THE MERGER IN POLITICS.

The movement of large financial interests to prevent the renomination of Roosevelt seems to be taking quite formidable shape. These interests know what a power they can exert, as on various occasions it has been demonstrated that when the capital of the country becomes alarmed its power in politics is considerable,-Washington News Report,

Do the large financial interests of the country want to wage a campaign along the lines indicted in the quoted paragraph? If they do, there is little doubt but that an accomodation can be secured.

It has always been a favorate paragraph with a lot of people to state that there is only one millionaire to a hundred or two common every day citizens. But the rich man's vote counts for no more than his plebeian brother and since there are more of the latter class the former can under no circumstances win the election. If Mr. Roosevelt antagonizes the club. Merger capital will certainly terest that opposes Cuban sugar recibe worsted. It may as well give up the fight now. The situation will be less humiliating. In an appeal to votes, the majority rules.

Such remarks invariably arouse a flow of thought and the question arises—is ours, really a free country? Undeniably it is

If Mr. Roosevelt antagonizes the merger and the railroad people make that an issue, the result can now be seen. Indeed it is to be desired that the trusts, if dissatisfied with the treatment heretofore received, should take their grievances to the ballot box.

But reasonable people are not opposed to wealthy men till they begin to be domineering. They recognize the right of every man of money to use his possessions but not to oppress his neighbor. To prevent this wrong use of wealth, is why Pres.
