THE STATE FAIR.

This is the close of business on the second day of the State Fair, How is the attendance? Everyone says it is better than the second day for many years. The gate receipts tell the story. The weather today has been magnificent, though the grounds are a little damp from the heavy rain of yesterday forenoon. The wind is in the north and everyone is cheered.

It is possible that in former years the State Fair has not met expectations, but such cannot be said of this year. The stock exhibit, cattle, sheep, goats and hogs, is grand. There are Shorthorns that weigh a ton, Herefords, as pretty as a picture; Jerseys, the pets. The sheep are the best examples to be seen in this great wool state, and they are all for McKinley. The great sleepy hogs are in evidence and one seeing them would think that never a pound of pork were imported. Ought not to be at any rate. The poultry exhibit is the most noisy shed on the ground. The fad in Oregon is white chickens. Coop after coop are shown of white Leghorns, white Plymouth Rocks, white Langshangs, and it really seems that the only breed that is not white is the black Spanish. A coop of a cross between a speckled Hamburg hen and a China pheasant is on exhibition. The birds are of fine form and pleasing plumage, though the cocks are not as brilliant as the pure bloods.

The pavilion is well filled and has many attractions, chief of which are the county exhibits. Of these, Washington county has most beauty for the Hillsboro delegation. It is artistically and methodically arranged. Both Mr. Heidel and Mr. Jackson are untiring in their attention to visitors. Perhaps more should not be said now, the award is not yet made. The mining exhibit of Lane county is a surprise to everybody. No one who has not kept up with developments at Bohemia and Blue river, supposed we had such ore beds so near to us. Ore worth $10,000 per ton is shown, and rock less than $100 per ton is not shown.

The Agricultural College has a fine exhibit. Its industrial element is certain to attract students to that seat of culture.

In the art hall are seen many fine pictures. Mrs J. N. Brown shows one canvass that brought pleasant thoughts. The subject is a tray of apples on a partly folded copy of the INDEPENDENT. Many of the Press Association extended congratulations on the cleverness of the advertising device. Mrs. Brown was not present to bear her part of the burden, hence your reporter had to take the load alone.

The display of farm machinery is good. The Russel Mfg. Co. show separators and powers. One power has an electric motor which is of 75 incandescent lights. One Eastern Oregon thresher said he had known of the boys selling their blankets, but he thought threshing by electric lights is making the day too long.

The creamery exhibit is fine and the new ideas there emphasized are well worth a visit to the fair. That subject must be kept for another occasion.

The visitor from Washington county hears many words of commendation for the fair management, and especially for the praise bestowed upon the efficiency of Pres. Wehrung. We are justly vain of our county man.

The State Press Association tarried here today and were well entertained. At 10:30 the brethren take the cars again and go to Ashland for the annual business meeting.

After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c and $1. "There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. He didn't count on the marvellous power of Electric Bitters to cure stomach and liver troubles, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholly cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feels better than ever. It's positively guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c at Delta Drug Store.

Our L. W. House thinks it very fortunate that people do not always receive their inheritance. Years ago Col. Archibold Lewis, an ancestor of Mr. House, served in the Mexican wars, and dying left $500 cash, that now is in the treasury of Texas, 160 acres of land in the heart of Galveston and a league of land on the mainland. There being many legal points and questions of evidence to settle, the heirs have not yet come into possession of their inheritances. Mr. House says he is glad he was not in possession. Jos. Campbell, the toll gate keeper on the Wilson river road, had a hearing before Judge Rood last Monday, and was held in the sum of $100 to appear before the November term of circuit court to answer the charge of having pointed a pistol at one Peterson, who had gone through the fence at the toll gate and refused to pay the required toll. It appears that Campbell afterwards intercepted him, and Peterson alleges that Campbell then pointed the firearm at him. Campbell does not deny that he had the pistol with him, but says he acted within the authority he thought the statute gave him as keeper of the gate. Geo. W. Bacon, who manages the road, went on Campbell's bond.

There is wheat enough in the county for the bread of the inhabitants, but if the mills do any exporting of flour, the wheat for its manufacture must come from Portland or some other center where there is a surplus. The Climax Mill Company take in the situation, and that their machinery shall be kept turning, three cars of Eastern Oregon wheat has been brought out, and will be used for mixing with the softer valley wheat. The Southern Pacific have made a special rate of $1.75 per ton to millers for wheat shipped from Portland and returned in flour. The rate on flour from Hillsboro to Portland is $1.10, hence counting by one plan, the wheat rate from Portland here is 65 cents per ton. A special rate on wheat from The Dalles to Hillsboro of $2 per ton has been made. One car from there was received last Friday morning.

"I dare you to do it," and that is how the boys had to pay for a bicycle tire. A lady's wheel was ordered from Chicago early in the season, but when it came it was a man's wheel, and the consignee would not receive it. The crated wheel was in the warehouse of the S. P. Company for several weeks. One day two or three of Hillsboro's idle boys were loitering around when one of them pointed his open knife at the tire. He dared when the other hit his elbow and in slipped his knife. "Oh, that is not deep enough," said a third, who proceeded to slit a hole that was deep enough. One of the party told a prospective purchaser that "whoever gets that wheel will buy a big puncture." All was fun up to this stage of the game, but enough was out so that Agent Beckwith took notice, when the boys put a new tire on the wheel as a compromise.

Mr. John Foote, of Shute & Foote, banker, received a call from a neice, last Sunday, whom he had never before met. Miss Foote is a nurse in Good Samaritan Hospital, where she had been for two years. STATE PRESS.

When it comes to the building up of our shipping in the foreign trade, democrats desire to register foreign-built ships as American, and republicans are determined to have only American-built ships under the American flag.—Astoria News.

Bryan says the republican party puts the dollar before the man. Well, it is better to put the dollar before the man, where he can see it, than behind him, where he can't see it. And it is still better to put the full dinner-pail in front of him, too, alongside the dollar.—Eugene Register.

The secret alliance bugaboo between the United States and England is exploded completely by the situation in China.—Salem Statesman.

This is not a good time to make the American flag eat dirt. And, besides, there is no man big enough for the job.—St. Helens Mist.

The republicans of Oregon must put up a campaign warm enough to get the voters out to the polls in November. This is all that is necessary.—Oregon Statesman.

The merchants throughout Kansas, who stocked up heavily with Bryan hats, caps and campaign buttons are complaining because people do not buy these goods. In 1896 all classes of dealers offered these wares, and the farmers, their wives, sons and daughters wore them as badges of honor. The farmers explain that they are prosperous now, and do not want to take the chances of a change. Many hatters will begin the new year with a full line of Bryan hats on their shelves.—Yamhill County Reporter.

The First Speech in the 1900 Campaign will be Delivered by

Gen. Geo. H. Williams,

at the Court House on Saturday, Sept. 22, 1:30 p. m.

Judge Williams, the name by which old Oregonians best know the distinguished statesman, is one of the foremost men in America. While serving in the Senate he wrote the celebrated civil rights bill which was a burning quest on during the reconstruction period at the close of the great rebellion. Later he introduced and succeeded in having Congress propose the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution. He was also a member of the Joint High Commission the provided for the arbtration of the Alabama claims against England. Figuratively he helped twist the tail of lion. We got the money at any rate.

EXPANSION AND THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

ED. INDEPENDENT: Spain will never torture another soul in her inquisition or blow to pieces another war vessel. Her garden empiers have left her jurisdiction and her white blooming coffee fields are the admiration of others. Her orange trees have departed, and her birds of paradise, as they soar through balmy skies, are seen by no her eyes. Her stone-paved highways are covered by mountain slides. Her rich gold and silver mines, halt worked, are filled with bats and serpents, or guarded day and night by Indian tribes. A hundred sleeping cities speak her language, nothing more.

A million bloody spirits cry from the earth as when their bodies died for a more merciful civilization. With traditions of cruelty her women will often, on the approach of a foreigner, flee across field and forest as if pursued by a tiger.

Long ago Burk said in the British parliament, "that England can provide for herself, but Spain, that immense monarchy, has fallen into a total lethargy. What can we expect from her? Might, indeed, but unwieldy; vast in bulk, but inert in spirit; a whale stranded on the shore of Europe."

Her history is written in blood and the book will soon be closed.

There are persons now living who will see a thousand ships with a speed quickened by science passing to and fro across the sunny waters of the Pacific, bearing a life-sustaining commerce between the states of this great nation, every command given in that language which was born of the music of the spheres and all done under the jurisdiction of that immortal flag which was woven in the loom of Heaven.

The character of our distant enterprises and the cultured men and women who will execute them, will not only extend our civilization, but will intensify it at home.

The union of temperate and tropical conditions will mark another glorious century on our upward course. The unfolding possibilities for the millions of American citizens yet to come, lighten the heart and quickens the step of the nation.

Our civilization is the most sacred thing beneath the dome of Heaven. In it we live and move and have our being. It contains the sum total of the effects of the forces of nature on our race for the ages past. Growth or decay is the decree of the infinite. If we build a wall around our nation out of brick or stone or out of resolutions or treaties it will mark the beginning of the end of the great republic.

The weather hemisphere extends almost from pole to pole, the only passage being through a cold and stormy sea at the outer border of commerce.

This condition has attracted the attention of the world to take Nicaragua ever since Columbus sought a passage westward to the Indies. A million sprinns and subteranian inlets raise this crystal fountain one hundred and ten feet above the level of the sea, while at many places it reaches a great depth. Less than 27 miles of excavation, two harbors, six locks and a few dams and the enterprise of the ages will be completed.

The government should own ten miles on each side of the canal, together with the sovereignty, over which should be extended our flag and common law jurisdiction. This is absolutely necessary for protection as the writer personally knows. The whole improvement, together with a given number of leagues at sea, should be sacredly dedicated by the nations to an eternal peace.

On the largest island in this lake is a live and dead volcano looking down on a multitude of small uninhabited bowery isles which seem to be dancing in torrid waves of heat and look as if they might be the home of the gods. It has sunshine and full-moon sometimes coming from the north, storms and calms play on its surface. It is an ocean, except in tide and taste.

Tradition says that for ages the people north and south of the equator met on an island at the head of this lake to worship what they believed to be the ever living God. So will the disciples of the Gospel of commerce meet here for all time and commune together under the stars and stripes.

Like a majestic queen, this lake reposes with her face to the north waiting for a crown of civilization. Her right arm points to the rising sun while she invites the sons and daughters of the wave to ascend her saintly river into a harbor of repose. With her left hand she salutes the setting sun and bids the weary mariner across the plains of Rivas into a haven of rest. Until the seas empty or the land breaks in twain, steam and sail, mariner and merchant, commerce and consumer, tourist and trader, beauty and beaux will meet here and revel in mirth and music, and long and love to come again.

Lake Nicargua is a dimple on the cheek of beauty.
