REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The State Central Committee of the republican party met in Portland last Saturday. Every county was represented by its committee-man or his proxy, except Yamhill and Lincoln. There were vacancies in Coos and Curry, the committee-man in one having died and the other having removed. The representation was based on the vote cast for president in 1900. One delegate at large from each county and one for every 150 votes cast for President McKinley, and one for each fraction over one-half of 150. Washington county will be entitled to twelve delegates. This is a loss of one from what was sent last year, but we are not the only county that loses. Multnomah gives up three. The convention will be composed of 343 delegates. In 1900 it contained 335. The meeting will take place in Portland, April 2d. The congressional convention for the second district will meet in Portland, April 1st. The convention for the first district has not yet been called, though Dr. Harris, of Eugene, has asked his committee to meet in Portland next week to fix a time and place. Roseburg has been mentioned as a proper place, and that city may be selected. It will be expensive for the delegates from this part of the state, but then the delegates from the south have been paying liberal assessments in the shape of railroad fares, and it is no more than just that they be allowed a respite this time.

It is amusing to read how the European nations are running to cover that the cordial friendship with the United States may be maintained. Some days ago it was revealed in the English parliament that in 1898, when that government was approached by the other powers with a proposition to interfere between the United States and Spain, England said "No." Prompt denials came from Russia, France and Germany. All the mischief-making is laid to Austria. Germany acted a little queer in Manila Bay and now probably feels that something more should be said. The official German papers loudly deny that there was a thought of hindering the free hand of the United States in 1898. In addition to this denial, the papers seem anxious to swear to it. Those European powers may not feel that it is a good thing to have our friendship, but they probably see that it is a bad thing to have our ill will.

Senator Mitchell has succeeded in adding a paragraph to a bill which will reimburse Oregon in the sum of $340,000 expended by the state during the Rebellion, in 1861-5.

PORTLAND TO SAN FRANCISCO.

In going over the famous "Shasta Route" of the Southern Pacific Co. the traveler ever finds something new to excite his admiration and interest. Starting at Portland, one traverses the whole length of the Willamette Valley, the gem of the Northwest. Mt. Hood, Mt. Jefferson, and the Three Sisters and other snow-capped peaks are kept in sight for hours. The beautiful valleys of the Umpqua and Rogue rivers, with their orchards of peaches, apples and other fruits are a delight to themselves. The crossing of the great mountain barrier between California and Oregon reveals the grandest mountain scenery in the United States. The wonderful turnings, twistings and doublings of the railroad bring into view a grand array of towering mountains and profound gorges into which we gaze from dizzy heights, forest clad mountain slopes stretching up to the line of perpetual snow, and the foaming mountain streams dashing fiercely down deep canyons, now and then stopping for a short rest in some quiet pool. After a days enjoyment of old Mt. Shasta, the finest peak on the continent, we drop rapidly down the canyon of the Sacramento to the broad plains of the Sacramento Valley in California, and thence through vineyards and orchards to San Francisco.

deep valley he must climb the next range, but when he was half way up the snow began to fall again, and he became bewildered. He could not see the stars and would have to trust to luck. So he swung himself over the divide and rushed down the slopes. Another range to climb, and still it snowed, and later the wind rose and tossed the snow aloft in great spectral wreaths that looked to his distorted vision like shrouds. But that warm bundle so close to his heart gave him courage, and he pushed on.

Five hours he had been traveling steadily. He could not remember how many ranges he had passed. He had forgotten how many ranges he was to cross to reach the town. He made some descents that equalled the famous race course, narrowly escaping trees and rocks, holding one arm about the bundle, patting it as he heard it stir. Again he was caught in an avalanche, reaching the bottom waist deep in snow, the baby almost buried. It was now daylight, and after digging his feet out he unrolled the bundle and, protecting it, gave the baby a ration of the milk, which had kept warm against his body. It looked wonderingly at him the while, and George, who knew very little about babies, made up his mind that it must be a very good natured one.

He did not realize how weary he was until he started up again. Then he found that his foot had been twisted and he was lame. The cold was increasing, the snow was finer and filled his eyes, and he felt that this was the beginning of the end. But on he pressed until the afternoon, when the baby cried, and he stopped to give it the remainder of the milk, looking at the little face with red and desperate eyes. On he went again, now running, now limping, plunging down the slopes until he began to experience a strange oppression, as though a band of iron was about his head. Then he seemed to be at home, and he tried to ask his mother to take the baby. He suddenly stopped, trembling, realizing that his mind was not clear, and dashed snow upon his forehead. Then he rushed on again like a madman.

How far he went no one knows to this day, but it had been many miles in the wrong direction, when, with a wild laugh, which frightened those who heard it, Long Barton unsling a bundle and plunged into a half buried wickup, from the top of which sparks were rising. The men reached for their firearms at sight of the gigantic and wild eyed figure, but the squaw, laying her papoose among the blankets, with unerring instinct caught the bundle from the hands of the falling man, and Jim Grayson's baby was saved. As for "Tanglefoot" Barton, one of the half breeds, who came in to the village from another wickup and who understood English, said he had seen a race—Charles F. Holder in New York Evening Post.

Dyspepsia and Liver Disease
CURED BY
DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

"I was weak, nervous and dizzy, with a fainting sensation when walking," writes Jesse Chas. Hox, of Salem, Indiana, Co. Tenn. "Could not walk any distance; always felt hot after eating; felt as though something was sticking in my throat; always unclean in stomach. Doctored with three physicians but they did not relieve me. I grew worse and used everything I could think of; was nearly ready to give up and then came out to me Dr. Pierce's medicine was good. I began taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have taken seven bottles of that now and am as strong as ever, and enjoying health as much as ever before. I worked all summer and this winter as much as any one. My cure was liver disease and nervous dyspepsia of which your medicine has cured me. In September I weighed 150 lbs. and now I weigh 175 lbs. I am in it. Please accept my sincere thanks."

kills, not necessarily suddenly, but surely. It preys upon the intellectual powers more than we realize. It consumes the vitality faster than nature can replenish it, and we cannot tell just what moment a temporary or complete aberration of the mind will result. Headache and pain should be promptly removed—but properly. Many pain cures are more harmful than the pain. Beware. If you would be safe, take

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

"As a result of neuralgia I lost the sight of my right eye, and the pain I have suffered is incomprehensible. A friend gave me one of Dr. Miles' Pain Pills and it promptly relieved me. I then purchased a box and my trouble is gone. They have also cured my daughter of nervous headache, and I heartily recommend them to others."—W. J. COLLEY, Bremont, Texas.
