Messrs. J. C. and W. G. - Hare have now a full line of moving machines, rakes, binders, wagons, etc., which they are offering at prices that justify intending purchasers to investigate before buying elsewhere. Ware rooms on Main street between Second and Third.

Mr. Henry Hogroef who was at work Tuesday last with a fork hoisting hay got his hand on a rope that was pulled through it so that the flesh of the palm and the inside of the fingers was stripped off. It was a case of what is sometimes called burning with a rope. The lacerated hand was dressed by Dr. Linklater.

The Modern Woodmen of America of Beedville will give a picnic in Allen's grove one mile north of that village tomorrow, July 12. In the morning a literary program will be rendered but the afternoon will be given up to games and merry making. The public will be hospitably welcomed. Hon. W. N. Barrett will make the principal address.

The Imperial Supply Company, which up to the first of July had a home in Hillsboro, has moved to Portland and has opened headquarters at 224 1/2 First street. The business of the company is selling through agents, plated and solid silverware. Already about 20 salesmen are in the field and the prospect for building a profitable business is bright.

E. W. Haines some days ago finished stringing wire into Gaston and now the people of that town have electric lights. The route followed is on the east side of the Tualatin from Dillay. Several farm houses accessible to the line have lights installed. It begins to look like electric lights in farm houses are to be as common as telephones. The thing is quite as practicable.

The Hillsboro Cornet Band that furnished outdoor music for the Amity celebration received many compliments from the people of Yamhill county. The musicians do not say, but the others of us think that all the kind words are deserved. We have good musicians and they make an extra fine appearance when on duty. This was remarked in Portland where our players came in contact with the city bands at the time of the A. O. U. W. parade.

Nearly all of the district school clerks reports have been filed with Supt. Ball. A perusal of the reports received indicate that there is an increase of at least 100 school children in the county over the number reported last year when 5551 were found. This is the first year that an increase has been shown since Supt. Ball has been in office. Hillsboro shows a small increase. Clerk Boscow reports 459. District 15, Forest Grove, has 399. Thus it appears that Hillsboro has more people than Forest Grove, notwithstanding the census of 1900 showed a few more residents in the latter.

A petitioner was in town last Monday for the purpose of consulting School Supt. Ball in relation to the best way to add a sixth grade to the public school at Sand Pit in East Cedar precinct. The patrons desire that their children shall be able to advance beyond the curriculum furnished by the eight grades that is now established in all of the schools, without going to the academies away from home. It is required by law that before the advanced work can be taken up school in the district where desired must be maintained ten months in the year. It is presumed, though the petitioner did not so state, that the Sand Pit school is in session each year for that length of time, though in some of the districts in that neighborhood studies are pursued only six months, the patrons claiming that there is not time for a longer term. The services of the children is demanded in the union patches in the spring and early summer so that school in April, May and June can have no pupils or very few. July and August are the hot months.

Congressman Tongue stepped off the train Tuesday evening and was warmly greeted by his friends. He is glad to be at home and declares that the first breath of cool invigorating air was the mouthful taken this side of the Cascades. The session of congress just closed has been one of work and Mr. Tongue's appearance shows that he has done his part. He is worked down though his health appears to be perfect. Rest will restore to usual appearance. Mr. Tongue has been remarkably successful in securing favorable legislation on all the projects he had in hand, and he comes home to his summer vacation with more things done than any representative that has before represented his district. This is due to work and his power to secure what he undertakes, is cumulative. We, his constituents, begin to see how we are advantaged by returning the same man term after term.

On Monday night Roy Moore while asleep had something enter his left ear which gave him so much trouble that he found it necessary to consult Dr. Bailey the next day. There was such a rumbling, scraping and buzzing with pain that the lad felt sure some bug had entered deeply into the ear. The intruder, which the Dr. removed with an ear spoon, proved to be a large spider, and though so long imprisoned in the ear was able when taken out to spin away without thinking his liberator or host.

Mr. Kuratli noticed near his farm at Phillips last Monday morning a dark Jersey cow with a young calf. The cow stayed in the same spot without water till Wednesday evening when she was driven to the barn and milked, watered and fed. Dilligent inquiry for the owner has not been found to this time he has not been found. The cow and calf are now at the farm of David Kuratli, Phillips.

A sergeant of the Seattle police was in Hillsboro this week on his annual vacation. Talking of Sheriff Cadihee who is after the convict Tracy, he said that he is a resourceful man, with sand. He is untiring and if Tracy is not caught it will be because he flies from the neighborhood of Seattle.

City Marshal Atkinson's son fell from a cherry tree on Tuesday last and broke his right collar bone. Dr. F. A. Bailey adjusted the fractured bone and thinks his patient will make rapid recovery notwithstanding the rather severe vomiting which sometimes is considered a symptom of internal injury.

There is not much sickness in Hillsboro but so much cannot be said of the county. Last Tuesday one of our physicians drove fifty miles. This however was not done with one team. At one farmhouse, J. C. Miller living North of Glencoe, eight patients were visited who are down with measles.

A black bear is reported to have crossed the road near the long bridge last Wednesday night as it went from the slaughter house into John Peters' pasture. No stock was missing yesterday so the bear may have contented himself with a bone.

Hon. Frank Davy, representative elect from Marion county was in Hillsboro on Wednesday last. It was understood that he was here looking after a setting of fences that encloses the speakership of the next house.

A sneak was shot at on Monday night last on the penitentiary wall at Salem. It is supposed that he was attempting to make an entrance for the purpose of allowing the Tracy-Merrill episode to be repeated.

Dr. W. D. Wood starts this morning for a trip of a week or ten days into Eastern Oregon. While away he will visit Baker City, Sumpter and perhaps Sparta.

Mr. Thos. Cornelius whose health has been one of the best for several months, started for Eastern Oregon on Tuesday evening last. He had Burns, Harney county for an objective though he may stop before he gets there.

Born July 3, to the wife A. L. Hawkins in Hillsboro, a daughter.

Born July 4, to the wife of Peter Kriger of Mountaineer, a son.

Dr. George Merryman this week took the state examination required by law before doctors are permitted to practice medicine. He will not know the result for two weeks or a month.

The Amity, Yamhill county celebration that was to have been on the 4th but which was postponed till a fair day was held on Tuesday last. No more perfect day could have been selected. The Hillsboro Cornet Band went up to furnish the music.

Mrs. J. W. Miller, well known in Hillsboro by the residents of 20 years ago, died at her home in Portland last Monday. The deceased was the wife of Rev. J. W. Miller, a former pastor of the Hillsboro M. E. church.

Dr. A. E. Tameble of the Salem hospital is visiting his brother J. P. in Hillsboro and his father on the farm near Glencoe. Dr. August has not been in Hillsboro before this call for four years. He notes some changes principally the growth of the youngsters to men and women.

While riding his wheel on last Saturday Mr. L. Bailey, of Cornelius met with an accident that will put him on crutches for several days. While speeding along at a rapid pace the handle bars suddenly gave way throwing the rider to the hard sidewalk. The left knee was dislocated and the cartilages of the joint seriously injured. Dr. Bailey attended patient and at last accounts he was resting easy.

Last Friday, July 4, was a dull day in Hillboro. The streets were completely deserted. Most of our people attended the celebration at Cornelius. The weather was not ideal, but it was fair enough so that the attendance reached into the thousands. Considering the weather that had prevailed for several days the celebration was all that one could ask. Mr. W. G. Hare made the oration which is spoken of in high terms by those who heard it. The games in the afternoon furnished amusement.

Laborers in the hay fields are few and the wages offered are remunerative. A farmer in the northeast part of the county offered farm laborer two dollars per day and board. The party worked one day and quit saying that he can do better in the logging camps. Good weather is now assured and it is possible to leave hay longer in the field farmers will be able to save the crop without the help of so large a force of emergency labor as showery weather requires.

A member of the "infant squad" of the First Oregon Infantry remembers this condition of things that existed in Oregon no more in Yamhill county where he saw what was done than in other parts of the state. "A number of overt acts of the rebel sympathizers in Yamhill county, such as trailing the flag in the dust after tearing it from the flagstaff during the night, raising the secession flag at a farm house in the country, and refusing to lower it, occasional assaults on loyal men, hurrahing for the confederacy and its president, all tended to arouse a dominant spirit of loyalty in loyal men." Studying the citizenship of the state today it is difficult to realize that such acts of disloyalty could be indulged 40 years ago.

Mr. John Opelander who lives two miles north of Cornelius had an accident happen to him yesterday that ends in concussion of the brain. The injured man was at work yesterday forenoon on a barn that is building on the Schofield place this side of Cornelius. He was on the side of the building against which was leaning a fire pole four or five inches in diameter. This stick fell. His fellow workmen called "lookout" to the man in danger. He looked up just in time to meet the falling stick which struck the top of his head. Dr. Bailey found the man unconscious and yesterday afternoon he could not certainly say what the result will be.

Mrs. Martin while washing her floor with a cloth last Tuesday thrust a sewing needle eye first into her wrist. The needle broke leaving a part in the wound. Dr. Bailey cut down to the bone and found the little steel firmly bedded in the bone. It was with some trouble that he got hold of it, though he finally fastened on to the end and removed it. Now that the needle is out the hurt seems trivial, but it was otherwise before.

Superintendent Ball is arranging for the county teachers' institute which is to be held Sept. 23, 24, 25, 26. He has secured two lecturers without doubt the best that will instruct Oregon teachers this year. Preston W. Search of Holyoke, Mass. and Prof. French of the Monmouth Normal school. Search will deliver three lectures per day. On two days of the course he will speak twice in the day and the third will be in the evening where the public generally will be urged to attend. Mr. Search is a man of fine appearance, full six feet high, about 60 years of age and an author of note in school literature. His latest book is one dealing with a subject that should receive attention, individuality as opposed to class training. Portland wanted Mr. Search but being shy of money the superintendent of Multnomah united with the Seattle people who has a pet and will not employ the Massachusetts man. Mr. Ball thinks he has a treat in store for the teachers and citizens of the county. He is also considering a program for a fifth day to be for school officers. The only thing that causes doubt is the fear that directors might neglect to attend.
