The Gunmaker Of Moscow

By SYLVANUS COBB, Jr.

"But what is it all?" the surgeon asked, gazing first upon Ruric and then upon the count. "Speak, some one!"

"Tell him," groaned Conrad. "Listen," said the gunmaker. "I have my suspicions. But, mind you, they are founded on facts, and the facts are these: The Duke of Tula is well nigh free from the possession of property. His half of Drozzen is all mortgaged, and he wants the other half. That other half he cannot have while Damonoff lives. The duke, too, has sworn that Rosalind Valdez shall be his wife, so he would have her property also. This humpbacked priest is Olga's tool. It was Olga who freed him more than once from deserved punishment. Last Thursday evening he was with the duke in private council, and he came from thence directly to this place. Now you can judge for yourself."

The surgeon started slightly, and then he bowed his head. A few moments he remained thus, and then he leaped up and clasped his hands. "By the living God of all things," he cried, "it is! It is! There is no burning up, as I thought, of icy, wintry fire, but the hellish work is from a human hand! Hold! I know the symptoms! I know them now. Be quiet, Conrad. It may not yet be too late."

As the surgeon spoke he hastily opened a small leather case he carried with him, and from thence he took a powerful emetic. The woman was sent for, and when she came she obtained warm water. The potion was given, a small quantity at a time, at intervals of about five minutes until the desired effect was produced. A strange mass of stuff was thrown up, and Kopani took it to the light and examined it. Most of it was of dark, brownish color, but with streaks of yellow and coarse blotches of red and green. The yellow substance was of a mucous formation, while the red and green seemed to more liquid.

"'Tis poison!" the surgeon said. "And it has been administered in small quantities."

"And cannot something be done?" asked Ruric eagerly. "Oh, save him if you can! Save him, and I'll bless you ever! You can—oh, say you can!"

The surgeon caught the youth by the hand. There was something in this noble spirit that moved him, and he knew now that all must have been forgiven between the two men.

"I'll try," he said. "I have antidotes with me. By heavens, all is not lost yet!"

"Then hasten," urged Ruric, half crazed beneath the weight of the great discovery which he had thus helped to make.

"Be not uneasy. I will see that he suffers not for want of human skill." And as the surgeon thus spoke he moved to the sideboard and mixed an antidote. But he did not give it until the invalid had vomited all he could.

"Hold!" cried Ruric as the surgeon took up the wine to mix the antidote with. "Touch not a thing here. Perhaps the villain has poisoned them all!"

"So it may be," Kopani said, setting down the bottle. He then turned to the woman, who had remained standing by the fire like one in a trance, and asked her to bring a fresh bottle of wine. She quickly obeyed, and when she was gone Kopani took all the articles upon the table and set them on one side. He would not throw them away, for he meant to analyze them.

When the woman returned, Kopani mixed the new potion and administered it, and ere long afterward the count fell asleep.

"Ruric Nevel," said the surgeon as soon as he was sure the invalid would sleep, "will you remain here awhile? I wish to go and analyze some of these things. I have only to go to the academy. I will be back in an hour at the furthest."

The gunmaker gladly consented to this, and, having gathered up the vials and the wine bottle and concealed them beneath his pelisse, the surgeon left.

Ruric Nevel was happier now, for hope was with him while he prayed that God might spare the unfortunate count.

CHAPTER XL

AN AROUNDING AFFAIR.

Half an hour had the gunmaker sat by the side of the sick man's bed when he was aroused from the over-

A BASHFUL YOUTH.

A naughty eastern exchange tells of a young man called to spend the evening with his girl. A storm came up, the girl's father asked him to remain over night and he very reluctantly accepted. He was a very bashful young man, and the next morning, when seated at the table, was very nervous and agitated. He sat opposite the mirror and discovered that he had forgotten to comb his hair. Then he dropped his fork on the floor and as he stooped to pick it up he upset his coffee. Matters went from bad to worse until finally he quit eating and put his hands under the table. The loose end of the table cloth was lying in his lap and when he touched it he turned pale. He thought it was his shirt and that in his nervous excitement while dressing he had forgotten to put the garment inside his trousers. That accounted for his embarrassment. There was no time to lose. He hurriedly stuffed the supposed shirt inside his trousers. Two minutes later when the family arose from the table there was a crash. The dishes lay in a broken mass on the floor. The young man pulled three feet of table-cloth out of his pants and fled through the door. He is now in hiding and the girl is looking for a less bashful lover.

A gentleman was driving through this section the other day when he chanced to see a boy in a field of corn which did not look very promising. Thinking to have some fun he accosted him and the following conversation took place: "Young man, your corn looks kind of yellow." "Yes, that's the kind we planted." "Don't look like you would get more than half a crop." "We don't expect to. The landlord gets the other half." Then after a short time the gentleman said: "There ain't much difference between you and a fool." "None," replied the boy, "only the nose." The last information was sufficient and the gentleman moved on his way.—Ex.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

Something New Under The Sun.

All Doctors have tried to cure catarrh by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powdery acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of catarrh, has at last perfected a treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures catarrh, by removing the cause, stopping the discharges and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the affected parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "Snuffles," the guaranteed catarrh cure, and is sold at the extremely low price of one dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"Snuffles" is the only perfect catarrh cure ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve hay fever or cold in the head.

Catarrh when neglected often leads to consumption—"Snuffles" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure catarrh in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once and write full particulars as to your condition and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "Snuffles" the "guaranteed catarrh cure."

Sent prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on receipt of one dollar. Address Dept. E 760, Edwin B. Giles & Company, 2330 and 2332 Market Street, Philadelphia.

KANSAS PROSPERITY.

Kansas has more ready money on hand at this moment than it ever had before in all its history. Its banks are filled with cash. There is on deposit in the national and state banks of that state about $85,000,000, which is in the neighborhood of $60 for each man, woman and child in the state.

This is far ahead of all past records. On a bank capital of about $15,700,-

NEWS OF THE STATE.

The Socialists organized a political party at Salem last Sunday afternoon. The party proposes to put a county ticket in the field for the June election.

News reports from Salem speak of a number of petty robberies on the streets of that city. There are many strangers there who have not disclosed their means of subsistence.

The State authorities have received the new barracks and addition to the hospital at the Soldiers home, Roseburg. The new buildings have been erected since July last.

The Oregon National Guard which is armed with Springfield breech loading rifles is to lay that one time good gun to one side and take the modern Krag-Jorgensen. The state has $7000 to its credit. This sum will buy 400 new guns.

The contract for the construction of the factory building of the Eugene Woolen Mills has been let. The machinery is to be shipped from the East as soon as the roof is on the house. The machines will fill ten freight cars.

Several daring robberies have occurred in Portland recently perpetrated by a class of burglars who are known to the police as second story thieves. Diamonds and jewelry are the articles taken. The authorities are having poor success in capturing the house breakers.

The locks and dam on the Yamhill river below Lafayette have been completed and are now prepared to stand winter floods. The cost of the work was $70,000. The lift is 16 feet. Boats have been passing through for several months even while the finishing work was in progress.

Interest in the quartz mines of Union County is reviving. About 40 miles west of La Grand, placer claims were once worked, but being about "worked out" the miners went elsewhere. This winter however the Camp has again taken on life.

Copper mining in Josephine county is attracting much attention. A Waldo mine is to install a smelter at once and give employment to 260 men. A railroad from Crescent City is projected. Another mine further north, the "Copper Stain" is furnishing some rich ore, and its owners are in a cheerful state of mind.

A barge loaded with lumber for the San Francisco market was lost at sea last week by the parting of the towing cable. Four men were on the barge and it is feared that the party is lost as a furious storm was raging at the time. The tug that was towing the barge got a new cable at Astoria and has gone in search of the lost.

The old carriage factory at Corvallis which was purchased some time ago by an Organ Manufacturing Co. has been started up again, not on wagons however, but on cases for musical instruments. Native Oak is used for one style and Ash for another. The Ash cases are about $15 cheaper than the Oak, but the latter justifies the higher price by its superior finish. The demand for the cases is pressing and every skilled mechanic who can be found is put to work.

The Universa, Sash and Door Factory now of Portland is to be moved to Astoria at once. Judge Taylor donated to the Company ground for the factory. This move seems to be desired because the factory wanted to be nearer its lumber supply. Spruce and Cedar are the woods to be used. The common point railroad rates makes this change possible since the product is shipped east at the same rate as it now goes from Portland, and the factory is released from paying the freight on lumber from down the river to Portland.

An Oakland, Oregon, paper published the week before Thanksgiving has this paragraph of the size of the turkey market in Douglas County: E. G. Young & Co. are now dressing 4,000 turkeys for shipment to San Francisco Saturday evening. This is just the commencement of the season. This shipment will fill one car and will weigh 40,000 pounds. Just think of it? Twenty tons of nice fat turkeys for the Thanksgiving table. Almost every day farmers are bringing in the birds, and all the extra men and boys in town are now earning holiday money picking turkeys. Beckley Brothers will also ship a consignment of about ten tons of dressed turkeys and geese to San Francisco Sunday morning.

STATE PRESS.

Admiral Dewey has added laurels to his fame by his manly of presiding over the Schley inquiry. The admiral always gets along all right when dealing with men. It is only when he gets tangled up with women that he is liable to blunder.—Eugene Register.
