BREAKS DOWN.

The popular mind has been hypnotized with boards of arbitrators as tribunals for settling disputes. The regular courts are far preferable. They adjust conflicting interests according to strict and reasonable rules of procedure, and without very great bills of expense.

Just what the next step will be in bargaining between the city and the Light & Water Company has not been determined by either party.

THE FLAG OF TRUCE.

This story of an almost forgotten incident is published in Paris Figaro, July 26. It is known in diplomatic history as "Schaebele affair."

Schaebele was arrested fifteen years ago by a German detective named Gausch on the French-German frontier. The difficulties which followed this arrest produced a war scare in Europe.

Serious complications were happily averted by the judicious interference of Prince Munster de Darnberg, at that time German ambassador to the French capital though at that hour at home on leave.

According to M. Faure, France's assertion that Schaebele had been arrested on French territory was bitterly contested by Prince Bismarck. At this point of the proceedings a letter from Gausch to Schaebele summoning the latter to a conference was found. This letter was immediately sent to M. Herbetie, French ambassador to Berlin, but the latter had found Prince Bismarck so unfavorably disposed that he hesitated to intrude at such an important document to his tender mercies.

At this juncture Prince Munster de Darnberg, who was visiting in Berlin, called upon M. Herbetie, saving heartily desired the maintenance of peace, and offering to aid the French minister. When he was shown the Gausch letter the German diplomat said:

"Give it to me; confide it to me; I will bring it back at 3 o'clock."

M. Herbetie hesitated to turn over the letter. Prince Munster demanded the original. M. Herbetie finally consented and intrusted France's trump card to the German ambassador at Paris.

Prince Munster went to Prince Bismarck and showed him the Gausch letter. Bismarck angrily asked the diplomat what business he had to attend to M. Herbetie's commissions. Munster firmly replied that he had only come to warn Bismarck, and that he was going to show the letter to the emperor of Germany. This he did. The emperor read the letter carefully and said:

"Then Schaebele was under a flag of truce. If we do not release that man no one will ever dare to send a flag of truce into a Prussian camp. He must be released. I will at once give the order, and you can tell Herbetie what I have done."

A few hours later Bismarck set Schaebele at liberty, and the war cloud rolled away.

The free traders may now for a time be really pleased for it is announced that Germany has commenced a trade war with the United States. Nothing has heretofore seemed to please the tariff reformers of this country quite so much as an intimation that we are to suffer in our foreign trade. But would Germany be a less active competitor for our foreign trade where our protective tariff laws repealed? It must be kept in mind that Germany has a protective tariff law. Let our tariff laws be remedied to a free trade basis and Germany would invade our home market itself by unloading her surplus at below cost prices.

THE SAME OLD NONSENSE.

The Democratic platform in Ohio contains no free silver, but it has plenty of other easily recognized foolishness. "The abolition of the so-called protective system and the substitution in its place of the traditional Democratic policy of a tariff for revenue so levied as not to burden one industry for the benefit of another," is one of the changes it advocates. "Tariff reform," it says, "was never more urgently demanded than now, when the production of the country so far exceeds its power of consumption that foreign markets are a prime condition of its continued prosperity."

The country is, in truth, prosperous, and the Dingley law is identified with this era of unequalled foreign trade. But just the same the Democratic party presents the same programme as in the period of the Wilson-Gorman tariff incompetency and national depression. "The Republican party," the platform proceeds, "can not be trusted to deal with evils of its own creation." The Republican party was called on to deal with evils of Democratic creation, and has certainly acquitted itself ably in that arduous task. It is quite ready to answer for the alleged evils of its own creation. Again, the platform opposes expansion, holding that recent accessions "imperial the national safety without promoting the national welfare; that they devolve upon us enormous responsibilities we have no call to assume; that they tend to embroil us with European power," with much more of the same kind. The inference is that the Democrats of Ohio would have surrendered the Philippines and would take that course in dealing with a like crisis in the future. These points are quite sufficient to show that Ohio and the country will have no use for this alleged conservative brand of Democracy.—Globe Democrat.

STATE PRESS.

We were informed that parties were in Portland last week from San Francisco for the purpose of starting another daily newspaper in that city. When our informant told us that they had made the preliminary arrangements for leasing a wire we were inclined to believe there was some likelihood of another newspaper being started there, but when we heard that the same parties were after the demerits for a bonus, that quered the whole business.—Tillamook Headlight.

The new Maine will always be to many the most interesting battleship of the Navy. It is not the old Maine, except in name, but as long as it exists and as long as the Navy exists the Maine, this one or some successor, will be a reminder of that terrible tragedy in the harbor of Havana in February, 1898. That explosion was not only "heard" around the world," but it prompted world-wide deeds and movements, that shall have no end, till Time shall end.—Telegram.

One significant fact in connection with that class of railroads in the hands of receivers is the comparative unimportance of the fifty-two companies that were still in the receivers' hands on June 30 of last year. Only five of them had an operated mileage in excess of 300 miles, seven of them had a mileage ranging from 100 to 300 miles, and of 40 of them the mileage was less than 100. Most of the larger and more important properties that had become financially involved during the business depression prior to 1897 had been already pulled out of their difficulties or had been absorbed by stronger companies by the close of June a year ago. And it is quiet probable that the figures for the year ended three year ago would show an even more satisfactory condition. The entire operated mileage of the receiver-ship road a year ago was only 4177.—Astoria News.

The new issue now before the country is foreign markets. We have them in greater measure than we ever had them before and in greater prospect than any nation of the world ever anticipated. The Democratic party which always heretofore clamored for foreign markets through free trade have suddenly lost all interest in the subject and may be depended on to antagonize the idea as an outgrowth of imperialism. The poor old party will again assume the contented meander of a led mule.—Eugene Register.

It was said that Dr. Koch, of Berlin, announced a few days ago that milk or the flesh of animals infected with tuberculosis, would not infect the human organism. The American doctors and health officers received the statement with much misgiving and were inclined to doubt it. Later reports put conditions to the news which indicate that one cannot partake of such infected food with a certainty of escaping the dread disease.

Do we realize the geographical greatness of our country? It may be made somewhat concrete by calling to mind that the members of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, each traveled between 13,000 and 14,000 miles in the examination of Gulf and Pacific coast harbors. This mile ge would reach more than half way around the earth. Then think of the Atlantic coast and the Lakes shore as much further. In truth we have a deep water coast line that would more than lap about the earth. Then our rivers, the Columbia and the Mississippi. After these natural commerce arteries, glance at our railways. Verily we may properly regard ourselves with complacency, though we should gaze with becoming modesty.

Alfred Holman, of Portland writes a letter published in Oregonian last Monday morning advising that visitors and tourists be shown the resources of the state as well as the scenery. That very thing is what Congressman Tongue has been urging for a long time and when he took the bits and guided the Rivers and Harbors committee to the farms or for charms, mines and timber, service the state was done that had not before been undertaken. At first the plan aroused opposition and Mr. Tongue was severely criticised, but now all acknowledge that his is the true policy. Even the first objectors favor showing our industrial possibilities along with our scenic wonders.

Mr. Brock, an editorial writer on the Oregonian, attended church in Hillsboro Sunday evening last. From his editorial in Tuesday morning's issue one would suppose that he heard something that turned over his conscience and that in the new position that organ is not resting easily. In truth we also hear Mr. Hughes each week, who read the Oregonian, recognize that he is a broader minded man than the Oregonian is as a newspaper.

Columbia, South America has a Trent affair on hand. A person considered as a dangerous rebel was for several days taken from a German passenger steamer and jailed on the mainland. The "affair" has been referred to the German Government. This may serve as an excuse for an attempt on the part of Germany to secure a foothold in America. A like trivial incident lost to China some prestige.

A recent report from the City engineering department of Philadelphia states that water pipe dipped in tar a century ago is still in serviceable condition. It is the opinion of hydraulic engineers that pipe cleaned of rust and dipped in hot asphaltum and laid below the frost line with no abrasion of the asphaltum is practically indestructible. A better dip perhaps is refined coal tar.
