SECRETARY WILSON

Is delighted with the State Says he would like to live here.

THE STATE FAIR EXHIBIT

Benj. Scholfield of Washington county and Florence Wolf of Polk Co. represent 1st District.

Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture passed thru Hillsboro last Monday morning on a special train. A special was taken that he might stop a few minutes at the stations. At the Hillsboro station the tarry was for ten minutes. Dr. Withycomb, vice-director of the Oregon experimental station, Corvallis, and Hon. Benton Killin, one of the regents of O. A. C. were with the secretary and were able to call his attention to all objects of interest along the road. Secretary Wilson was met at the station by Congressman Tongue, Mr. E. B Tongue, Mr. Zina Wood and a representative of the INDEPENDENT. The secretary was in the best of humor and must have been well pleased with the country he had passed thru on that morning. Some one regretted that he could not stop longer and asked him to return for a day. He replied that he would like to come here for a permanent residence. He may have had the state in mind, but we about the car thought only of Washington county. Oregon can afford to have national representatives to visit us, and it is to our advantage that they come.

Among other premiums offered by the State Board of Agriculture is a special of $150 for a state district exhibit. For the purpose of making this display the state is divided into four districts. The first is composed of Clatsop, Columbia, Tillamook Washington, Yamhill, Polk, Benton, and Lincoln counties. The board has appointed Hon. Benj. Scholfield of this county and Mrs. Florence Wolf of Falls City, Polk county to be superintendents of the exhibit of the first district. Mr. Scholfield has accepted the assignment and is devoting his whole time to preparing the exhibit. He is either in the field or in his work room every day. He proposes to have that premium or else demonstrate the fact that some other district is richer in products or better farmed than the 1st. He wants to know the possibilities of the district and he as a public spirited citizen wants others to know them. In this connection Mr. Scholfield makes a story of an incident that he heard several years ago. It was at a fair, possibly at Salem, where an old timer was belittling an extra fine exhibit of farm products to a Conneticut Yankee. "These" pointing to the exhibit, "are only the possibilities of this country." The Yankee replied, "My friend, in my state what is possible is done." Mr. Scholfield wants first to show what is possible and then arouse a spirit that will go forward and do the best that our soil, and climate is capable of. To that end he wants exhibits of the best that the garden, the orchard the field the pasture or the forest can yield. If there is a single turnip that is better than others in the patch he wants it, or a potato, or an apple, a sample of grass, of wheat or oats. He wants everything that will show what can be done in his district. Mr. Scholfield's headquarters are at Forest Grove, but if it is more convenient to contributors to leave exhibits in Hillsboro, the INDEPENDENT will receive them for Mr. Scholfield. Fruits canned and jellies count. Let nothing be omitted.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE

The following resolutions were adopted by Hillsboro lodge No. 44, degree of honor:

Whereas, It has pleased the all-wise Creator of the Universe to take from our midst our beloved sister, Mrs. Nellie Wehrung, wife of our brother, G. A. Wehrung; therefore, be it

Resolved, First: that while we bow in submission to the decree of the inevitable, we recognize the fact that by the death of our sister, Hillsboro lodge No. 44, D gree of Honor, has lost a worthy member and our brother a true and faithful wife.

Second: That while we mourn her loss, and do not understand why, one standing as she did, just at the threshold of a happy useful life, should, in the full vigor of her young womanhood, be so suddenly taken from her husband, relatives and friends, yet, in this, their hour of deepest sorrow we extend to them our heart-felt sympathy for their irreparable loss, and say to them, that we believe the all-wise Father knoweth best and "doeth all things well."

Third: That a copy o these resolutions be transcribed in the minutes of this lodge, and a copy be sent to the bereaved husband, also a copy published in the INDEPENDENT and Argus.

Respectfully submitted,

Mr. Thos. Milne, who went north to the Klondike last summer is at home again.

Rev. M. J. Paliantyne will preach at Shute's school house on Sunday July 30 at 3:30 p m.

Don't waste your money on shoddy mixed machine oils that gum and ruin machinery when you can buy the best at the Pharmacy.

Mrs. Imbrie received a letter from her husband, J. A. Imbrie, yesterday, stating that he was extending his visit a few days so as to make a short excursion into Mexico.

On Monday last J. Meyer, living south of Hillsboro, while hauling wood slipped and fell dislocating the right shoulder. Dr. Bailey was called and reduced the fracture and the injured man is doing well.

We had a fine shower of rain on Friday last which was welcomed by everyone notwithstanding there was hay out. Every growing thing was benefited except small potatoes. To them the rain was disastrous.

C. B. Brown, dentist, will be in Hillsboro Monday August 7, at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Morgan, to remain one week. Those desiring his service please call early in the week.

Supervisors of Eastern Oregon are strawing the dusty roads of their districts and claim great benefits. What supervisor in this county will be the first to try it? Between Hillsboro and Forest Grove is a good stretch of road to test the matter.

It is now planned that the 24 Oregon Infantry will be mustered out on August 7th at San Francisco. Immediately thereafter the Vets will come home. We may therefore expect them about the 9th or 10th of August.

Mr. J J. Morgan, who two years ago went to Alaska, returned this week. He spent two winters near Dawson in the Klondike country. He is looking well and seems to have endured the cold of that country without physical discomfort.

Miss Victor, returned last week from California, brought a desk ornament for her brother, Deputy Sheriff C. E. Deichman that is highly prized. It is a horned lizard treated by a taxidermist and mounted on a slab made from the trunk of an orange tree. The lizard looks very lifelike and seems just ready to dart from the slab up ones sleeve.

The O. T. & T. Co. is adding new features to its exchange in Hillsboro which helps to better service. There are now 38 instruments in the exchange and soon there will be more. A lady operator is now on duty from 7 o'clock a m to 9 p m and of Sundays from 9 to 11 a m. This means more than at first might appear. The operator is at the switch-board continuously thus faicilitating business. The service in Hillsboro is more prompt than in large cities.

Rev. W. H. Black, late of this county but now of Alaska was met a month or more ago by those not his friends. He with his family had started home with a little stake, but thieves came and robbed him of $1500 worth of dust. His friends here have not heard from him since the robbery and as he has not got home, tho he has had ample time to come, it is surmised that he will stay and make other money to replace that lost.

Supt. Thatcher of the Oregon Telephone & Telegraph Co. spent Tuesday in town and after business was completed spent the remaining hours in visiting. He states that construction is very active with his company. Indeed they are not able to get material and men enough to keep up with orders. The company has projected a line to Glencoe in this county which will be built as soon as the material can be obtained, this summer if possible, but certainly before winter.

A citizen who has been overtaken by the King of Terrors has put away his loved ones in Odd Fellows cemetery and was keeping their graves decorated with growing flowering plants. These were in pots that would hold water and moisture was supplied weekly so that the plants grew thrifty and were beautiful. But some jealous vandall disturbed these emblems of regard by pulling up the plants and even carrying away the flower pots. What kind of a soul must that ghoul have?

Noah Lichty who lived in this county near Bethany, died suddenly last Friday in the hospital in Portland and was buried at West Union on Sunday last. The deceased on the day Ringling's circus exhibited was prostrated with heart trouble, but receiving care at the hospital he recovered in part, tho not enough to justify his discharge. A day before his death he had walked some distance which seems to have been too much for his health, for, sitting in his chair, his heart failed and he was dead before assistance could be rendered.

Copper wire for electrical purposes has doubled in price within the past few months. The old figure was 13 and 14 cents per pound, but now it is firm at 28 cents. This is not so much the result of the formation of trusts as to the great demand made by telephone construction. The high price of copper wire is driving the telephone companies to seek a substitute. One has been found in aluminum wire which has great textile strength and perfectly transmits sound waves but is much affected by heat and cold. In a warm day the wire will sag while in a cold one it contracts till it is like a piano string. In a cold day it is very brittle and breaks easily. The new wire is, notwithstanding its defects, being used on the new line now building between The Dalles and Prineville.

KIND WORDS FOR OREGON

Mr. Patteson gives a Detailed Account of his visit to the Great West

Chas. S. Patteson, a most genial gentleman and the wideawake publisher of Newspaperdom, New York, who was a delegate to the National Association, at its late Portland meeting, writes this of the reception and entertainment in Oregon:

No sooner had Oregon's state line been reached at Huntington than there began a series of hospitable entertainment and specially planned treats in opportunities to investigate the development of the marvelous natural resources of the great North west and to enjoy this section's wonders in river and mountain scenery that simply left nothing further to be desired or imagined. Besides the Oregon Press Association —whose members headed by President Gault of Hillsboro, left sanctum and shop for the occasion almost to a man—there were most devoted reception committees from every point at which a stop had been scheduled, besides the very representative body of hosts who acted for the city of Portland. In addition the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company in the person of that most efficient and courteous general passenger agent, W. H. Hurlburt had provided liberally for their guests literally granting carte blanche facilities to travel "by rail river or ocean" over their extensive system besides "setting up" refreshments at eating stations and deputizing employees to accompany the party and point out and describe objects of interest lining the route.

Headquarters was established at the sumptuous Hotel Portland, where the best of arrangements had been made to receive and entertain guests.

Thanks to the citizens' committee and the management of the Marquam Grand Opera House, that very convenient auditory was provided as a place for the sessions of the convention the first of which was held on the morning of Wednesday, July 5th.

Following the invocation by Rabbi Bloch and brief remarks by Chairman Hawkins of the local committee a cordial and felicitous address of welcome was made by Governor Geer. Mayor Storey also extended a hearty greeting.

For the press not of Portland and Oregon but of the great empire of the Pacific Northwest welcome in fullest measure was expressed in the exceedingly able address by the venerable editor of the Portland Oregonian H. W. Scott. His remarks took the form of a comprehensive review of the remarkable evolution through which American civilization is now passing—of the mighty problems in governmental policy that confront the people of this land as a whole—of the limitless possibilities before us in extending the blessings we enjoy to the inhabitants of distant lands.

In behalf of the Oregon Press Association President D. M. C. Gault, of the Hillsboro INDEPENDENT, voiced, only in different terms, the invitation to make the most of every opportunity for enjoyment and sightseeing that had come from every conceivable source to the editorial tourists. His words of welcome had already been interpreted in the indefatigable efforts put forth by himself and zealous associates.

At this point the business of the convention was taken up when Chairman Hawkins surrendered the gavel to the association's president Joseph B. Maccabe of the East Boston (Mass) Argus.

A Salem special says: The state board of education held a meeting this afternoon at which several important rules were made. It was decided that no certificate will be granted under the provisions of the old law even if the applicant were entitled to one when the time for receiving it expired, May 20. Graduates from normal schools and chartered institutions are excepted from this rule. The board decided that primary certificates are county certificates and should be issued by county boards of examiners and are good in any country in the state. As the law places no time limits on primary certificates they will be issued without time limit. Applicants for primary certificates will be required to pass examination on the same questions as applicants for first, second and third grade certificates on reading writing, orthography and theory and practice and pass further examination upon the art of questioning and methods. It was also decided that certificates of other states will be honored here provided they are state papers of like grade and secured by state examination. Superintendent Ackerman reported that he had turned into the state treasury $688 received by him as fees for state certificates and diplomas. This goes into the state board of examiners fund and makes a total of $1568 paid in by Superintendent Ackerman.

Last Wednesday W. R. West of Buxton was passing along the county road, near his place and when just opposite an old snag upon which Martin Gindhart was chopping, without warning it fell, striking the team and killing both horses on the spot. No other damage was done. Mr. West is a well known citizen of many years residence, and Gindhart, while of a more recent immigration, is a young man of excellent character being industrious, economical and modest in his bearing.

Mr. John Masters who last week wedded one of our Washington county girls, was a gunner on the battleship Texas at the time Cervera's fleet was destroyed last year at Santiago. He was on board when grand Captain Philip restrained his men from exulting over their victory when he said: "Don't cheer, boys. They are dying down there." Mr. Masters has wearied of sea life and now plans to stay ashore on his farm near Aloha.

We carry only the best line of machine oil and other oils at the Hillsboro Pharmacy.

Two years and a half ago Earnest DeLashmutt bought the stock in an Idaho national bank and gave in payment his farm at Witch-hazel in this county. On taking possession of the bank he found it bankrupt and in fact it was not able to remain open but a few weeks after the transfer of stock. DeLashmutt realized that he had been swindled. He employed Hon. Thos. H. Tongue of this county to bring a suit to set aside the deed. Mr. Tongue did so, alleging fraud. After a long and hard fought contest, the matter was argued at this term of court and a decree in favor of the plaintiff allowed. The sum involved is about $20,000, enough to intensify the efforts of both ligants and the attorneys.

Hon. W. N. Barrett took his eldest son Ira, to the hospital in Portland to have his foot operated upon. Ira has not had a good foot for a long time and it was fast getting worse. The operation itself was not so painful as the treatment afterward. This was excruciating for the first week but after that there has been a comparative freedom from pain. It is too early yet to determine the success of the operation, but everything is favorable so far, and there is reason to look for full relief. Ira was brought home last Monday for a week.

AT HYMEN'S ALTAR

Miss Louisa Bennett and Mr. Wm. Maschke united in Wedlock.

AT LEISYVILLE CHURCH

Last Wednesday evening—There were Many Valuable Presents given by their friends.

The marriage of Miss Louisa Bennett and Mr. Wm. Maschke at the Leisyville church Wednesday evening at nine o'clock, was one of the social events of the season. At seven o'clock the people began to gather and by the time the wedding was to take lace, every seat available was taken. At nine o'clock the ushers, Miss Dell Young and Mr. Francis Hanley, announced the arrival of the bride and groom and preceeded by the minister, Rev. Reynolds, they without attendants marched to the altar and were united in holy wedlock.

The bride looked lovely indeed, attired in cream colored casimere trimmed in silk ribbon with her bridal veil and orange blossoms and a bible in her hand. The ceremony was short but idoneous. Then came congratulations from their many friends present. As the bride and groom marched out two children strewed flowers before them expressive of the wish of all present that they might have a flowery path thru life.

The handsome new church was beautifully decorated with evergreen, myrtle and ivy, but the center attraction was a large silver bell hanging from an arch under which the bridal party stood.

After the ceremony the relatives and friends accompanied the bride and groom home, where they found the house decorated with ocean foam and Oregon grape in tasteful manner. Cake, of which there were six kinds, ice cream and lemonade served as refreshments. The presents were numerous: a silver tea pot, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett; tablecloth and napkins, Mrs. Imlay; two vases, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Bennett; fruit-dish, Mr. and Mrs. Gates; bone dishes, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart; China vase, Mr. Thatcher; set of glasses, Mrs. Blanchard; bread plate, Mrs. Bird.

Some years ago the botanist, Hall, visited Oregon and walked thru the college campus of Willamette University at Salem where he found a new violet, (Viola Hallii). This was greatly to the disgust of Pres. Gatch, who declared that it was to the disgrace of the college which had for 25 years been pretending to teach but any, that they depended on an outsider to find the new plants on their own campus. Prof. J. B. Horner of the chair of English literature in the Oregon Agricultural College does not propose to allow his president, the same Gatch, to feel chagrin in the matter of making known the richness and beauty of Oregon literature. That able scholar has written and published a small volume of "Oregon Literature" which is a valuable contribution to the rich mine already existing, the extent of which he points out. The history of state literature and its authors is taked up at the beginning which with extracts from their writings is brought down to the present. One descriptive extract, that by Parson Hines standing on Mt. Hood, is worth many times the price of the book, be it $1 or $5. Prof. Horner has done a great service to the state and his volume ought to run into the fifth edition.

Speirings Bros. of Greenville have added to their farm machinery a clover huller, the second to come into the state, the first being placed on the Broadmeade farm, Yamhill county. Messrs. Sperings had a clover attachment to their old threshing machine but it was over-worked and did not do as good a job as they desired wherefore they determined to use this special machine. The first work they do this year will be to thresh the clover left over from last year.
