FOR SELF DEFENCE.

Some assert that the United States has adopted an expansion policy and that it is a departure from former practices. Remembering the story of our Country this seems not to be true. In 1805 we expanded by taking Lousiana. In 1819 we expanded when we took Florida. We got Texas in 1845 and three years later we got California and Navada. In 1853 we adjusted the southern boundary of Arizona by moving our fence out so as to take in the Gadsden purchase. Up to this time the accretions had been from contiguous territory but in 1867 we bought Alaska that did not touch our old territery at any point. It really seems that our policy from the beginning has been one of expans on. We got Louisiana, Florida and Texas by a premeditated design. So Alaska. But the Spanish war of 1898 was not entered upon for conquest. Indeed the very reverse was declared. Porto Rico came to us as indemnity to, in part, pay the expenses of a war which Spain forced us to wage. The Philipines came because we took them for self protection and have never yet seen how we could honorably surrender them. We took in self defense. In 1898 Spain and some of her friends were saying that she was a great naval power, that she would enter our ports and exact tribute. The Pacific Coast, Seattle, the mouth of the Columbia, San Francisco and San Diego were proclaimed to be unfortified and open to the ravages of the Spanish fleet then at the Philippines. To prevent an attack on our Pacific ports which the European world was advertising, the government sent Dewey with his little squadron of cruisers to defend us by crippling the Spanish fleet. He did more. He destroyed it and took the island possessions or got such a foot hold that land troops had to be sent to complete what he had begun.

The United States has not made a new policy of expansion and because we have taken territory not contiguous to our former holdings, we in no way surrender our old national policies. Taking the Philipines the Monroe doctrine and tariff protection are policies for self defense is the reason for doing those things. We got Lousiana for self defense, so the Sandwich Islands, and it was right that we did so and good policy besides.

Mr. Blaine may not have been the author of trade reciprocity, yet he was an ardent advocate of the idea. But we must keep clearly in mind weat Blaine reciprocity is, for there are some modern tariff expounders who talk of reciprocity as though it ment free trade with the nation that enters into the treaty. The position of the plumed Knight was this:

"We will Protect our own industries under all circumstances. We will admit from other countries, free of duty, such goods as we cannot produce, but only on condition that other countries admit free of duty such American goods as they cannot produce." It is apprehended that if reciprocity treaties be sent to the senate drawn on those lines, they will not be rejected. There is a vast difference between reciprocity treaties written on free trade lines, and those written on protection lines.

The public must not allow itself to be hoodwinked into entertaining antipathy toward the American system of tariff protection by reading what the Oregonian has to say of the 10 cents per pound tax on tea. The Dingley tariff act puts tea on the free list. The tax of 10 cents per pound was levied in 1898 as a war tax and has no connection with the tariff act. If a tax on tea is odious there is the more reason for holding to the tariff system as exemplified in the Dingley Act of 1897. If that idea is abandoned and the Cobden free trade policy substituted then revenue for the support of government will be collected from those articles most generally consumed by the people. Among these are, tea, coffee and sugar. So under the pure free trade, we, the common people, would be no better off than we are under the Dingley law, but rather worse.

The Ohio Democratic State Convention has been in session this week. Mr. Bryan seems not to have attended even as a visitor. Neither Kansas City platform of 1900 or the Chicago platform of 1896 were endorsed. A resolution declares that the money question has been settled. The issue is on trusts and the administration of state affairs.

OREGON SCHOOL BOOKS.

The school books chosen by the Commision that has been in session at Salem this week is outlined in the following report:

The common school text-book business of the state was awarded by the Text-Book Commission this wtek. Ginn & Co. get 73 per.cent Maynard, Merilt & Co. 17 per. cent; Heath & Co. 2 per. cent. The American Book Company, which has heretofore had the bulk of the business, has been given nothing.

In making the awards the board voted as a unit, the selection having been agreed upon beforehand. Each book, therefore, received five votes, except in the selection of a primary history, when H. W. Scott voted independent of the other four. So far as appears, complete harmony prevailed, all differnences of opinson having been settled at private conferences.

The books adopted are here shown by series, the prices being for a set of the series. The last figures are the prices under old contract and are inserted for comparison. Introductory prices are the same as retail in all cases.

The Baker City Democrat advises the Republicans and Democrats of Eastern Oregon to unite and select State officials from that end of the state. By that advice it is not meant that a republican candidate for governor and a democratic candidate for the same office be nominated from that locality but that one man be put up and all parties vote for him. If Eastern Oregon adopts that idea, Portland will be scared out of her boots and grant whatever is asked. With the votes of Multnomah, Eastern Oregon can get anything demanded. That section already has two candidates, Furnish of Umatilla, for governor and Young of Baker City for State printer. State Treasurer Moor is an Eastern Oregon man and will probably be renominated. So will Congressman Moody. There is no one left except Secretary of State and Supt. of Public Instruction.

After the vote had been taken President H. W. Scott stated to the book men that the members of the board had been studying the merits of text books for about four months, and that they had held a conference, compared notes and investigated prices and that the selections made were the result of that conference.

A tariff law has been written for the Philippine Islands which goes forward this week by mail from Washington. It will go into effect probably August 1st. It is drawn on the American idea and is favorable to United States trade. It is estimated that it will produce a revenue of $15,000,000. This money goes into the Insular treasury for the support of the civil government which is now in authority there. It is understood that this tariff law takes the place of assessing taxes on the property of the Islands. Spain for ten years enjoys the same trade immunities as the United States.

A theoretical economist exclaims "Why is it that men like Carnegie, Rockefeller and Morgan have piled up fortunes so large that they don't know what to do with them? The answer is that they have withdrawn too much money from the masses of the community: and they have done this in two ways—by cheating labor at one end and the consumer at the other." Some labor, at least, proposes to even up. If quits work Now let the other end stop consuming. The industrial barons will thus find themselves between the mill stones.

The celebrated Turkish indemnity claim has been paid. A lump sum of $95,000 was paid to our minister in Constantinople. Current drafts for that sum have been received in Washington. Our government will distribute to the claimants.

James Kilbourne has been nominated by the democrats of Ohio for governor. This is his first nomination for public place and his second candidacy before a nominating convention. He stood before the state convention of his party two years ago for the same office but was defeated by McLain. Kilbourne is a veteran of the federal army of the rebellion and a bank and railroad director.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlin's Cholic,Cholera and Dirrhoera Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered, The child child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Ohio.
