L. K. Adams whom Hillsboro people gladly called our Adams, but who now lives in Salem visited his old haunts on Tuesday last. Mr. Adams is looking well and is jolly so that we know business is prosperous with him.

Wm. G. Hale went to Roseburg this week to visit his brother John. While there he may take a ride on the engine as far south as Grants Pass. John will take very great delight in gently shaking up his college trained brother by a trip over the Cow creek hills.

Mrs. Beckwith returned hom e last Monday after an absence of two months. She finds Oregon a pleasant place, made so by green fields and fertile gardens as well as fresh, cool and invigorating air. She did not see a rain shower at Sacramento during her two months stay.

Tuesday morning last Dr. J. P. Tameisie was very pleasantly surprised when his relative, Mr. Victor Bayard, wife and son of Chicago called. Dr. Tameisie had not seen his kinsmen for several years and will take great delight in showing them about during the next few weeks.

J P. Hicks has sold his property on First street known as the Hicks house, to Messrs. Wygant of Ashland. The new owners are not here yet and it is not known how they will occupy the premises. Mr. Hicks is at Henly California and has a position as night watchman in a mill.

Mr. Jerome Palmateer centributes a vicious looking member of the thistle family which he found growing in his garden. The leaves are more than two feet long and fully eight inches broad and armed with spines as sharp as a cambric needle. The plant has not been recognized, but no one who has seen it cares for any of its seed.

Newberg is finding that the thing most difficult to do in the matter of locating a beet sugar factory is securing pledges from the farmers that will insure a supply of beets. It is with the greatest reluctance that the farmers will pledge land for beet growing in sufficient extent. The same obstacle was met here three years ago. We even had difficulty in getting free seed placed to raise beets for experimental purposes. There were no real refusals, but very great indifference.

Buck the trusts. Some of our people out toward Glenco are not really anti-monopolists except during a political campaign. Last spring an independent telephone company of ample means and every way responsible proposed to build a line to Glenco. The promoters asked the citizens to buy the poles at the mill. The estimated cost was $70 00. The company agreed to contribute $20 of this. A half interest in the line was to be given to the local subscribers. They also were to have the right to purchase the other half at cost of construction when they desired. Free telephonage for subscribers attached of course. The proposition the citizens did accept is from the O. T. & T. Co. The company bought the poles, and citizens delivered them. There are no consessions to these people and they have to pay 25 cents for every conversation of three minutes. Glenco is made a common point with Hillsboro as to points beyond Hillsboro. Thus it would seem that where there is a choice, our local people are to be thrown down and a foreign monopoly supported.

Rashe Humphrey well and favorably known to all old time Portland printers spent Sunday in Hillsboro. He was induced to talk of the days from 1859 to 1870. Many interesting reminiscences were indulged. One will bear repeating: Mrs. Dryar widow of Hon. Thos. J. Dryar founder of the Oregonian found herself at her husbands death in straitened circumstances. To earn bread she opened a boarding house. Being a most estimable woman she soon became popular and had her house full of guests, printers most numerous however. Because of her husbands occupation printers were favorites. One Christmas she determined to let partiality have its way. Accordingly she made a little dinner for her "boys." Among the guests were C. P. Crandell city editor of the Oregonian. Crandell was rather tall and slim, and a decided blond not quite sandy headed but with suggestions that way. His nose was quite prominent but thin. He drank no spirits though he may have taken a horn on rare occasions. On this occasion he was accompanied by his 4-year old son, an observing little imp. During the very good meal when joke and laughter were ruling strong, the thin high pitched voice of this terrible infant was heard in the question "Papa did you paint your nose red?" All eyes were directed to Crandell's nose. It was as red as blood could make it up to his eyes. The victim appreciated the joke and laughed as merrily as any of the diners.

COMMENCEMENT AT CEDAR MILLS CONVENT.

The traveler passing over the road connecting Portland and Hillsboro by way of Cedar Mills would never suspect that hard by Cedar Mills post office nestling among the orchards and remaining groves of native timber that there is an education center that is worthy to be the pride of much more pretentious places. Some years ago the convent of Our Lady of Sacred Heart directed by the Sisters of Mercy opened a school which the church knows as a parochial school but it is more than that. The course of study and training is in many directions fully equal to the academy. In musical culture and refinement the school is the leader of a movement that is revolutionizing the neighborhood. Fortunate indeed is the community which has such a refining factor.

The year's work was closed by commencement exercises last Wednesday evening. The chapel of the convent was profusely decorated with evergreens and bunting showing the national colors red, white and blue. The audience was large, the room being filled till standing room was at a premium.

Miss Young, daughter of county commissioner Young presided at the piano, where she is at home.

The single graduate this year is Miss Gertrude Bernard who is a loveable girl and as talented as she is comely. Her theme was "Failures in Life" which is a paper of such excellence that it is here given entire. Dressed in pure white, the young lady modestly stepped forward and in a clear, well modulated voice said:

Life is a battle field, and it has its successes and its failures. As I am about to leave the tranquil happy school life, and launch into a different sphere my theme has been chosen thus:

"Failures in Life." Now first comes the question, what are the causes of so many failures in life? Circumstances often beyond our control to govern or prevent; erroneous decisions at some important crisis of our private lives, or in our business affairs; following bad advice, for even the most kindly meant should be carefully weighed and considered before being entirely accepted; bad habits, the most dangerous of all stumbling blocks in the life of any one; haste in decision, an error most likely to happen in youth; over caution, the error most likely to occur in old age:

Then what are the consequences of so many failures? They tend to make us unhappy and discontented, or even remorseful, if we have only ourselves to blame for disaster, they make us distrustful of our own abilities and timid in trusting ourselves again in affairs of importance, and they make us suspicious of our friends and often unjustly so. Have failures any use? Yes they teach us more caution with regard to our own judgment or accepting the advice of others. They teach us humility, since our first failures often proceed from arrogance and conceit, they point out to us our own deficiences and warn us against stumbling again in the same path.

Now comes the important question What must we do to avoid failures? I will select 5 points, first cultivate steady moral habits that success may exist in our own brains and hands, and not depend upon fortune and favor. Second, we must be governed by Christian principle, so that if misfortune should overtake us we may have the inward consciousness of having acted with rectitude. Third, never to act upon mere impulse but consider every crisis carefully, before allowing it to govern our actions. Fourth, we must guard against wild speculations, the most brilliant schemes that promise sudden wealth without honest labor are the most dangerous allurements to youth. Fifth, and lastly, we should listen respectfully to the advice of those who by superior age, wisdom or wider experience, have gained a deeper knowledge of the world than ourselves. "Experience keeps a dear school" but the wise will endeavor to profit by the experience of others rather than purchase their own at the cost of loss and disappointment! Never sit down idly to bemoan your troubles, but face the difficulties as they rise, and conquer them as far as possible. Again I repeat Life is a battle field, so we must be ever beginning, and after failure bravely bear the disappointment and start again upon new undertakings, wiser and better from our first reverse. May such be my mode of acting through the new life on which I am about to drift, and if I fail in all earthly enterprises may I be successful in securing my heavenly inheritance,

Archbishop Cristy was present a part of the evening and presented the diploma of the institution to the graduate. In the remarks made he eulogized the high ideal of patriotism which the Sisters of Mercy were, by precept and example inculcating to the young people under their tuition.

The singing was good and there are some good voices at Cedar Mill, that if properly cultivated at our musical conservatories, can sing to other audiences than those composed of their near neighbors. One of these is Joseph Murry, who has a tenor that is at its best in the high notes. Bertha Vanderhy is a good soprano and her sisters have good alto voices, possessions all too rare. The entertainment was long, lasting from 8 o'clock to 11:20, but at no time was it tedious.

The school will be closed till September when it will again be opended for students.

The celebration in Hillsboro will be what a patriotic citizenship makes it, and it will be good. At first the committee sought attraction from abroad, but it was the farmer and lark fable over again. Our own resources are now used and the enjoyment of the celebration will be much more satisfactory than it would be if catch penny shows were about. The steam swing will be at sent and our ears will not be offended by its creaking and groans. The balloon s banished so the horror of a fatal acident is eliminated. The whole attention of the visitors can be centered upon the theme of the day—Patriotism.

At 9:30 o'clock on the morning of July 4th, the parade will be formed on Main street, between First and S cond, under the direction of Hon. B P. Cornelius, grand marshal. The procession will move at 10 o'clock and march on Mair street to Fifth, thence south on Fifth to Base Line; thence west on Base Line to Second; thence north on Second to Court House square, where exercises will be rendered according to this order:

The proprietor of the Hillsboro bakery wants to sell because of ill health. A good business proposition for a small sum of money.

The Hillsboro cornet band has received its new uniforms. The garments were worn first at the open air concert given last Saturday evening.

Herbert E. McKinney, who has been with Messrs. Redmond & Sappington, has gone east of the Cascade mountains where he expects to work during the summer.

Regular preaching service at the United Evangelical church next Sunday morning. In the evening a very interesting "Children's Day" program will rendered. All are invited

Archbish Cristie of the Catholic diocese of Oregon was in Hillsboro on Wednesday last inspecting locations for the erection of the church to be built this summer. Three offers of ground were made but a choice has not been fixed upon ye.

F. M. Heidel was hurt this week by a stick of cord wood rolling on him. The teamster was piling wood on top of a rick ten feet high when a billet rolled down and caught Mr. Heidel on his back. The injury is so serious that he is walking with a crutch.

At the storming of the Chinese stronghold at Tein Sein last Monday the Anglo Saxon soldiers were the first to break through the Chinese cordon, the Americans and English go in neck and neck. The Russians stormed a fort a little later and were the heaviest loosers.

At the last meeting of the Hillsboro Band a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to J. M. Brown for his work in measuring the boys for their new uniforms. The boys say the fits are simply perfect, while the last two sets of uniforms made for the band were measured for by tailors and almost every uniform had to be remodeled. This speaks well for J. M. Brown and his agency for tailor-made suits.

SUMMER RESORTS.

"To the mountains our people in increasing numbers yearly look for those days of relaxation and recreation necessary to maintain the human machine in fair working condition. The languorous sloth of the seashore proves very seductive while it lasts, but many have decided that the annual outing should provide not only radical change of air and surroundings, but also such stimulation of flagging energies as will provide brawn and vigor for the return to labor. For this they urge the mountain climb and ramble, the balsam of the mountain pines, and the clear, unadulterated mountain air.'

"In this direction the Shasta Route now affords a wealth of attractions. The entire line of road from Ashland to Redding is studded with charming and accessible hotels and camps, where are cheer and comfort and healing at reasonable cost, and where you can hunt, fish, ride, loaf, or play with equal facility."

"Or if you look for healing waters, none better can be found, hot or cold, than the springs of Ashland, Colestin, Anderson, Bartlett, Byron and Paso Robles."

"Before visiting Europe, the people of the Northwest should see the glories of Yosemite Valley, and the wondrous groves of Mariposa and Calaveras; the Parisians are likely to make inquiries concerning these attractive resorts."

Send to Mr. C. H. Markham, General Passenger Agent, Portland, for new booklets on Castle Crag, Shasta Springs, McCloud River, Yosemite, and excursion rates thereto.
