FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1901.

The man who follows the plow to fortune will travel many a mile, but he is surer by far of reaching it than the man who wanders aimlessly up and down the earth not following anything.

The Corvallis Times has a four column article descriptive of the last session of the legislature. It is the best pen picture of that exciting session that has been published. Nothing in the big dailies approaches it.

Riley Cave says that the Mitchell republicans are a set of blasted hogs. The democrats gave them half the representatives of Washington county, Vincent and Edson and they lost on the race and then got mad at the democrats because they would not give up the half that had been laid away for seed.

Some of the volunteers from the Philippines are on the way home, and all of them who fail to re-enlist will probably be at home or on the way in this direction by July 1, the date at which their enlistment expires. The job of transferring 40,000 or 50,000 soldiers from the Philippines to this country in the next few months, and of transporting as many from here there, will be a big task, but it must be accomplished. World-power has its penalties as well as its advantages.

If Geo. A. Steel had been permitted to manage the campaign instead of Graham Glass, Hon. H. W. Corbett would have been chosen senator. Glass makes mistakes, grievous ones. He required Dresser to sign up. There was a rumor about the state last summer that he asked Colvig to sign up, but he simply told him to go to. A few days later there was an independent candidate running against Colvig. Then because Dresser could not be clubbed into line Glass published the Dresser contract. That was bad politics. Every one believed the Colvig incident then, and began wondering how many more of Corbett's following had signed up. Another piece of Glass's bad politics was demanding the 34 supporters of Mr. Corbett to sign an agreement that they would vote for Mr. Corbett and no one else. He published the paper. At the time it was stated that eleven of the men refused to sign it. The publication of the statement that all had signed it, was a lie. The final vote showed that, for on the last ballot Corbett did not get 34 votes, but only 29. The eleven that did not sign knew that a false statement had been made and so did the 23 who did sign know that the truth had not been told. Good politics is to keep ones mouth closed or tell the truth.

STATE PRESS.

If any of the railroad companies proposing to give this county railroad connections should send representatives into Tillamook for the purpose of passing round the hat for a subsidy, we shall politely say "Nit" and refer them to Mark Hanna as the subsidy advocate. People of Tillamook don't propose to be Hannaized or Hammondized either, and it is just as well to let these companies know right now that they will not be able to work the subsidy "graft in Tillamook. If a railroad into the county is considered a paying proposition, then let it be built with that object in view and under the same conditions which people put money into cheese factories and creameries.—Tillamook Headlight.

JOHN M. MITCHELL SENATOR.

During the last five minutes of Saturday, February 23d, John H. Mitchell, of Multnomah county was elected U. S. Senator to serve for six years from March 4th. Before the full formality for taking the ballot was not completed till Sunday. Mr. Mitchell was elected because it was believed he can better represent the state than any man that could be sent. Even Mr. Corbett's friends concede his efficiency as a representative. Mr. Mitchell is yet in touch with the senate; he is not quarreled with the administration, and his election at this time will without doubt be to the advantage of the state. But too much must not be expected. There are things that he can not do. He can not the first year get a 30-foot channel from Portland to the sea, and he will not be able to keep the big ships that ply on the Columbia and Willamette rivers from grounding. Neither could Mr. Corbett do those things. Mr. Mitchell will be a better party leader than Mr. Corbett and the factions will be quelled so that at the next state election the party will be better prepared for the campaign than it has been. There will be fewer independent candidates seeking preferment.

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

The Washington (D. C.) Star commenting on the election of Senator at Salem last Saturday says:

"The Oregon deadlock is broken, but only through a mixing of party votes and such a breaking of lines as may cause serious factional trouble hereafter. Had it not been for the desertion of democrats at the last moment, the session would have closed without a choice. If there is any virtue in party government through the holding of men to responsibilities by their organization allegiance, this method of Senator selection is calculated to destroy it."

Factional trouble may result but it will be no worse than it would have been had Mr. Corbett been selected. The republicans carried Multnomah county in 1898, but lost it in 1900. At both elections Mr. Corbett was recognized as the party candidate for Senator. It therefore must be conceded that Mr. Corbett lost a lot of votes in 1900 that supported him in 1898. The factionalism dreaded by the Star may be dismissed. We had it before and Mr. Mitchell may be able to do such efficient work for the state that party bickerings can be quieted.

But it is the effect on party that issue is taken with the Star. If a democrat by voting for a republican under such conditions as existed at Salem last Saturday breaks party lines, let them snap. The comments of several democratic papers that are at hand this week condemn the democrats who voted for Mr. Mitchell. They say that if the democrats had not voted there would have been no election, and that the republicans would have been so divided that in 1902 a democratic legislature could have been chosen, thus insuring two democratic U. S. senators. Thus the Star and the Oregon organs put party welfare above state advantage, for all concede that it would be a misfortune for Oregon not to be fully represented at this time. The democrats who voted and secured an election are rather to be commended. They did their duty rather than advancing party interests. Their party associates took the other tack in 1897, when they refused to help organize the legislature. No party advantage was gained then but the state was mulcted to the amount of the expense of that rump session. Indeed the democrats lost votes rather than gained them. Democrats voted for Mr. Corbett before Mr. Mitchell received support from that party. Their votes tended to cause the deadlock rather than break it.

Tired and Nervous

It is easy to tell when your nerve-force and vital power are slipping away from you. When your day's work leaves you weary and exhausted; when you are so nervous, irritable and sleepless that your nights are passed in restless tossing; when you get up in the morning with no appetite for breakfast, and go around all day with a headache; you may be sure your nervous strength is being used up faster than it is being renewed.

"I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and headache. The least exertion would cause a dreadful pain in the head and when I became excited I would lose entire control of my nerves. I lived in that misery for ten years, failing to get relief until I began using Dr. Miles' Nervine. Within a week my friends were remarking how much better I looked, and soon after I found my health restored."
