The Gunmaker Of Moscow

By SYLVANUS COBB, Jr.

CHAPTER IV.

THE CHALLENGE.

In the afternoon Ruric retired to his shop, where he went at work upon a gun which had been ordered some days before. As yet he had said nothing to Paul concerning the affair of the day before since his return from the Kremlin. He asked him now, however, if any one had called.

"Only the monk," returned Paul, without seeming to consider that there was anything very important in the visit.

"Do you mean the black monk—Vladimir?" asked the young man, starting.

"Yes, my master. He called here about the middle of the forenoon. He wanted one of the small daggers with the pearl haft."

"And did you let him have one?"

"Certainly. He paid me 4 ducats for it and would have paid more had I been willing to take it."

"And did he make any conversation?"

"Yes. He asked me why the Count Damonoff came here yesterday."

"Hah! How did he know of their visit?"

"He was waiting at the inn for a sledge when he overheard the count and his companion conversing upon the subject."

"And did he ask you any questions touching the particulars?"

"Yes—many."

"And how answered you?"

"I told him the whole story, from beginning to end. I found that he knew something of their purpose from what he accidentally overheard, and rather than have him go away full of surmises, I told him all."

"Of the message too?"

"Yes, my master. I told him all that happened, from the showing of the paper which the duke had drawn up to the departure of the angry man."

"And what did the monk say?"

Ruric asked very earnestly.

"Why, he said he knew the count and that he was a proud, reckless fellow and worth but little to society; that was all. He did not seem to care much about it anyway; only he said he should have done just as you did and that every law of justice would bear you out. He had more curiosity than interest, though I am sure all his sympathies are with you."

"Very well," returned Ruric. "It can matter but little what the monk thinks about it, though I would rather have him know the truth if he must know anything, for I would not be misunderstood."

"He understands it all now, my master, and I trust you are not offended at the liberty I took in telling him."

"Not at all, Paul; not at all."

Here the conversation dropped, and the work was resumed in silence. It was past 3 o'clock when Ruric's mother came and informed him that a gentleman in the house would speak with him.

"Is it Stephen Urzen?" asked the youth.

"His mother said it was."

"Then bid him come out here."

Claudia retired, and in a few moments more the gentleman came with his appearance.

"Ruric Nevel," he said, bowing very stiffly and haughtily, "I bring a message from the Count Damonoff."

"Very well, sir," returned the gunmaker proudly, "I am ready to receive it."

Thereupon Urzen drew a sealed note from his pocket and handed it to Ruric, who took it and broke the seal. He opened it and read as follows:

Ruric Nevel—An hour of the most aggressive nature has for the time levelled all distinctions of caste between us. Your blood alone can wash out the stain. I would not murder you outright, and in no other way but this can I reach you. My friend, the bearer of this, will make all arrangements. If you do not meet me, say so, that all may know who is the coward. Damonoff.

When Ruric had read the message, he crushed it in his hand and gazed at his bearer some moments in the face without speaking.

"Will you answer?" asked Urzen. He spoke more softly than before, for he saw something in the gunmaker's face which he dared not provoke.

"Are you acquainted with Alaric Orsa, a lieutenant of the guard?"

"Yes, sir; I know him well."

"Then let me refer you to him. He will make all necessary arrangements, and I shall hold myself bound by his plans. I trust that is satisfactory."

HAVE ALREADY RETALIATED.

The suggestion so often made by those who oppose the American tariff system that unless it is modified the other nations will retaliate by imposing higher duties on our products is not based on a knowledge of the facts. The nations most referred to as being likely to take this course are Russia, Germany and Austria. The truth is that their tariffs are already higher than ours and on many articles are almost prohibitive. The question is not one of retaliation, but of discrimination. Under these circumstances we alone are in a position to retaliate if it be done by anybody. It is like the story of the meeting of the animals when the question came up how they should manifest their vote. The suggestion of the fox that they should shake their tails was about to meet with favor when the coon remarked, "Mr. President, the billy goat has already retaliated."—Seattle "Post-Intelligencer."

REED ON CASTORIA.

Vice Chancellor Reed, sitting in the Court of Chancery at Trenton, N. J. has just rendered a decision of vital importance in the case of The Centaur Company against a party calling themselves the C. W. Link Drug Company.

It refers for the past year or more Mr. Charles H. Fletcher, president of The Centaur Company, the manufacturers of Castoria has been fighting through the courts, counterfeiters and imitators of their goods.

All of the fake goods are put up in a manner to lead the purchaser to think they are getting the same Castoria they have always bought, and the Chancellor dwells at length on this point, showing how easy it would be to inform the public of the difference between the packages if it were not their object to mislead the consumer. He says in part: "Every one of the packages put in evidence by the defendant show a persistent adoption of the size of the bottle and the label of the complainant. All these manufacturers knew, just as the defendant knew, that if the remedy was put up in round bottles or in bottles distinctively larger or smaller, or if the bottles were so differently wrapped, as to at once arrest the attention of the casual purchaser, the sale of the remedy in such packages would at once become substantially reduced." Citing numerous cases in line with this opinion, he gave Mr. Charles H. Fletcher the injunction asked for and the C. W. Link Drug Company must seek new fields.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Children's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes, "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup."

The republican governor and legislature of New York increased the home rule prevailing in the municipal affairs of New York city on the ground that the voters themselves should control the situation. Every qualified voter was protected in the right to cast an honest ballot, and the result shows that the true judgment of the people can be trusted. A contrary opinion is opposed to our form of government.

A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale the Delta drug store. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

The new Australian duties on American goods as well as on British goods. But, in the long run, it is not at all certain that we shall not be the gainers. A prosperous Australia means an eager market for many kinds of American merchandise. A poor Australia would not be such a market, even if there were no protective duties at all. The commonwealth of the north sends its hearty greetings and congratulations to the new commonwealth of the south seas.—Boston "Journal."

PANAMA CANAL OEU.R.

President Hiale, of the Panama Canal Company, finally has submitted to Admiral Walker, the head of the isthmian canal commission, a proposition on behalf of his company for the acquisition of all its rights by the United States government. The Panama company has been restrained up to this moment from submitting a direct proposition, owing to a clause in the concession which it holds from the government of Colombia, which prescribes forfeiture of the concession as a penalty for the making of an effort by the company to transfer its rights to another government. The company's agent, therefore, have been obliged to act with extreme caution in making overtures, but in some way, the Colombian government has been induced to wink at this technical violation of the concession. Its terms are not yet disclosed, and it is probable that they will not be until the isthmian canal commission publishes its report. It is understood, however, that they are considered more favorable to this government than were the figures made to the president three years ago.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

Something New Under The Sun.

All Doctors have tried to cure catarrh by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of catarrh, has at last perfected a treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures catarrh, by removing the cause, stopping the discharges and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "Snuffles," the guaranteed catarrh cure, and is sold at the extremely low price of one dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"Snuffles" is the only perfect catarrh cure ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve hay fever or cold in the head. Catarrh when neglected often leads to consumption—"Snuffles" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure catarrh in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but sent for it at once and write full particulars as to your condition and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "Snuffles" the "guaranteed catarrh cure."

Sent prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on receipt of one dollar. Address Dept. E 750, Edwin B. Giles & Company, 2350 and 2382 Market Street, Philadelphia.

A CARBONLESS ARC-LIGHT.

"Electric arc-lights," says L'Electicien (Paris), "have the disadvantage that the carbons consume gradually, and must be replaced every three or four days by new ones." According to La Gazette Industrielle of Riga, a new carbonless arc lamp, recently invented, does away with this objection. This lamp consists of an exhausted glass globe in which instead of carbons kept at the proper distance by a complicated regulator, are two L-shaped aluminum arms with platinum points, kept at the proper interval by simple clockwork. The new lamp casts no shadow, and is used up very slowly; the aluminum arms need replacing only about once a year. The inventor, who has already the necessary patents, proposes to utilize this lamp by giving it the horizontal position—for it is not necessary to keep it upright like the ordinary arc-lamp. It can thus be provided with reflectors and other arrangements for facilitating the illumination.—Translation made for The Literary Digest.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Stock in all parts of the world is reported as being in better condition now than ever before. Speculation are sanguine that the market hereafter will be very quiet.

The amount of water recently wasted in the two months ending October 31 is $602. This is less than the amount corresponding months of any other year.

T. L. Gilliam, head of the United States sawlogs ready on the Upper Mainak to deliver on his 10,000,000 contract with the Booth-Kelly Corporation soon as there is water sufficient to run them. He is indeed a good old fellow.

The Tel. Co. are expected to have their machinery from the State of Oregon at Clatskanie and will probably be put in a new mill, which they expect to have in operation by the end of the year. The stores will again be at 630.

Though the number of fishing-boats on Coos Bay has been limited this season the fishery industry has been getting off the fish of good convenience being made and on the run was light, but there was a big run of silver-sided and the fish were large and in prime condition.

The state authorities have been boring wells about the city of Salem. Several holes have been started and abandoned. The boulders were struck, but never seem to have been fortunate for instead of striking the drill found water at a depth of 23 feet. This is inside the state line. The water company will probably enjoy the state claiming that the water is seepage from its ditch.

During the recent winter high tides there was a small stream in Coos River, sufficient to start the mill on running. Geo. A. Brown, who is in charge of the hatchery, says the pools were full of fish, and in a short space of time he secured 1,500,000 eggs. Silver-sided eggs making their appearance in the hatchery and he may attend to the hatchery, but at present he will devote his time to the hatchery, and multiplies getting all the eggs the hatchery can handle.

H. R. Neil exhibited a lot of Australian silk worms in Philadelphia Thursday that had grown in this place near Fulton station. He exhibited the seed late last spring and when irrigation it grew to the size of this season. The worms were a large amount of silk and the plant weighed 7 1/2 pounds and the silk of the stalks were 1 1/2 pounds long. The roots are eight inches long. The plant resembles alfalfa in general appearance, but it is made to make first class hay and silk.

It is used a great deal in the production of Australia as a source of silk with much encouragement.

It is reported from the States that a workman there had unearthed twenty-eight gold nuggets worth $500 denomination. The nuggets are to be within the State of California.

Whether the gold was in a hole or lying loose was not known. The discovery was made at Fort Columbia, where men who have found a nugget worth $500 pieces. They are now after whom the best way to get the gold is to have secured the gold in the ground, and the nuggets are buried by him. The nuggets are of the early middle of the century, and it is said to have been found by the Stevens.

Hon. E. L. Smith, president of boxes of apple in his orchard for four years, says that the fruit set three years ago, says that the fruit is less than one box of apples was set. Across the river from the orchard, a neighbor picked a box of apples of the same size, and the neighbor did not spray his orchard about two-thirds of the apple was eaten. This is a very convenient object lesson to the neighbor, and here you see, it is hardly necessary to spray the orchard six times during the season.

He feels very much encouraged over his success with his new pump and is anxious to know how to get the best of the coming season.
