and well educated and needn't work, and I'm sure it's very nice of him to dress just like the other men when he's with 'em," urged Piny.

"Bah! That was just to show that he didn't care what we thought of him—he's that conceited! And it wasn't respectful, considering one of the directors was there, all dressed up. Don't tell me! You can see it in his eye—looking you over without blinking and then turning away as if he'd got enough of you. He makes me tired."

Piny did not reply. The engineer had seemed to her to be a singularly attractive young man, yet she was equally impressed with Clisy's superior countenance which could find flaws in such perfection. Following her friend down the steps of the veranda, they passed into the staring gravelled walk of the new garden, only recently recovered from the wild wood, its accurate diamond and heart shaped beds of vivid green set in white quartz borders giving it the appearance of elaborately laid confederacy.

"How does it look?" responded Clisy as a relevant reply. The "it" referred to Clisy's new hat, and to the young girl the coherence was perfectly plain. Miss Tibbs looked at "it" severely. It would not do for a protegee to be too complaisant.

"Them! Must have cost a heap o' money!" "It did," said Clisy. "Came from the best milliner in San Francisco." "Of course," said Piny, with half assumed envy, "when your popper runs the bank and just wallows in gold!" "Never mind, dear," said Clisy cheerfully. "So'll your popper some day. I'm going to get mine to let your popper into something—ditch stocks and such. Yes! True, O king! Popper'll do anything for me," she added a little loftily.

"Let's come!" caught Clisy around the waist, pranced with her out into the veranda and gazed, out of breath, "Where are you going first?" "Down Main street," said Clisy promptly. "And let us stop at Markham's store. They've got some new things in from Sacramento," said Piny. "Country styles," returned Clisy, with a supercilious air. "No. Besides Markham's head clerk is getting too presumptuous. Just guess! He asked me, while I was buying something, 'If I enjoyed the dance last Monday.' 'But you danced with him,' said the simple Piny in astonishment. 'But not in his store among his customers,'" said Clisy slyly. "No. We're going down Main street past Secamp's. Those Secamp girls are sure to be at their windows looking out. This hat will just turn 'em green-greener than ever."

"You're just horrid, Clis!" said Piny, with admiration. "And then," continued Clisy, "we'll just sail down past the new block to the person's and make a call." "Oh, I see," said Piny archly. "It'll be just about the time when the new engineer of the mill works has a clean shirt on and is smoking his cigar before the office." Clisy tossed her hat disdainfully. "Much anybody cares whether he's there or not. I haven't forgotten how he showed us over the mill the other day in a pair of overalls just like a workman."

THE NATIVE SONS' CARNIVAL.

The closing days of the Carnival, last Friday and Saturday were as successful as the first day. The weather was splendid—made to order. The parades were complete, especially the stock processions. The base ball game between the Portland and Spokane teams was the best game ever seen in the County. Neither of the teams had before played upon grounds as good as Recreation Park and they played a game to match. At the end of the eleventh inning the score stood 4 to 4—a tie. It being train time, the game was suspended.

Queen Annette I. held herself in readiness to answer all demands made upon her by the Carnival Committee and she was frequently on the street attended by her royal guards and pages. The queen drove her own chariot while the guards marched on either side, commanded by Mrs. H. T. Bagley and seconded by Mrs. Beckwith. One incident occurred that caused laughter on the side of the spectators and chargin among the guards. The Royal cortege rested on Main Street, between First and Second, during the Firemen's contest. When the excitement was at the highest, curiosity took possession of the guards and they bolted, leaving their mistress unguarded save by her two faithful pages.

The gathering last week must not be confounded with the fairs we have been accustomed to attend. Fairs are held for the exhibition of products, when exhibitors compete for premiums. Carnivals are gay festivals for noisy sports. Both ideals were combined last week, for the committee having the management sought to entertain the visitors. This it is believed they did.

The money at the disposal of the committee was so small a sum that cash premiums could not be awarded to visitors. The committee electing to charge no entrance or gate fees had no source of revenue and had to depend upon voluntary subscriptions for money to defray incidental expenses. Diplomas were awarded to all meritorious exhibitors, a partial list of which is given this week.

It is said that the farmers will organize and hold a stock show next spring or during the early summer while the Native Sons will arrange for a carnival in the fall. Both interests will claim their dates in the near future. Diplomas were awarded to exhibitors as follows: John Kamra, best percheron mare and colt and two-year-old, best Shire mare and colt, graded Clyde two-year-old.

The board of Commissioners, Clackamas County, refused to allow the bills of the sheriff and clerk for extra clerks. Last month an order was made reducing the force in each of the two offices to one deputy and was effective October 1, and the board was compelled to refuse to allow bills for extra help after that time, to enforce obedience of order.

J. W. Black and family, of Meade County, Kansas, arrived at Eugene last week, having driven overland in two light wagons. They left Meade County, June 3 and were 114 days on the way. They stopped two weeks at Boise, Idaho, and lithered along the McKenzie for a week on the way down. Two Montana men joined them back on the route and came through in their wagons with them, making four teams and five people in the party.

Crook County is now out of debt and has money in the treasury. The Treasurer's notice calls for all warrants registered prior to September 30 and there is something over $3500 in the road fund to apply on the new bridges that are now in course of construction.

The Southern Oregon Oil Company's drill, after several interruptions through the breakage of tools, is again pounding at its well on the Alford place and driving through blue shale. The oil seepages encountered during the past week are still dripping with greasy liquid and the tools come up out of the well streaked all over with it.

J. C. Lamkin never had a better stock of heating stoves in his store than he now has. They are genuine air tight—nickle plated,

NEWS OF THE STATE.

A large amount of bromo grass has been sown on the tableland adjacent to Wallowa this year, one man alone having sown 140 acres. Building of the Lakeview-Silver Lake telephone line has been progressing rapidly toward the north: From 12 to 15 men are employed.

There has been a heavy loss of cattle in the timbered country north of Wallowa this year from the ravages of bears. One cattle owner reports he has lost 43 head of cattle. D. W. Ralston purchased 472 cattle in Crook and Wheeler Counties. He shipped 150 head to Portland last week from Arlington. The others will be fattened for the markets.

The light testing plant of the Ashland Oil Company, at work south of town, has been having its share of difficulties, and last Monday encountered some boulders that put the tools out of order for several hours. The brick walls of the new Normal school building at Weston have been completed and the work of setting the boiler for the heating plant has commenced. The roof will next be built and the lathing and plastering begun.

Several Chinese pheasants have been driven into the city from the country, says the Albany Democrat. D. A. Kirkpatrick caught one under a bush and today Dr. A. J. Hodges captured one in the alley near his house. Mayor Rowe, of Portland, was robbed by a foot pad, one night last week. He might have shot his assailant but the law does not permit him to carry arms, hence his shooting iron was in the bottom of a closet drawer at home.

Wheat is coming in rather slowly to Wallowa Mills, owing to the fact that farmers are not ready to sell at the prices the mill men are willing to pay. So far the buyers and owners are about 10 cents apart as regards the wheat market, says the News. An order was issued last week in Clackamas County by the Board of County Commissioners, directing that Supervisors who have exhausted their apportionment of road funds do no more work on roads without orders from the board. This does not apply to work on bridges, should they become unsafe to travel.

Pilot Rock may incorporate. Since a recent trouble there which could not be dealt with by proper authority, the citizens of Pilot Rock are discussing the advisability of incorporating. They say that they need a Marshal and Recorder's Court for protection against drunken characters and travelers who are passing through the town. Alex. Delore, a resident of the Suplee country, was held by Judge Ralston to answer to the Circuit Court on a charge of assault with intent to rape on the person of the wife of A. L. Smith, a resident of the same community, says a C. N. City correspondent. His bond was placed at $300, which he readily gave.

The Condon Times says there is a great deficiency in the yield of grain in that part of Gilliam County this season as compared with last year's crop. Cooke Bros., of Matney Past, who finished threshing some time ago, informed the Times that they had a run of 55 days in 1900 to 20 in 1901, and they covered more territory this year, than last. James Cooke estimates the yield is just about half of last year's.

F. M. Piller purchased 800 head of yearling wethers from Hardie Bros., of Trail Fork, paying $2.25 per head, says the Condon Times. John M. Brown, of Lone Rock, sold 1000 head of ewes to John Maidment for $2.50 per head and 2400 head of ewes and lambs to A. Smythe, of Arlington, receiving $2 for ewes and $1.75 for lambs; Nat Scott, of Lone Rock, disposed of 1250 head of lambs to a Heppener buyer for $1.75 per head.

The school text book contractors have not deposited in the state books enough to supply school children. The same thing happened before. The time for exchange expired and the boys and girls who did not get to exchange had the privilege of paying full retail prices. Supt. Ackerman will do up to guard the interests of the state or his pet uniform school book system will become odious and the law authorizing it will be repealed.
