HYPOCRISY OR IGNORANCE.

The theory of the democracy is that trusts are the creatures of protection and that they cannot exist under free-trade. It should be explained that this is the avowed theory of the democracy, rather than its honest belief...

Nothing in the condition of the treasury indicates that heavy taxes will be necessary and those in existence bear lightly upon the people. There is an ample balance of cash on hand.

Trusts are not the outgrowth of any special tariff system. They flourish or fall independently of tariffs, and are no more prevalent under protection than under free-trade.

In his address of welcome to the returned volunteers Gov. Gage of California said: "The present war is not a war of conquest, notwithstanding the treasonable utterances of a few carping critics to the contrary."

But the American people are not to be hoodwinked. They have had some instructive object lessons in free-trade and protection. They like the latter because of the prosperity it has brought and they are not going to give it up at the behest of demagogues whose fabrications have not even a kernel of truth and whose motives are transparently selfish.

"Love of the flag and love of country are not inconsistent with religious faith. I believe there is more love for our country and that more people love the flag than ever before."

"There has been doubt in some quarters respecting the policy of this government in the Philippines. I see no harm in stating it in this presence: 'Peace first, then, with charity for all, to establish a government of law and order protecting life and property, for the well-being of the people who will participate in it under the stars and stripes.'"

"The scene which followed this utterance surpasses description. The vast audience, breaking thru the bounds which ordinarily repress such manifestations of enthusiasm, shouted until the roof rang, and 10,000 flags fluttered approval of the president's words."

When the cheering finally subsided, the president said: "I have said more than I intended to in response to your warm welcome."

After the speech, the president drove back to Long Branch, where he attended the horse show.

History will give the administration high credit for the financial management of the war with Spain and the war that followed it as an unwelcome but unavoidable sequel.

THE RAINY WEATHER IS SPELLING ALL CLASSES OF CROPS.

Wm. F. Dixon of Corvallis died last week, aged 88 years six months. He went to Benton county in 1845, and had lived there ever since.

The Astoria Regatta committee settled its bills for the late meeting and had a surplus of over $800 which was placed in bank for next year.

At a meeting of fishermen at Marshfield the other day the price of salmon was fixed at 2 cents a pound or 50 cents for Chinooks and 25 cents for silversides.

As salmon fishing with nets is not allowed above certain points on Coos river, an unusually large number of chinooks will reach the spawning grounds this year.

The machinery of the old river boat "Three Sisters" that was operated some years ago by the Yaquina railroad has been sold to a California company that will put it into a boat to ply on the Sacramento river between Stockton and San Francisco.

It is remarkable how cruel some women are. Last week several Portland husbands commenced divorce proceedings in the Clackamas circuit court alleging cruel and inhuman treatment rendering life burdensome.

The plat for the new townsite of Shaniko which is located in Cross Hollows, was filed in the county clerk's office at the Dalles Saturday. The new town will be in the near future for a time at least, be the terminus of the Columbia Southern railway and bids fair to be a good sized little city.

The rain spoiled the plum crop in Coos county this season, and the apple crop is also short, but probably that is to be attributed to some other cause. In orchards on Coos river, which promised well a short time ago the apples are dropping from the trees, and the ground is covered with windfalls.

There is little doubt Lake county will have many new people within its borders before the close of the coming year 1899 says the Lakeview Examiner. Never before has this county been so thoroughly advertised throughout the east and the Pacific coast as it is today.

Hundreds of people from Maine to Texas have sent letters of inquiry regarding the climate soil opportunities generally to be found here.

The barn belonging to the estate of the late Joseph Donaldson, in Tillamook county containing 170 loads of hay, was burned on Monday night, entailing a loss of over $2,500. The hay was put up in good shape during the dry weather, but it is supposed it became overheated and caught fire, as no other account of its origin is obtainable.
