herald.

So long as the people follow self constituted leaders rotten politics will result.—McMinnville Telephone Register. If Cal Cooper whom the T. R. is following, then will some one name the convention that elevated him to prominence.

The Portland Dispatch thinks that U'Ren is in the pay of the "Mitchell Push." U'Ren himself says that the populists, excepting Ogle, received from $80 to $120 from the "enemies of Mitchell." Considering the results of their work the public think that U'Ren tells the truth in that matter and that Mitchell does not "push" him at all.

There is alarming news from Havana. On Wednesday that Cuban city for a few hours was in the hands of a mob. Two newspaper offices that had been favoring autonomy were wrecked. American citizens were threatened. Our fleet has been ordered to concentrate at Key West, and one dispatch dated, Washington, 2:15 a. m. Thursday, yesterday, states that Admiral Sampson had been ordered to sail to Havana. It is just possible that the Maine by this time know the color of our warships. Havana is 160 miles distant from Key West, only about 7 hours steaming or 5 hours for our fastest boats. In favor of the plaperat- and then he'd

HOW THE PURE ARE SOILED!

U'Ren worked there for money. There seems to be no doubt about that. Young was in the ring, too. These two people are the chief officers of the populist party, chairman and secretary. And how many declamations we have heard about the corruption in the old parties and the white purity of the populists. If any one can point to more corruption than is told of U'Ren in the following affidavit, then name him. U'Ren acknowledges to getting $80 to $120. What did he do with the remainder of that big roll of bills? He must have distributed them to the other populist members. Indeed he says he did, all taking of the swag except Ogle. Wherefore it appears that the whole party is corrupt, or rather the leaders. The honest electors have been deceived. They thought the protestations of purity and the abhorance of bribery were true and they voted for them only to find that they had given their suffrages to a gang of schemers, tricksters, corruptionists, bribers and bribe-takers, but here is the statement of Sophrona V. Lewelling:

"Milwaukie, Or. Nov. 1, 1897.

"I, Sophronia V. Lewelling, residing at Milwaukie, Clackamas county Oregon, depose and say, that I am personally acquainted with W. S. U'Ren, member of the legislature from Clackamas county; that said U'Ren has for several years lived on the premises of deponent, and was a partner in business with my late husband. I further depose and say that at different times during the season of the legislature of 1897, I held conversation with said U'Ren relative to matters pertaining to said legislative session, and in one or more of said conversations said U'Ren stated to me that H. W. Corbett, of Portland Oregon, was furnishing the money to pay the expenses of the members of said legislature. He, U'Ren, further told me that H. W. Corbett would probably be the next United States senator because the house would not organize and that Governor Lord would then appoint Corbett, as the said Corbet and Joe (meaning Simon) 'owned' him (Lord). I further depose and say, that during the time that said legislature was attempting to organize, the said U'Ren on one occasion came to my house from Portland (as he stated) and showed me a large roll of bills (money) remarking that 'he had drawn on his share of the Salem business.' He took from the roll three 10 dollar notes and gave them to me. This was in settlement of a debt for money I had previously loaned him. I further depose and say that another interview at a time later than the one above mentioned, the said U'Ren said to me that he was afraid the members might be compelled to go in and organize, in which event the First national bank people, (meaning the First National bank of Portland) had $12,000 ready to send the said members out in the country. I said to U'Ren, 'I suppose you will go to Denver, (his former home). He replied, 'No, I will go to Mexico, out of the United States altogether or I may have to go to the penitentiary.' I make the above statement in the hope that it may benefit the people who are being betrayed by one of their trusted leaders. [SIGNED]

NEW THINGS BETTER.

"Dollars of our dadys" humph I don't want them. I don't want the horses of our dadys, they were only scrubs. Don't want the cattle of our Daddys, they were long horned Mexican brutes; don't want the clothes of our Daddys, they were buckskins and tow shirts; don't want the dollars of our Daddys, they was coon skins; don't want the grub of our Daddys, it was biled wheat without seasoning. In fact I want things tangible and real, not "the substance of things hoped for" but the real substance itself. The humiliation that our government is heaping upon the people is almost unbearable. Crawling around, sneaking about and cringing around other nations about our money matters, an affair that belongs exclusively to ourselves. It congress could ever get it through them that its duty is to furnish its own people with a money as good as any other nation, christian or heathern on this earth, and a little more of it. Let us not sneak around and ask someone to issue notes for money when our hills and valleys are teeming with gold and silver.

Farmer Hopkins' Evidence.

HE TELLS ABOUT THE SUFFERING OF HIS DAUGHTER.

A Victim of Nervous Prostration and Neuralgia, Saved After Her Physician Abandoned Hope.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

While in the neighborhood of Rugby, Indiana, recently, a reporter was told that Miss Clara Hopkins, daughter of Mr. Dennis Hopkins, a prominent farmer of Bartholomew County, had been the subject of a remarkable transformation. The reporter decided to investigate and learn the particulars. He was driven to Mr. Hopkins' splendid country home, where he had an interesting conversation with that gentleman regarding the illness of his only daughter.

"You have been correctly informed," said Mr. Hopkins, "for Clara has indeed had a severe siege. She tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and they did her more good than all other medicines together that she ever took. A few boxes of that medicine accomplished the cure of a case in a few months which had baffled physicians for years.

"About three years ago her health began to fail. The doctor who attended her said this was caused by weak digestion. This produced nervousness, which was accompanied by neuralgic troubles, which at first was located in the nerves about the heart. Of course this was a dangerous location for any such trouble, and she rapidly grew worse, notwithstanding that the physician was treating her. This continued till a year ago last November, at which time she was almost constantly confined to her bed.

"The neuralgia became gradually worse, and finally she was a confirmed victim to it.

"Nervous prostration set in, and she was soon all run down. Her blood was impure and watery, and her complexion became sallow and sodden. She had no strength, and the least noise irritated her, she was so nervous. We had another physician, and he treated her steadily for a year without doing her any good. In fact, it seemed that she was continually becoming worse. He finally gave up the case as hopeless, and advised us to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for her, as he said that they were the only thing that would benefit her.

"I procured a couple of boxes of the pills, and found that their use helped her considerably. She kept on taking them till she used about a dozen boxes, with the result that she was entirely well, and since then there has been no symptoms whatever of her old trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are certainly a wonderful medicine, which did a wonderful good in Clara's case, doing what several physicians failed to accomplish."

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained, in a condensed form, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

HAVE YOU USED BUTTER PARCHMENT?

All gilt-edged butter put on the market by creameries is wrapped in paper. The product of the private dairy would reach its market in much better condition if wrapped in Butter Parchment than it does when wrapped in cloth. Parchment is not only better than cloth but cheaper. Cloth sells at 6 cents per yard, from which 27 sheets can be cut—27 Parchment wrappers cost 2¼ cents.

500 Sheets 8x11, - 55 cts.
500 Sheets, 8x13, - - 60 cts

The standard size for 2-pound rolls is 8x11 inches; 2-pound blocks are wrapped in the 8x13 size. One reason why paper has not been generally used heretofore, farmers could not get it at the general store It is now kept at the Independent office cut to any size wanted.

The Latch String Out.

It is well said that manners make the man, but the more solid ingredient of character is also necessary to a true type of manhood. If a man has these both, and also has the good sense to dress well he will find the "latchstring out" for him all over the world.
