There has not been a fall in recent years more favorable for fall work than this year. Wheat and oats thrived, hay baled, hops gathered, onions housed, all in first class order. Farmers are plowing, though the land is really too dry. It goes through the delegates to the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of this week at Astoria in attendance at the annual gathering. The Hillsboro Lodge was J. M. Wall and H. T. Bagley. Mrs. J. W. Sewell, represents the Rathbone Sisters. E. B. Spangston though living in Hillsboro, holds his lodge membership at Forest Grove and represents his lodge at this meeting.

Gains Johnson, aged 86 years died last Saturday, quite suddenly at the home of his son, C. L. Johnson, who lives north of town. The health of deceased had been failing quite rapidly for several months, but on the day of his death he was up and about the house and not thought to be in a more critical condition than he had been for several weeks. A biographical sketch of Mr. Johnson was published in the INDEPENDENT in 1899.

Some of the potato fields have been harvested and most of them partly. The yield in many places is not up to that of former years, while in others it is better. One grower who has dug five acres obtained 400 bushels. He said in digging he usually found two good potatoes in a hill where there ought to have been five or six. There are no little ones though. He estimates himself for the small yield by the good condition of his land for wheat.

Mr. Kerr, who bought Kester's cider factory is in the midst of a campaign of cider making. Mr. Kerr has abandoned the old crude horse power and has installed a six horse power steam engine. Things now run smoothly and so far he has been able to grind apples faster than they are delivered. Great care is taken in manufacturing cider so as to have the best. The presses are cleaned every day and a special charge of pumpkins is put in the press. The capacity of the factory is so large that farmers can almost without fail get their cider the same hour they deliver apples.

A magazine has been started to promote the physical interests of the American baby. It is addressed, of course to the mother of the baby, and it gives her a lot of information, calculated to enable her to raise a child that will grow into a splendid man or woman. "The Nursery" is the name of the publication. It is issued by the Van Publication Company, of No. 254 West Fifty fourth street, New York, at ten cents a copy, or $1.00 a year, and is well illustrated and well printed. A very sedate looking stork is the appropriate picture on the cover. The first number, that for July, contains an article giving explicit instructions from the pen of Dr. Estlin H. Grading on "The Care of the New Born Babe." There is an article on teething, with interesting pictures showing the mouth with its proper equipment of teeth at different ages of the child. There are facts, too, about backward children, learning to talk, and the treatment of colic, and modified milk. There is a cooking department edited by Mrs. G. L. Lusk and illustrated with pictures of simple dishes, a "Baby's Lysate" article with pictures, and a story of a baby's summer and fall and his physical exercises. The August number, the contents of which are announced, will be even more interesting. They will include information on feeding, weaning, colic, rickets, and other ailments. The "Nursery" is made attractive with half a dozen reproductions of famous paintings with babies for their theme.

For a time last Thursday afternoon and evening there was an agonizing fright at the Hillsboro Hotel. Little Paul Behrens aged four years was free to wander about the hotel and grounds, but on Thursday when night approached, Mrs. Northington, the child's aunt, enquired for Paul. No one had seen him. He was not in the house, in fact no one about the premises remembered having seen him after about three o'clock in the afternoon. There was hastening to and fro then. None of the neighbors had seen the lad. He did not answer to any of the calls. Small search parties were organized to inspect wells and cess pools. As rapidly as citizens were informed of the fact that Paul was lost they joined in the anxious hunt. The hay barn across the street was ransacked but to no purpose. At 8 o'clock an alarm was rung at the fire department which brought every body to the corner of Second and Washington streets. Then large search parties were organized and sent out on each road leading to the country. About nine o'clock Mr. Northington determined to again search the hay-barn. In it was stored several hundred tons of baled hay. He proposed to climb to the top of the bales, but Ward Downs claimed the privilege of climbing over the bales because he is young and active. A way up on top, fifteen feet from the floor he found "Madge" the large St. Bernard dog that was almost always Paul's companion. She had been there all the evening. Almost immediately he found the boys cap, but before he could tell of his find, a thin piping voice, muffled by the hay bales, called out, "Uncle John." Mr. Northington heard his favorite and joyfully exclaimed, "He is here somewhere, I hear him." After moving several bales of hay the imprisoned boy was reached. He was standing up with his arms extended above his head, he had probably been for four or five hours. It is thought that playing among the hay bales, he had slipped into the crevices. Unaided he could not get out, and being so far in his calls could not be heard. The recall of the searching parties was sounded on the fire bell. Some of the parties had got more than a mile from town.

There has not been much said about it, but the Southern Pacific has been during the past summer doing some substantial work on its line through Southern Oregon. Commencing a few miles south of Eugene the track has been built over again with heavy steel rails. In places when it was needed, the track has been straightened. The regular gang is far beyond Glendale which is a station in the midst of the Cow Creek hills. A distance of 150 miles has been gone over since spring.

A Life and Death Fight. Mr. W. A. Hines, of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which resulted in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages, and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, which completely cured me. It cost $5.00 but was worth it. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Another democrat in line. Republicans were somewhat surprised yesterday when they saw L. W. H. Myers, wearing prominently on his coat the coat of a McKinley and Roosevelt badge. L. Myers has been a pronounced democrat all his life and for a great part of his 45 years residence in this county, he has been a leader in his party. Myers' anti-expansion speeches, his suspicious abandonment of free silver coinage at the command of the gold bugs of Wall street are causing many thinking partisans to waver in their support.

The apple crop this year is good. There are fewer wormy apples than for a long time. One grower thinks this is due to the wet May and June. The death that in dry times deposit eggs on the young fruit was not able to get out in the rain. It is believed before mischief had been done. The same grower suggests a trap that might catch many a moth. At the time when it is out hang a lighted lantern in the orchard, several of them, and by its side a barrel board. As the moth circles about the light his wings touch the sticky tar and the end of his pestiferous life is then.
