FRIDAY, AUGUST 9, 1901.

The Union Pacific Railroad Co. has issued a circular to employees in which it is announced that drinking intoxicating liquors or lounging about drinking saloons will be sufficient cause for discharging such delinquent. The document is a better temperance lecture than Mrs. Nation and her hatchet.

The Oregonian reports that there are 4,609 rural free delivery mail routes in operation. There are 357 representatives in congress, wherefore there are on an average 124 routes to each congressman. But in the 1st district of Oregon there are known to be 20 routes. That over number of eight is to the credit of Congressman Tongue, and he can't be blamed with neglecting his people.

As it now begins to appear the United States will have to expand a little more within the next few months. It seems that when the Panama railroad was built 25 or 30 years ago, the Washington government concluded a treaty with Colombia by which we engaged to maintain free communication across the isthmus. Now that a rebellion is in progress in Colombia our government is taking steps to keep our part of the contract. A gunboat has been sent to the Atlantic side of the isthmus, and the battleship Iowa is on the way to the Pacific side. Several trains have been stopped on the isthmus and guerrilla fighting is going on inland. It may be found necessary to pacify that province by occupying it with U. S. soldiers.

An attorney for a Tillamook Company that has leased the Tillamook end of the Wilson river road was before the county court at its August term asking for a lease of the Washington county end for a term of fifty five years. The court took the matter under advisement. It is understood that the company does not propose to pay the county anything for the concession except to keep the road in repair. This is not considered much compensation seeing that on the stretch lying in this county there are no bridges and the road will practically maintain itself. These long term franchises are to be viewed with suspicion, and since the county has done quite well for the past fifty years without a toll road, it may be best to continue the same policy.

GOVERNMENT FORESTRY WORK.

It is quite probable that congress will, in the near future, adopt measures to bring all the forestry work of the government together under the administration of a Forestry Bureau. At present it is divided between the Interior and the Agricultural departments, whose officials are co-operating as best they can to carry on the work. The secretary of the Interior proposes to include in the organization of the new bureau an extensive system of reforestation on a somewhat similar plan as that successfully pursued by Germany. A number of years ago congress enacted a law to allow settlers on the so-called "great plains" to file upon an additional 160 acres and perfect title to it by planting and cultivating a certain acreage of timber each year for five years. But no one had oversight or supervision of the matter and the result was that the "timber" was allowed to go by default and thousands of acres of the public domain went to people who had already received their share and the country was no better off for timber. This might have resulted in some lasting benefit if a bureau, such as that now proposed, had been charged with the supervision of it.

The present division of Forestry has done good work, both in connection with the National Forest Reserve and in disseminating information among individual owners as to proper management of their timber lands, and it is stated that assistance has been asked for on more than three million acres of private holdings.

It is estimated that the annual loss from forest fires in the United States is about fifty millions of dollars, most of which could be prevented by proper attention and management. Some of the states are taking steps in this direction but it is a subject which affects the whole country and should be managed by the general government. In those sections where timber is plentiful the people are ruthlessly wasting it and complaining of floods and drouths. It is confidently predicted that the wholesale destruction of our extensive timber areas will in time work an unfavorable change in the climate of western Oregon and Washington.

THEY WOULD NOT COMPROMISE.

The strikers in the iron mills of the National Steel Company have not been able to force the manufacturers to terms. The president of the Amalgamated Company has called out all the men belonging to his organization. Added to the 46,700 that were already out, 20,000 obeyed the second call but the men in Illinois and Ohio refused to quit. President Shaffer is surprised and displeased but cannot help himself. There are now about 65,000 men out who it is estimated earned $180,000 per day. That sum is dissipated never to be recovered, for as the INDEPENDENT has before said labor is a perishable product.

The cause of this strike is not for better wages or for shorter hours, but a demand that organized labor shall be employed in all of the Steel Company's mills. The Amalgamation proposes that non-union laborers, notwithstanding they may be skilled mechanics, must be discharged and "Union" men substituted. To what purpose? Certainly not in the interest of the non-union men, for are they not "scabs" to be mobbed and killed? But rather is it not the purpose to Unionize all mills and dictate their management? The proprietors see this and elect to have the struggle now rather than later.

The Amalgamated Association posts pickets, guards, about the mills that willing labor shall be prevented from working. Every one admits that a man union or non-union may quit work when he pleases, but there are those who deny that a class of workmen have the right to prevent others from working when they are willing and anxious to do so. And that is what "organized" labor claims the right to do. And more. It will not touch raw material that has been prepared by non-union labor. Carpenters will not work on a building if a few boards are to be used that came from a non-union mill.

Sheet metal workers will not use ingots prepared in a non-union furnace. Non-union queers everything. What can the Steel Corporation do? If workmen are not to be had young men must be found and trained to the employment. The company will have to assemble men as it has been for the past ten years installing machinery. It may take two years to assemble and train these new men. Sixty-five thousand skilled mechanics are not so many where there are seventy million from whom to recruit. What will become of the 60,000 strikers? They will enter other industries, farming perhaps. They cannot remain non-producers long for they are consumers without a store laid up against this day. These 65,000 laborers and their families cannot subsist on much less than $1.00 per day, and $65,000 per day will soon exhaust the largest labor organization's treasury.

The output of the Steel Corporation is going to be less than when running full handed. Already the shrinkage is estimated at one third. Who will lose? The stockholders. Some of these are wealthy men and will not be seriously inconvenienced, but more of them in number are comparatively poor persons, widows, and orphans belonging to children. These latter can ill afford to have income dwindle to nothing. The end will come after a time and let us hope that the industrial conditions will be so reorganized that the rights of both capital and labor, union and non-union will be adjusted along the lines of equity.

STATE PRESS.

How long the treasury can continue to show a monthly surplus of receipts over expenditures is a matter of interesting conjecture. With the July report disclosing a small surplus of about $15,000 as against a deficit of $4,000,000 at the close of July, 1900, when all the war taxes were in full force, it begins to look as if Secretary Gage had considerably underestimated the bounding prosperity of the country when he expressed fears last March that the amendments to the war revenue act as then proposed would free him to face a deficit before the close of this fiscal year. It may turn out that the cut in the internal taxes will have comparatively little effect on the treasury's condition on June 30 next. With all the ordinary expenses of the government met, as well as the extraordinary ones incident to July disbursements and the purchase of bonds, it still was impossible to shift the balance to the debit side of our national ledger. It is not a little remarkable that the internal revenue receipts last month were nearly a million dollars in excess of those for July, 1900, in the face of an estimated reduction of at least $5,500,000 on account of the new law. And the customs receipts were nearly $2,000,000 in excess of those for the corresponding month of last year. There are certain political organs who call these men daily because they do not protect themselves with the ballot. It is suggested that there are "scabs" who have the ballot as well, and that the "scabs" are more than the 46,700 or so from whose is Pennsylvania's 150,000 majority.

The great steel workers' strike, which it is hoped is in course of settlement, will not be the final battle between capital and labor, for the reason that it appears to be based on a false conception of the relations of capitalists and laborers. The steel trust on the one hand is fighting to retain the liberty for itself of maintaining non-union mills, and the amalgamated association of steel workers is fighting for the right to act as the representative of labor in all the mills of the trust, no question of wages, hours or other conditions of labor being directly involved. The strikers assume that because the employers are combined into one organization, the employed should be banded into another, and the interests of the two become antagonistic. The present strike will decide no vital point, for there appears to be no vital point at issue. The public is sympathetic, since it cannot very heartily sympathize with either party to a conflict which never ought to have arisen.—Yamhill Reporter.

EVERY BRINGS RELIEF.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails. The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial worked like a charm. Send me a full-sized bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER, Rabbi of the Cong. Bond, French, New York, Jan. 3, 1901. Drs. Taft Bros., Medicine Co., Gentlemen—Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER. AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co. Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 107th Street in New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife accompanied taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma had disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can confidently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. Phelps, M. D. Dr. Taft Bros. Medicine Co. Feb. 5, 1901. Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. 67 EAST 120th ST., CITY.

The steamship line between Portland and San Francisco that has been maintained for more than fifty years has been withdrawn. The last to discontinue the service is the O. R. & N. Co. The occasion for stopping the boats is the labor strike at San Francisco. President Mohler stated that he could load his ships at Astoria, but it would be at the expense of Portland's prestige. Does Mr. Mohler want the people of Oregon to understand that he is willing to sacrifice the interests of the Columbia river the state and even Portland itself that there may be present prestige? It looks like the O. R. & N. is not the state's true friend. The N. P. Co., recently issued a tariff sheet that quotes common point rates on lumber from the lower Columbia to Union Pacific Stations over the North Pacific and Oregon Short Line. This is not done over the O. R. & N. Really it splits as though the intention is to divert trans-continent and trans Pacific business to Puget Sound and to San Francisco.

There are some ponds along the south side of Main street between Second and Third that ought to be drained. The INDEPENDENT supposes that it is not necessary to use superlative adjectives in describing the nuisance for ditching will do more good. On Wednesday last the odor arising was sickening. The stagnant water under the planking between the sidewalk and the road way ought not to be there. The health committee of the council will no doubt take up the matter.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat of 9th inst prints a list of men in the strike at that date and puts the number at 46,700. There are certain political organs who call these men daily because they do not protect themselves with the ballot. It is suggested that there are "scabs" who have the ballot as well, and that the "scabs" are more than the 46,700 or so from whose is Pennsylvania's 150,000 majority.
