Our ballot law needs amending or else repealing altogether. In theory it is ideal, but in practice it is far trial of several years has gone back to older methods. The law is framed to check corruption in elections, yet there seems to be the same amount of fraud as before. If the ered at the recent election that he had been voting the democratic and populist ticket at previous elections because he did not understand the direction for marking his ballot. In this county there were 3161 votes cast for governor and for congressman 3176 votes, yet there ought o have been more cast for governor since a man may vote any where in the state for that office. For circuit judge there were polled 3025 votes but only 2923 for dist. attorney and 2854 for member of the board of equalization. Although there is a difference of more than a hundred votes the same men that voted for one officer had a right to vote for all. Indifference cannot be assigned for this failure to exercise the elective franchise. The system of voting is at fault. There ought to be amend ments that will make it easier to

Then the warships were double deckers with 32 pounders on the lower deck and 18's on the upper, 24's the heaviest, but the Yankees put 64's on the upper decks and 74's below. They whipped everything they came up with. English critics held such armaments impossible but ended by equipping some of their ships after the American system. In 1861 th-Yankees again demonstrated that wooden ships are not fit for war canoes. Within the last week Capt. Sigsby has shown that the heretofore dreaded torpedo boat and torpedo boat destroyer are worthless and the hundreds of these craft in Euro pean navies might as well put out of commissions. This week Capt. Sigs by was sailing by the port of San Juan in Porto Rico in the passenger steamer St. Paul renamed Yale. His ship is no more of a war vessel than she was when carrying passengers between New York and Southampton except that she is armed with light rapid fire cannon, and her tourist passengers are replaced with soldiers. A spanish cruiser and the torpedo boat destroyer Terror came out to take the Yale as a prize, Capt. Sigsby let the Terror come into easy range, when he began firing with hilight guns. Three shots took effect and sent the Spaniard off disabled. in the darkness of night to come near a fleet.
