FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1902.

It now looks like Congress will so far complete its business that an adjournment of the session can be had by July 4th.

The Senate canal bill has gone to a conference committee of the two houses. The House committee accepts the Senate bill and that is the measure to pass. If a title to the Panama route can be had it will be taken and the Nicaragua route abandoned.

An anti-expansionist suggests that we sell the Philippines to Japan for $150,000,000 payable on the installment plan. Now to the Independent it seems that if we have a title to the islands sufficient to justify Japan to buy and us to sell, we have such title as will justify us in keeping them.

The Astoria Herald thinks that the plurality for Chamberlain ought to have been 25,000 instead of the paltry 250. This because Chamberlain is far superior to Furnish, Would it not be well for the Herald to wait three or four years and see how the governor elect demeans himself and how he conducts public business.

The Dalles Mountaineer considers the difficulties in the way of cutting a canal through the Isthmus of Panama or through the Nicaraguan Isthmus and realizes that the project after all is experimental, wherefore it suggests that the dream of uniting the oceans be abandoned, and that the government construct a railroad across the continent from New York to San Francisco. The railroad is feasible and will not cost as much as the canal. As a means of national defense the railroad would be far more valuable than the canal.

The flat salary proposition is still troubling Gov.-elect Chamberlain. He seems to yet want the impression left with the people that a flat salary law will save money for the state. In his own case at least he does not mean it. The flat salary already provided by the constitution is $1500. Now if the governor gets more than that the state will not save money. It is nonsense for Mr. Chamberlain to claim that the mention of $1500 in the constitution is a minimum limit. All the courts from 1860 to the present have held differently. If Mr. Chamberlain secures the passage of a law giving him a flat salary of $5000, it will be held unconstitutional unless it goes to the people by the referendum, which abrogates all constitutional objections. Will the people vote to pay the governor $5000?

King Edward VII of England, whose crowning ceremonies were to have occurred today and tomorrow, June 27 and 28, came down with an attack of perityphlitis which is inflamation of the tissues surrounding the cæcum. To the laity the ailment will be exact enough when it is termed apendicitis, though physicians recognize a difference. An opperation was performed on Tuesday last by Treves, the most celebrated abdominal surgeon of the world. The patient ralied fairly well but is not yet out of danger. He is an old man, neerly 61 years, and report proclaims that his life has not always been marked with austerity. The crowning ceremonies have been postponed. If ordinary recovery is made, it will be six weeks or two months before it will be safe for the king to undertake the fatigues attending the pageants.

Ex-Gov. Wood of Cuba, being charged with using $2800 taken from the Cuban treasury to attempt to influence public opinion in the United States in favor of rebating to Cuba the duties or part of them collected on sugar and tobacco imports, answers that he used not $2,800 but $8400. The Brooklyn Eagle remarks that such a frank declaration will do more than anything else to offset the unfortunate impression created by the published details of these disbursments. But after all does such frankness convince that such use of money is proper? And besides the sugar trust contributes large sums for the same purpose. The creation of a corruption fund by the American Sugar Refining Co. is no new thing and any people who help to increase the size of the pot must take the odium that attaches and a prompt acknowledgement of the fact will not remove the fetid odor.

NO COMPROMISE.

Under this head, the Argus of June 12, issues an appeal to the faithful to watch out or the Hills, the Whitneys and the Gormans will get control of the democratic party. As Whitcomb Riley would say, "The goblins will get you if you don't watch out." The Argus says that if this element gets control of the democratic organization, millions of democrats will bolt the ticket in the next election. It may be so, but the Independent doubts it. Of one thing it is certain, that the Argus will not be one of the millions. It has no intention of bolting and will support the ticket with either Hill or Gorman on it for president, and the "spiel" it makes about bolting is simply a little "hot air" to fool the populists. It wishes to make populists believe that it is a good populist organ and will not stand any monkey business, and when the next election comes around, it will say that the Hill and Gorman influence was defeated, no difference what the fact may be, and appeal to the populists to stand by the democrats because of such defeat. The fact is, and it is apparent to everyone, that the Bryan element has lost control of the democracy, and will not have a ghost of a show in the next national convention. In state after state, the democrats are adopting platforms which utterly ignore Mr. Bryan, free silver, and his pet hobbies. The Oregon platform ignored them utterly, but that didn't abate the enthusiasm of the Argus in the slightest degree, although it never dared publish the platform. It did venture to publish the Philippine plank, and called it the "true doctrine." Mr. Chamberlain contemptuously kicked this platform from under his feet and refused to stand on it. But the Argus only supported him that much stronger. The Independent predicts that the next national democratic platform will refuse to indorse the Chicago or the Kansas City platform, that it will refuse to indorse free silver, that it will not denounce the specific contract law. In other words; that it will not indorse a single one of the peculiar isms of Mr. Bryan and his following, that it will be under the control of the conservative democrats, and that the Argus will take its medicine like a little man. It will not only eat crow, but will swear that it is good.

SWEDEN UNDERSTOOD AMERICA.

Now that the question as to who was our friend at the time of the war with Spain has been thrashed out, one might start a discussion as to who really thought we were going to win. At the Hotel Mandattan yesterday C. S. Clark, of Chicago, was telling of a trip he took through Europe in the summer of 1898, and of what he found the sentiment on this question to be. "Outside of England, which we who were abroad that year felt to be really like home, I found but one place where it was thought we would win. In France we were foolish, in Austria they had us paying an indemnity to Spain, but up in Sweden I found a young officer in a naval station who was confident that we would wipe the Spanish navy off the water. Somehow or other he had managed to see something of the inside of the Spanish navy, and also of the navy of the United States, and hence, he said, came his confidence. I remember, too, he remarked to me, 'If you do whip Spain you will have to double your navy. That's the penalty of victory.' I found many other people in Sweden who were most friendly to us; they all seemed to have a most friendly regard for the United States, and admiration for our power and our methods of doing things."—New York Tribune.

The Portland Journal, the organ of the democracy in the late election campaign, seems to be ill at ease lest platform resolutions may not be observed. Did it never occur to the Journal that the republican party has a better record on that score than its own organization? But here is a little bit of information. The republicans propose to keep platform pledges in their own way and not according to the dictation of opponents.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $11,500.00 and was paid by a party of business men for a specific for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, hitherto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scores of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. They also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicians for judges. Up to Aug. 5, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Address JOHN J.
