Mr. J. A. Imbrie was in town on Wednesday and feeling fairly well over the sale of his hops. Roughly estimating he reasons that his hops yielded so that he received $225 per acre for the land he cultivated to that crop. He estimates that the expense of growing, harvesting and marketing cost $125 so that he has left $100 per acre profit. Most of the expense was for labor and the balance for the remains in the field. The largest item expending labor was for burp used for wrapping his bales, which cost $20.

Mr. John Peters, living just west of town was attacked by his four year old Jersey bull Wednesday evening on the pasture. The brute is dehorned, but he bit Mr. Peters out of the ground and gored at him the best he was able, not having horns. The prostrate man called for help and was assisted by several parties but his cries of distress were not understood so that it was sometime before assistance was rendered. The help carried a lantern and the light caused the bull to back off. Mr. Peters then got up and was able to make his way to his house. One rib is broken, others contused, an ankle sprained and the skin knocked off the side and parts of the body. Yesterday morning, Dr. W. D. Wood found him resting well, and barring internal injuries, which as yet are undiagnosed he will be about again in due time.

At the Congregational church last Sunday evening Rev. Evan P. Hughes spoke on the subject of "The Disturbances in China and the Responsibility for them with the missionaries." The speaker dealt with his subject analytically from a philippic point of view. He called attention to the fact that when two conditions of humanity meet, or civilized and a semi-barbarian, the result is the Chinese on the other, there will always be friction and strife. These two conditions met at four points Trade and commerce brought the sharp, keen merchant of the west in contact with the yellow terror at the coast. The grasping for gain by the white man left no time or opportunity for cementing national friendships. Another meeting place is the diplomatic halls. Civilization went to China with our consuls and ministers plenipotentiary, and Chinese officials in their own enlightenment which they carried home and attempted to graft onto their oriental customs. Fierce political jealousies rapidly divided the ruling class into two parties the cleavage being anti-foreign and progressive.

The third and fourth contact is education and religion, but both uniting in the missionary. This has been with the middle and lower classes, though education has appealed to the governing class. The speaker brought forward the testimony of Foster, Denby and John Barrett all men of large experience and best acquainted with Chinese affairs, who over their names write of the uniform good influence exercised by the missionaries and the respect with which their work has been received. Missionary property has been destroyed, but there have been few white missionaries to lose their lives. From all this mass of testimony the speaker concluded that while missionaries have been in the midst, the diplomats and merchants are most responsible, especially the Chinese returned consuls and ministers who have sought to bring China into line with modern civilization.

A good story is told of three of our Hillsboro wheelmen who started out one lovely morning last summer for Portland. Every thing went well and the joy of the road was great when the ladies reached that city. A front spring of water in the Canyon side of Portland. There they halted for a rest and for a drink of water. One of the men asked the other to get a drink of water in her cup which she dashed on her wheel and said "I baptize in water." William McKinley became a good runner. Her companions were not to be out done took water, one as she sprinkled water, said "I baptize thee, Felty Roosevelt, because you are a rough rider." The man of the third was now, as she sprinkled the pure water on her wheel she said "I baptize thee William J. Bryan because you are a full of wind."

OBSERVATIONS OF FARM CONDITIONS.

Mr. Editor.—I would like to write you a few lines in regard to the farming interests of the country. According to my ideas, the farmers are skimming their farms, hauling away the cream and selling it by the wagon load without paying any thing back to the soil. The farms are becoming poorer each year. It is plain to be seen they do not produce as much of the golden grain as once they did. If such a condition of things continue for a long time, the farms will slip away from the present owners. There are various ways of renewing the soil. One is to plow and turn under some of the beautiful clover we are selling so cheap. Another is to seed to grass an pasture with the golden fatted south down breed of mutton sheep. They are good rustlers and furnish a fine quality of meat. Land should be tiled drained to give it life. Rain water is a fertilizer if filtered down through the ground, but if allowed to flow away on top it takes the fertility of the soil. When you look at a farmer's farm you have the condition of his land. When a farmer tries to shirk work and glide down the easy grade of life, where does he go? To the dark and dreary bottom of the hill. Sometimes I am glad it requires energy to climb the hill, for when there one is able to look around. This world is beautiful to look upon. Energy is the gift of God. It can be cultivated if the right spirit is in the heart, if not then hope may depart. Energy is a power that should be used to build a grand future for our country.

Story of a Slave.

To be freed hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst kind of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Balm, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for human diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. The plant was purchased of a Washington logger and is in perfect condition. Mr. Lyda saw it working before he took it apart for shipping. The funeral services will be conducted at the Christian church this morning at 10 o'clock, after which the remains will be buried in Masonic cemetery.
